LINDSEY MAY SUE BISHOP IN CLASH

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Former Judge Ben B. Lindsey, companionate marriage advocate, pleaded not guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct preferred against him by a police detective in West Side Court here today.

Lindsey was paroled in the custody of his attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, for a further hearing December 12.

The charge arose when Lindsey was ejected from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine yesterday forenoon during services, when Lindsey demanded to be heard after Bishop William T. Manning attacked the former Denver jurist and his companionate marriage plan from the pulpit.

CAN SUE, HE SAYS

The possibility that a third act in the drama may be staged in the civil courts was intimated by Judge Lindsey. He said:

"I have been advised that I probably have a right to bring a $1,000,000 slander suit against Bishop Manning, but, after all, I am more interested in the cause I stand for than in myself.

"If I could sue him for the slander of the program of companionate marriage, I would be much more interested."

He said he would welcome the opportunity to defend himself and his theories, if not in the cathedral, in the police court.

Lindsey hastened from the uptown courtroom to catch a train for Reading, Pa., where he is to speak. He said that he would peruse the charge more thoroughly before consulting with Samuel Untermyer regarding action other than defense of the disorderly charge. He declared:

"I want to say that his (Bishop Manning's) talk, I think, was slanderous of me. More than that, it was slanderous of the companionate marriage program, which is not free love.

CRITICIZES BISHOP

"Bishop Manning is smarting under the sting of a turndown from his own clergy. In order to vent his spleen he is painting me black.

"I have been told that I can sue for $1,000,000 for libel, but I don't care to for myself. I would like to sue for libel against companionate marriage."

The reference to a "turndown" was made concerning the action of the Churchmen's Association, which ignored the advice of Bishop

PERSHING TELLS OF WAR TRIALS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—How he refused to permit the American Expeditionary Forces to be used as recruiting filler for the British, French and Belgian armies is told in graphic detail by Gen. John J. Pershing in his newly-completed story of America's participation in the World War.

Newspaper publication of the war leader's memoirs is set for January. The story will appear exclusively in Pittsburgh in the Sun-Telegraph; in the member papers of the North American Newspaper Alliance and in a few selected other papers.

VIGOROUS NARATIVE

For more than a year and a half Pershing worked on his 260,000-word narrative, which experts pronounce as vigorous and compelling as his handling of his country's fighting forces in Europe. In it, he reveals for the first time the tremendous dif-

Showboat Rum Sales Gets Man 6 Months

Don Collins pleaded guilty to selling two pints of whisky on the showboat along the Allegheny last May and was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today. A woman friend of Collins introduced two prohibition agents to him and they bought the liquor prior to the raid, prohibition agents testified. The boat was ordered padlocked, but this was suspended when the craft changed owners.

Capt. Hawks' Glider Gets Museum Niche

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A much-traveled glider, flown by Capt. Frank Hawks in a transcontinental journey last spring, was retired today to a Smithsonian Institution niche. In the same hall Charles A. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" is suspended.

JAIL PREPARED FOR THOMPSON

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8.—With a last minute fight under way, preparations are being made to receive J. V. Thompson, aged former coal baron, in the Fayette County jail tomorrow.

It was intimated at the jail today that when "J. V." is committed, he will be shown no favors, but from other sources it was hinted that the once multi-millionaire will be given quarters outside the cell section of the county prison building.

Judge J. W. Dawson declared today that no exceptions to the order committing Thompson to jail tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock had been presented, but Attorney E. C. Higbee, counsel for Thompson, declared that exceptions would be filed tomorrow, and if they failed, an attempt would be made to have an appeal to a higher court act as a supersedeas.

EVICT FAMILY AT AIRPORT

Deputy sheriffs today were evicting Charles L. Lutz and his wife from their homestead on the new county airport site after they had lost a long legal battle to prevent being ousted.

Household goods were moved from the house in Mifflin Township preparatory to razing the structure in the process of grading for the landing field.

Lutz recently was defeated in his effort to retain his home by a decision of the State Supreme Court, which held that he must accept the award fixed in condemnation proceedings for his property and permit the county to take possession.

CONDEMNED ANTI-REDS SPARED

Five Sentenced to Die Win Appeal and Get 10-Years In Jail in Dramatic Scene

MOSCOW, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Soviet Central Executive Committee today commuted the death sentences of five engineers, convicted of a plot to overthrow the Soviet regime, to 10 years' imprisonment.

Sentences of 10 years imprisonment passed on the remaining three defendants in the unusually dramatic trial which was broadcast from one end of the Soviet Union to the other, were reduced to eight years.

Soviet law gave the doomed men 48 hours for an appeal for clemency, but there was no expectation that such an appeal would gain consideration. The verdict of the four judges who heard the trial was read at midnight Sunday, Russian time.

The five men saved from the firing squad by today's action are Leonid Ramsin, leader of the movement; Victor Larichev, Nikolai Charnovsky, Ivan Kalinikov anr Alexander Fedotov.

The prisoners heard the verdict and sentences impassively. Ramsin gripped the desk in front of him and listened intently until he heard his name and then seemed to take no further notice of the proceedings. Larichev stood with downcast eyes. Charnovsky gulped two glasses of water after requesting an attendant to bring them.

The courtroom, former ballroom of the old Union Club or House of Columns, was filled with spectators, all of whom had waited from 6 a. m. until after 11 o'clock for the judges to appear. As Judge Vishinsky read the verdict and the sentences there was a roar of applause. Outside 10,000 others, unable to get in, listened at microphones and likewise applauded.

Pinchot Not Against Blue Law Change

Gov.-Elect Pinchot will not oppose a bill modifying the Pennsylvania Blue Laws, according to opinions expressed in Council today by Councilmen M. J. Muldowney and Clifford B. Connelley. Both were members of the Pittsburgh councilmanic committee which conferred with a similar committee from Philadelphia last week on ways and means to be adopted for modifying the present old laws.

Connelley said:

"I have been given to understand that the new governor has had a change of heart and will listen to reason."

Muldowney said that he returned from the meeting confident that Gov. Pinchot does not oppose a change in the law.

The Nye Committee —VS.— The American People

The people of the several states are no longer to be allowed to determine what senators shall represent their states in Congress.

A senatorial committee is now to investigate every election and decide whether the people of the states are competent to elect their senators, and whether the senators elected by the people meet the approval of the bureaucratic senatorial committee.

Many of the elected senators who do not meet the approval of the committee, have not been seated by the Senate.

In other words, the states and the people of the states are deprived of the right to elect their own senatorial representatives, and in its place is substituted the right—or rather the WRONG— of a senatorial committee practically to select senators and to decide when the public's will shall be recognized and when it shall not.

Surely the right of the Senate to determine the fitness of its members does not extend to this revolutionary length.

Surely it does not supersede the constitutional right, the fundamental popular right, the essential American right of the people to elect their own representatives.

If the alleged right of a handful of self-sufficient senators conflicts with the fundamental rights of the American people, then the one immediately necessary procedure is to amend the constitution and deprive these fatuous senators of the privilege they so dangerously abuse.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

PINCHOT TO GET IRENE'S APPEAL

HARRISBURG, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The case of Irene Schroeder, trigger-woman slayer, and her companion, W. Glenn Dague, sentenced to death for killing a state highway patrolman, will be inherited by the Pinchot administration.

Failure of counsel for the pair to apply to the State Board of Pardons for commutation of the death sentences today automatically delayed final disposition of the case until February, after Gov. Fisher leaves office.

The Pardon Board today completed its calendar of cases to be heard December 17, the last meeting of the present board.

The attorney for the pair has said he would apply to the board for clemency. Gov. Fisher, awaiting receipt of court records in the case, has held up the official act setting the date of their executions. He may not sign the death warrants before he leaves office.

The present board goes out of office with the outgoing administration.

Duke of Sutherland To Visit Film Stars

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Duke of Sutherland, who has been in New York incognito, has left for Hollywood to visit Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, film stars.

'PHONE PLANTS TO ENLARGE

New construction in Pittsburgh and its vicinity in 1931, costing approximately $12,300,000, has been planned by the Bell Telephone Company, according to F. J. Chesterman, vice president, who said today that nearly $7,500,000 will be spent for plant expansion and service betterment in Pittsburgh alone.

The proposed expenditures represent part of the $35,000,000 budget for the entire state, announced yesterday at Philadelphia by Leonard H. Kinnard, president of the company.

This figure, it was pointed out, exceeds by nearly $5,000,000 the average annual expenditure for new construction throughout the state during the five-year period from 1926 to 1930, inclusive.

Survey engineers pointed out that behind this increase in expansion appropriations there is a prediction that there will be an increase of about 160 per cent in new subscribers in 1931.

Plans here call for additions to the Pittsburgh headquarters building; the central building at Oakmont, and a new building at Coraopolis.

'WATERING' OF STOCK IGNORED

U. S. Solicitor Declares State Body 'Indifferent' To Utilities Cost Padding

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Charles Russell, Power Commission solicitor, told Justice Adkins in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission has "stood by" and failed to apply the law while the Clarion Power Company issued new stocks on "watered stock."

The solicitor said more than $6,000,000 of the net investment was "watered."

His statement was made during an argument against the application of the Clarion company for an injunction to dismiss the Power Commission's disallowance of more than $6,000,000 from the company's reported net investment of $11,032,816.

P. S. C. "INDIFFERENT"

Russell added that the Public Service Commission had displayed a "similar attitude of indifference" toward other electric power companies in Pennsylvania. He asserted that so long as the state commission declined to investigate the financial status of these companies, the only relief which might be expected would have to come from the federal government.

The charge against the state commission climaxed the reading of a letter from a farmer at King's Landing, Crawford County. The correspondent said that the Clarion company charged $3.85 for current 12 months in the year, although cottages at King's Landing were occupied but three months.

The Crawford man concluded his letter by saying:

"If we have to wait 50 years or until the expiration of the license to obtain all the facts on investment costs, members of the Public Service Commission and the Federal Power Commission will be dead, and

Pinchot to Attend Jobless Conference

MILFORD, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot, who will become chief executive of the state for the second time on January 20, will attend the unemployment conference at Albany, N. Y., January 23, called by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Pinchot has a large committee studying the unemployment situation.

Cereal Heiress Gets $1,500,000 by Will

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Eleanor Hutton Sturges, whose marriage to Preston Sturges, the playwright, was disapproved by her family, has reached her majority and come into possession of $1,500,000 made in manufacture of cereals and bequeathed her by her grandparents.

President's Grandchildren Guests in White House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Soon after daylight three youngsters awakened today in unfamiliar rooms, rubbed their eyes and perhaps looked outside to see their grandfather on the lawn energetically throwing a heavy ball.

Their names were Peggy Ann, Herbert III, and Joan. The cheerful clatter they set up was strange to the big house, for it was all too long since it had been occupied by such young and carefree people.

If grandfather looked up to smile it was only for a moment. He had to rush off to his office, where he is a very important person, with heavy problems awaiting him.

So began the first whole day at the White House for the three youngest Hoovers, who have come to live with the President and Mrs. Hoover while their father, Herbert, Jr., is in the South getting well.

They arrived yesterday after four nights and three days on the train from their home in California. Mrs. Hoover met them at the station and took them forthwith to the four-room nursery which had been established on the third floor of the presidential residence. There they will live.

They are prepared to be very good, for Christmas is coming soon. Mrs. Hoover already has been out looking for toys to fill their stockings.

Dolly and Alice Seem to Have 'Made Up'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Far from harboring resentment on the question of social precedence, Mrs. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, and Mrs. Longworth, wife of the Speaker of the House, called each other by first names when they met at the last White House reception, it was revealed today.

Mrs. Longworth's greeting was:

"Hello, Dolly."

Mrs. Gann replied:

"Hello, Alice."

Friends of both watched them clasp hands and concluded any differences there might have been between them were no more.

Pittsburgh Boy Violinist, Composer Win Acclaim

Two Pittsburgh musicians, one a seasoned artist, the other a novice, won distinctive triumphs last night in widely separated zones and before audiences of widely divergent musical tastes.

Jaques Larner, 14, of 2839½ Wylie avenue, was acclaimed in New York as one of America's leading young masters of the violin. He appeared as soloist with the Manhattan Symphony Orchestra at St. George's Church, with Henry Hadley conducting.

According to International News Service, New York critics highly praised his masterful interpretation of the difficult Bruch Concerto in G Minor. Larner is a pupil of Max Shapiro.

Jaques is an honor student at Schenley High School. A bright musical future has been forecast for him by such masters as Leopold Auer, Eddie Brown, Leo Schultz, Leon Sermitini and Richard Chervosky.

In far-away Augsburg, Germany, last night, Antonia Modarelli's opera, "Sakuntala," was given its premier and met with instant acclaim. Associated Press dispatches carried words of high praise from German critics.

Born and reared in Braddock, Modarelli became conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra this season.

Modarelli, who resides at Wellesley and King avenues, East End, holds the distinction of being the only American composer in the Society of German Composers, of which Richard Strauss is president. The newest offering is the second presentation of this composer in Germany. A ballet pantomime, "Ocean Flight," based on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Paris hop, was successfully given in 1929.

$25,000 to Charity Here Depends on Missing Kin

Frank H. Cullen can have between $25,000 and $30,000 by proving his identity at the Commonwealth Trust Company. The money was left to him by his sister, Miss Beatrice F. Cullen, formerly of Pittsburgh, who died in Miami, Fla., September 5, 1928.

If Cullen is not found, the funds will go to various crippled children's homes in accordance with the terms of the will.

Cullen was last heard from in London about 15 years ago and advertisements there brought no word of his whereabouts.

Vice President and Trust Officer Earl A. Morton, of the Commonwealth Trust Company, said today the death of Miss Cullen revealed a most interesting story.

Under the terms of the will, the estate was first to go to Mrs. Alice M. West, a sister who lived in the hotel Henry and who died November 30, 1928. At the time of the latter's death, she was buried out of the funds of the estate of Miss Cullen.

Some time later a safe deposit box was opened in Miami and around $18,000 in cash, and an additional $9,000 found in an envelope with Mrs. West's name on it. The $18,000 has been made a part of the original estate, which would amount to between $25,000 and $27,000, provided the West envelope is really Miss Cullen's property.

Mrs. West had no estate, but drew $300 from the estate of her sister, several weeks before her death. Nothing at first was known about the money in the safe deposit box in Miami. Trust Officer George H. Stengel believes that the money in the West envelope was in reality that of the sister, Miss Cullen, and will endeavor to have the courts so declare.

DRYS AND ANTIS MEET AT CAPITAL TO LAUNCH NEW DRIVES

BOTH SIDES GIRD FOR BATTLE

Repeal Moves to Be Fought; Wickersham Commission Resumes Its Sessions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Prohibition took the center of the stage in the capital today.

The Wickersham Commission resumed its sessions, seeking to arrive at some agreement on what to report; the leaders of a score of dry organizations started a grand council meeting to plan for the future, and in still another meeting the opponents of prohibition gathered in a "constitutional convention" to seek a unified plan for repeal.

LARGE GATHERING

The gathering of the drys is the largest the capital has seen in many months. The announced purpose of their meeting is to consider the existing state of prohibition, and to lay plans for meeting the attacks on it in the future. Almost 100 men and women, representing a score of such organizations as the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. U. and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals are attending the council.

BUDGET SHRINKS

The annual budget of the Anti-Saloon League has shrunk to $1,500,000, and the leaders are concerned about it. They are planning to increase the annual budget to three or four times this amount, and the three-day session, which began today, is to be largely concerned with ways and means of raising this fund.

Dr. Ira Landrith, of Chicago, president of the National Temperance Council, sounded the keynote of that meeting in his opening address, saying:

"We are met to re-educate public opinion against this dangerous doctrine, at whatever cost to personal safety, allegiance to cherished plans, or to our party loyalties, when they are betrayed by platform builders or political leaders, who, for example, would rather be wet than president.

"NO APPEAL."

"We meet to repeal what all informed and thoughtful men know, that this amendment cannot and shall not be repealed, and that it must not be nullified."

Also tending to focus public interest upon prohibition was the annual report issued today by Dr. James M. Doran, former prohibition commissioner and now head of the industrial alcohol bureau. It showed that for the year ended June 30 one of approximately every 1,800 residents of the United States was arrested for dry law violations.

'Peaches' Browning Fights $15,000 Suit

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Frances Heenan (Peaches) Browning appeared today before Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan to defend a $15,000 suit brought against her by Edgar Allen, her former manager, who claims $15,000 of her $60,000 earnings from June, 1928, to April, 1929, under an oral contract.

Peaches found the courtroom packed to the doors when she arrived. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Caroline Heenan, who is the legal defendant of the suit under the claim that Peaches is not yet of legal age and who is basing defense upon the ground that Peaches was not legally responsible.

A WILLING HOLDUP VICTIM—By Quin Hall

P. S. C. ASSAILED IN POWER CASE

no adjustment of our rates will be made in time to relieve us."

ASKS FEDERAL CONTROL

Russell explained he was trying to illustrate the necessity for federal regulation of power companies on a parallel plane with the regulation of common carriers by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The hearing opened with a sharp legal tilt between Russell and William Marshall Bullitt, of Louisville, Ky., chief counsel for the Clarion Company, over the jurisdiction of the court, the jurisdiction of the Power Commission and the constitutionality of the water power act of 1920 creating the Power Commission.

Justice Adkins instructed Russell to cite decisions and acts of Congress to prove his contention that an analogy existed between the interstate commerce act and the water power act.

Russell described the examination of financial statements and physical property conducted by accountants and engineers of the Federal Power Commission. The report to the examiners, Russell said, caused the commissioners—Secretaries Hurley, Hyde and Wilbur—to notify the Clarion Company that the commission proposed to disallow $6,387,731 of the reported investment cost.

IGNORES HEARING

The company, Russell said, was invited to attend the hearing November 5 before the commissioners to protest, if it desired, the findings. The Clarion company declined the invitation, Russell added, and filed its application for an injunction.

Counsel for the Clarion company contended the power commission has no power to determine the actual legitimate cost of, or the investment in the Piney (Pennsylvania) project, or to order the Clarion company to omit from its capital accounts items to which the commission objected. They also argued that the water power act did not confer on the commission the power to determine the net investment of a licensee in any project. The brief stated:

"The actual legitimate cost or actual legitimate investment in a project does not become material until after 20 years from the date of operation, in some instances, or after the expiration of the license in other cases."

Licenses ordinarily run for 50 years.

INQUIRY CONTESTED

The Clarion company's attorney asserted Congress had not made the Federal Power Commission a fact-finding body. Congress, he said, did not go into the government regulation phase of the electric industry.

Bullitt accused Russell of injecting "dramatics" into his argument as a means of eliciting sympathy. Such appeals, he declared, should be ignored and a decision made on a strict interpretation of the law. Bullitt said:

"If this case arose in Kentucky, which has no public utilities commission to control electric lights, then a different question would arise."

In rebuttal Russell held there was no provision in the Pennsylvania code authorizing the Public Service Commission to recover excess earnings. He added that such a decision had been handed down by the Pennsylvania commission.

Justice Adkins asked Russell if the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission could regulate rates, and the Federal Power Commission attorney answered in the affirmative.

Justice Adkins indicated he would confer with other members of the court and reach a decision "in a short time."

Need of Advertising Stressed by Coolidge

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

When I was a boy in the hills of Vermont, 12 miles from the railroad, the only merchandise I saw was in the country store. But my horizon was widened by certain publications containing pictures and descriptions of things that appealed to youth. I read and bought. The man who supplied them became rich and died a great philanthropist. He advertised.

Calvin Coolidge

It is essential in the first instance to make good merchandise. But that is not enough. It is just as essential to create a desire for it. That is advertising.

The person or associations of persons who can produce that combination of excellence and demand is performing a real public service. They enlarge the mental horizon and provide new forms of utility and beauty. The material benefits pass over into spiritual benefits. Culture and charity are the by-products.

A country that is spending two billion dollars annually in the production and application of beauty lotions has resources with which to make large purchases of what it concludes it wants. The only way for the people to become acquainted with what they want is through judicious advertising. Goods not worth advertising are not worth selling.

2 VASSAR GIRLS STOWAWAYS

COLON, Canal Zone, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Identifying themselves as Vassar students and daughters of wealthy families, two girl stowaways, each 19, were to be deported to the United States today aboard the liner Santa Rita.

Arriving here aboard the Santa Clara, they gave their names as Eugene Roggoff and Antoine La Rusa. Under questioning by police, however, one said her real name was Ethel Hollander, daughter of a "New Jersey millionaire," and the other Sally Tanner, of San Francisco.

They said they stowed away aboard the Santa Clara at New York "for a lark." Police said a member of the crew aided them in hiding aboard the vessel.

INTERIOR DEPT. BUDGET CUT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Budget estimates were slashed again today by the House Appropriations Committee, which reported the annual Interior Department supply bill with a total of $68,552,006.

The measure is $5,640,382 above last year's figure, but is $840,705 less than the President's budget recommendation. The committee also cut budget estimates in reporting the Treasury-Postoffice supply bill. The bill carries $15,000,000 for work on the Boulder Canyon Dam project.

No new project is provided for in appropriations for the reclamation service, although continuation of several projects is made possible.

SENATE LAVISH IN PROGRAM FOR RELIEF

Prepares to Spend Millions To Aid Business, Contrary To President's Desires

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Disregarding President Hoover's wishes and ignoring threats of a Treasury deficit, administration Senators led the way in the Senate this afternoon toward spending huge sums of money to relieve unemployment and the unemployment situation.

A bill authorizing a $50,000,000 appropriation to modernize the battleships Mississippi, New Mexico and Idaho—as permitted under the London Naval Treaty—was passed by the Senate without debate. It was sponsored by Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a delegate to the London conference.

The measure was reported favorably by the Senate Naval Affairs Committee only a half hour before the Senate met. Senator Swanson (Dem.), of Virginia, took the onus off administration leaders by obtaining unanimous consent for its immediate enactment.

Swanson told the Senate that the bill would have to be acted on promptly or thousands of workers in the government navy yards would be thrown out of work. He added that its passage would keep these men employed and would provide for the employment of others. The bill now goes to the House.

A moment later Senator McNary (Rep.), of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, reported a resolution from his home calling for the appropriation of $60,000,000 for loans to farmers in drought and storm stricken states. The measure, carrying $35,000,000 more than the administration recommended, was placed on the calendar. McNary said he would press for its enactment at the first opportunity.

DEATH-DEALING FOG MENACES ENGLAND

Nation Fears Visitation Of Strange Epidemic Killing 67 in Belgium

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—England today feared the appearance here of the mysterious epidemic of death which last week spread through the Meuse Valley in Belgium under cloak of a heavy fog and took the lives of 67 humans and killed a great number of livestock.

Near Grommont, Yorkshire, 16 cattle died yesterday on one farm of a mysterious malady of which the symptoms, veterinarians said, were much like those of victims of the Belgian fog. Like Belgium, Southern England has suffered from the intense fog conditions of the past few days.

FOG ALONE BLAMED

The view of Belgium medical officials that the Meuse Valley deaths were due to fog alone has found considerable support among London doctors with a wide experience of fog effects. They cite official returns of several very foggy periods, in one of which the death rate arose from a normal 12.5 per week per 1,000 to 14.3 or an increase that week of 8,000 in the number of deaths.

The Daily Mail quotes an unnamed authority as saying that "the fog may have killed 60 persons in Belgium, but it almost certainly killed 6,000 persons in London." It is explained that the increased mortality here, as shown by official returns, is due to bronchitis.

QUEEN VISITS ZONE

BRUSSELS, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Heartened by their Queen's visit to the danger area, residents of the Meuse Valley today returned to the homes from which they were driven last week by an impenetrable fog which has brought death to 67 persons and sent others to hospitals with a mysterious sickness.

Queen Elizabeth, known as a skilled nurse, questioned patients suffering from the strange malady, and was told by them that as soon as they entered the fog they were aware of an intense prickling sensation in their throats. On the basis of her questioning she asked an exhaustive inquiry to determine the causes of the visitation. A special commission was formed for the purpose.

Several theories are extant in explanation of the visitation. Principal among these are that the victims were pulmonary patients whose lungs were unable to withstand the unusual fog conditions and that noxious fumes possibly emitted by industrial plants had been kept near the ground by the heavy fog. Official statements ascribed the deaths alone to the cold fog.

PAIR FACE JURY IN KILLING BOY

A jury was being selected in Criminal Court today to try Frank Kubiszewski and Frank Novak, both of Niagara street, on a murder charge as the result of a wild automobile ride in Lawn street, July 28, in which one child was killed.

Kubiszewski was the driver, police said, while Novak was a passenger, in the car which ran through a crowd of children playing in the street. William Harris, 5, of 310 Lawn street, was fatally injured.

A second jury was also being picked to try Frank Rodi, accused of shooting James Hannan, 26, of 53 Congress street, at 1223 Fifth avenue, April 30, during an argument over a card game. Hannan died a month later in the Mercy Hospital.

Tomorrow three men will be arraigned for alleged scalping of tickets to the Pitt-Notre Dame football game October 25. They are Nathan Cherkin, Julius Foreman and Joseph P. Silow. A fourth defendant has not yet been apprehended. The trio faces 18 charges growing out of alleged counterfeiting and sale of tickets.

Graham to Head State Delegations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Representative George S. Graham, veteran Pennsylvania member of the House, probably will be chosen chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation at a meeting tomorrow. The chairmanship is vacant because of the death of Representative Stephen G. Porter.

A vacancy on the Republican congressional committee also is to be filled. Representative Graham resigned the post during the campaign, saying he would not support Gifford Pinchot for governor. Representative Watson may be selected.

Representative Temple is likely to succeed the late Representative Kiess on the Republican committee on committees.

Guard Court House At Trial of 13 'Reds'

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—With a cordon of 50 police inside and outside Suffolk County Superior Court House, some reported armed with tear gas bombs and riot guns, 13 alleged Communists went on trial before Judge Ernest Hobson today on charges growing out of an attempt to storm the national convention of the American Federation of Labor here.

ficulties, entanglements and embarrassments he met and overcame.

He gives, with candor, details of the American influence in the fighting about Chateau Thierry and the drive in the Meuse-Argonne, which cut the German lines.

FIRM FOR OWN UNITS

Relations with chiefs of the various Allied armies are discussed with great frankness. He tells of his uncompromising refusal to permit his men to be brigaded with the Allied forces and under their command; his vigorous insistence that the American army was to be a fighting unit in fact and not a mere supplement to the British and French units.

The general tells of a dramatic meeting of the Supreme War Council, when, through hours of argument, at times bitter, he insisted "there was to be no parceling out of our men."

WRITES FRANKLY

He speaks frankly of the utter lack of co-operation with the American command in the early days of America's entrance into the conflict. And he does not hesitate to disclose defects in the war organization of his own country, the difficulties engendered in obtaining supplies and trained men and the deplorable state of aviation when this country came into the war.

Gen. Pershing has written his memoirs in soldierly fashion, which intensifies its drama. And with its grimness there are humor, courage and style.

The story is a climax to all preceding narratives of the World War.

Senate Body O. K.'s McGregor as Marshal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee favorably reported today the nomination of James C. McGregor as marshal for the Western District of Pennsylvania, subject to the approval of Senators Reed and Davis.

LINDSEY WILL SUE BISHOP IN CLASH

Manning recently, and prompted Lindsey to speak before their body.

Lindsey sat for more than an hour in the magistrate's court while cases of drunkenness and minor infractions were heard.

When his case was called, Detective William May read the charge of "creating a disturbance and acting in a disorderly manner."

Lindsey answered:

"Not guilty."

ASKS POSTPONEMENT

Hays asked a postponement. Magistrate August Dreyer replied:

"What's the use of carrying this along?"

Lindsey explained that he had speaking engagements in Reading, Union City, N. J., and Hartford, Conn., that would occupy him until Friday. The court set the hearing on that date and paroled Lindsey in Hays custody.

The court asked Detective May if there were any witnesses. May said:

"None from the congregation—two brother officers."

The militant defender of companionate marriage showed no marks of physical violence, although he received a kick and at least one punch yesterday when he was half-carried by detectives from the place of worship while certain members of the congregation shouted "Throw him out."

As he was leaving court, Lindsey was asked if he would refer to the affair in his addresses. He said:

"I will not refer to it unless asked to, but they are sure to ask. They always did. They asked me at Albany, last night."

TOSSED FROM CHURCH

Today's developments all came about after the ejection yesterday of Judge Lindsey amid scenes of wild excitement from the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, where he had leaped upon a table before the congregation of 4,000 to reply to Bishop Manning's attack on companionate marriage.

Last Monday the New York Churchmen's Association permitted Judge Lindsey to deliver an address before it on companionate marriage, voting to do so by an overwhelming majority after Bishop Manning had requested the invitation be withdrawn.

The Bishop's message was a slashing attack on companionate marriage and a tongue lashing of what he termed "a little group of clergymen" in his diocese who "have been doing whatever lay in their power to make difficulties for their bishop and to place him publicly in embarrassing situations."

TEACHINGS SCORED

When the bishop had concluded Judge Lindsey leaped on a press table and said:

"You have falsely represented me. If this is not a house of justice, it is not a house of God."

"I ask for five minutes to answer your unfair attack."

Bishop Manning said in part:

"Lindsey's teachings as published in his books are contrary to the plain principles of Christian morality. 'Companionate marriage' so-called is only a name for legalized free love.

"According to Judge Lindsey's proposal, a young man and a young woman are to live together and their union is to continue if they so prefer. If they have no children their union is to be discontinued at any time that they may so desire, or may wish to form some fresh alliance.

"If that is not free love, what is it? Would any man among us consider it a debatable question whether his own daughter should enter into such a union as that, and if not, how can it be a debatable question whether the daughters of others should enter into such unions?

"Our work as ministers of Christ is to fight such teaching with our whole life and strength, not to countenance it by parley and debate."

9 Abandon Yacht, Saved From Desolate Island

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A thrilling escape from angry seas; the smashing of a pleasure yacht on the jagged rocks of a barren island, and a rescue from the desolate isle, were described here today by nine survivors of the shipwreck.

The party arrived in San Diego aboard the U. S. S. Aaron Ward. They are L. Sayers, master of the ill-fated yacht Eola; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Frisbee; their three daughters, Lucille, 19; Hazel, 10, and Mrs. Mary Johnson; Verlee Johnson, 3; J. M. McFate and H. R. Tiffany.

Mrs. Frisbee, Lucille Frisbee, Mrs. Johnson and the Johnson child were aboard the yacht, anchored off Guadalupe Island the night of November 30, when a sudden gale began whipping up heavy seas and the Eola's anchors failed to hold. The others were ashore.

Capt. Sayers awoke the party and after buckling life preservers on the women and children boarded a skiff with them, abandoning the craft.

Lashed by the terrific gale, the little skiff was tossed about and carried seaward half a mile beyond the yacht, before progress was made shoreward, the survivors said. Eventually the yacht was submerged.

The drone of airplane motors was heard over the island Saturday, as naval planes engaged in a search for the missing San Pedro fishing boat Fidelity passed overhead. Wild signaling attracted the pilots who notified government officials here and the U. S. S. Langley and the destroyer Aaron Ward were dispatched to the rescue.

The Fidelity and its 11-man crew was not found. It has been missing since November 21.

LAVAL TO FORM NEW CABINET

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Pierre Laval, minister of public works under Andre Tardieu, today accepted the task of forming a new cabinet after Senator Louis Barthou gave up the attempt.

M. Laval, who gained national reputation when he settled the recent textile strike, was called in by President Doumergue a few hours after M. Barthou informed the executive that his efforts to set up a coalition ministry has come to naught. At the last moment, the Radical Socialists notified him they would refuse to participate in any government formation which included members of the extreme right.

REDS IN CHINA SLAY 20,000

HANKOW, China, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Trapped between the towns of Kwangshui and Hwangan, less than 100 miles north of this important center, nearly 20,000 provincial troops have been massacred by a like number of bandit Reds, reports from Northern Hupeh Province said.

Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo and president of the Chinese Republic, today has taken command of the drive against Communism throughout North Central China. However, this seemed not to have deterred the hundreds of bands of roving Reds, for they continued attacks against shipping on the upper Yangtse River with undiminished vigor.

American, French, British, Japanese and Chinese vessels suffered.

TOWN TIED UP BY BLUE LAWS

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—This village of 5,000 inhabitants was tied up with a Puritan-patterned blue-law ribbon of its own design. Even the sick without medicine could buy none.

Every drug store, garage, bakery, filling station, tobacco shop and newsstand was closed. All stores posted a sign:

"Closed Sunday; Blue Law in Effect."

Last Sunday 28 business men were hailed to court charged with doing prohibited business on the Sabbath. Their trial is set for December 16 and, unless some change is decided on, all business houses must remain closed on Sunday under penalty of prosecution.

Restaurants and hotels were the only places open.

WEDDING LURES CAPONE HOME

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner said today that Alphonse Capone, No. 1 on Chicago's list of "public enemies," was believed to be in his Palm Island retreat in Florida or en route there from Chicago.

The paper added that the wedding of Capone's sister, Mafalda, to John Maritote would be solemnized in Chicago in a few days, and that Capone, who has been dodging Chicago police on a vagrancy charge for months will attend.

Millionaire Risks Life in Mutiny

SINGAPORE, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Bravery of an American millionaire, Gibson Fahnestock, of New York and Washington, during a recent mutiny of Chinese crew members aboard his yacht, the Shenandoah, has been disclosed here.

The men were about to close in on the captain when Fahnestock leaped into the fray and helped the officers force the crew back to their quarters. The two ringleaders since have been sentenced to imprisonment. There were four women aboard at the time of the mutiny, among them Fahnestock's wife and daughter.

Two Greensburg Banks in Merger

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Purchase of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Greensburg, by the Barclay Westmoreland Trust Company, was announced here effective today. Assets and business of the Safe Deposit, established 30 years ago, will be merged with those of the Barclay Company, founded in 1854.

Shut Manor Schools In Fear of Epidemic

JEANNETTE, Pa., Dec. 8.—Following the refusal of a large number of parents to send children to school, fearing an epidemic of scarlet fever in public schools, the Manor Borough School Board this morning ordered the schools closed indefinitely. There are about 400 pupils in the schools.

RUM HINTED IN SHEPARD TRIAL

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Maj. J. C. Dye, Army medical officer, testified in Federal Court here today at the murder trial of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, that the condition of Mrs. Zenana Shepard's eyes prior to her death might have been caused by a slow-acting poison, or by the use of alcoholic beverages.

Called as a government witness, Maj. Dye, now stationed at Fort Warren, Wyoming, said he had been summoned to attend Mrs. Shepard on May 21, 1929, the day after she was seized with an illness that proved fatal at Fort Riley, Kansas, in June, 1929.

The courtroom was crowded again today, with many young girls and women as spectators. Maj. Shepard appeared in a light gray suit, changing from the blue suit he wore at the early sessions of the trial last week.

Report U. S. Buying New Berlin Embassy

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Mittag Zeitung today said that the American government had purchased the famous Bluecher palace at No. 2 Pariser Platz for a joint embassy and consulate building at a price of $2,500,000.

At the embassy it was stated that the paper's report could be neither affirmed nor denied. From another source it was learned that the Mittag Zeitung's publication of the report was regarded as premature and likely to endanger seriously conclusion of the deal.

Matthew Q. Glasser, Curtis Booster Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Matthew Quay Glaser, Curtis-for-President booster in the 1928 campaign and long-time political worker, died Saturday of heart disease at his home here. He was 54.

Electrical Discovery By Scientist Here Conquers Fire

And strangely, it is electricity.

Dr. Bernard Lewis, of the Pittsburgh experiment station, United States Bureau of Mines, today made public some of the results of his discovery that he can fight and conquer flame with electric potential.

APPLE SELLING ABUSE SEEN

James M. Clark, director of public safety, today said the street apple-selling campaign, designed to relieve unemployment here, is being abused.

Criminals from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, according to Clark, have slipped by examiners of welfare agencies who recommend persons as worthy of permits to sell apples, and are violating the rules. Instead of selling at five cents an apple, they are offering them at six and seven for 25 cents.

The director said the drifters also violate the closing hour of 6 o'clock, and continue to sell fruit to after-theater crowds at any price they can get, thereby injuring legitimate dealers.

Inspector of Detectives Frank Boyd, on request of Clark, has ordered detectives to check on sellers and arrest all who cannot pass the welfare department test or who are violating rules.

Recluse Captured, Admits Killing Two

PAWNEE, Okla., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Jess Powell, recluse sought for the slaying of a youth and a deputy sheriff last night, was captured early today at Ralston, near here, but not before he had seriously wounded Louis Raba, a posseman. Sheriff Allen Jones of Pawnee county said Powell admitted slaying Floyd Bell, 18, and Ed Hartwick, Pawnee county deputy, from ambush. Bell's companion, Marion Kendall, 20, was wounded by the 65-year-old farmer.

Prince and Bride Greeted by Pope

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Pope Pius received in private audience Prince Noruhito Takamatsu, of Japan, and his bride. The Prince presented the pontiff with a desk cover and the Pope gave the Prince a gold pontifical medal.

HOW IT'S DONE

How he does it is simple—if you know what an ion or an electron is. He places a wire gauze gate on either side of the flame. He sends direct electric current into the gauze—electric potential. The power sucks the ions from the flames on one side, on the other it sucks the electrons.

Dr. Lewis admitted that he has envisioned no practical use for his recent discovery. His experiments were conducted under controlled conditions. He pushed various gases into a glass chamber, ignited them and then played with them. He succeeded in extinguishing a dozen types.

MAY BE USEFUL

Whether some day his experiments will bring practical value in confining mine fires to a subterranean chamber and save lives and property, he said he wasn't certain. He added:

"It might be done. The practical applications are not yet apparent. I hope to continue studying the ion, which is the positive property, particularly to find if it is the ion that, shot off after the ignition of a gas, causes other successive explosions that continue a fire burning."

This is the first discovery of its type, and scientists in many lands have been attempting the solution for many years.

Killing of Georgian Envoy Investigated

PARIS, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Police today investigated the assassination of Ell Ramichvili, minister here of the republic of Georgia, who was shot and killed while driving in an automobil on the Place d'Italia yesterday. The assassin, Bze Pchanovkvadze, said he killed Ramichvili for "political reasons," but declined to go into details. Police believed the assassination to be the outgrowth of rivalries between Soviet and White Russian adherents.

MONEY LENDER KILLED BY BOMB

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Tony May, wealthy professional bondsman and money lender, died today from the effects of a black powder bomb which was delivered through the mails disguised as a Christmas gift.

The bomb exploded in May's apartment when he tore the wrapper from the death package in attempting to open it. The victim's 15-year-old son, Eugene, was blown through a door and suffered severe injuries.

Breaking more than 100 windows, a bomb, apparently tossed from an elevated train window, exploded in a North Side areaway early today. An elevated train had just passed when the explosion occurred in midair. The blast alarmed the neighborhood in a mile radius. Another bomb planted in the rear of a garage on the North Side damaged the Fleetwood apartment hotel adjoining. Hundreds of guests were alarmed, but none injured.

A bomb exploding on a loading platform of the West Side plants of Sears, Roebuck & Co. did damage estimated at $1,500. A large hole was torn in the platform floor and windows in the eight-story structure were shattered.

State Grange Meets, Will Hear Pinchot

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Advance delegates to the State Grange convention, which opens here Tuesday, began arriving here today. The climax of the convention will be reached Wednesday, when Governor-elect Gifford Pinchot, a member of the organization, arrives to take part in the star chamber discussion.

Woman Dies With Civil War Claim Pending

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lillie Scrutchin Biggers, 74, died here leaving a claim against the Federal government for $60,000 she said was given her by Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman during the Civil War.

Mrs. Biggers said when Sherman's army invaded Georgia, Gen. Loring made his headquarters in her family's home. Her father's hardware store was burned during the invasion. Gen. Sherman gave her a receipt for the contents of the store, valued at $60,000, in return for courtesies shown his staff, she said.

The receipt was turned over to a Georgia congressman after the war but it was misplaced and only came to light a year or two ago.

DANISH KING HURT IN CRASH

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—King Christian was seriously cut about the face today as he returned, shortly after midnight, to Fredensborg from last night's opera in Copenhagen.

Shortly after leaving Copenhagen the royal automobile smashed into a small car of sedan type driven by two women. The small car was crumpled. His majesty, bleeding badly from the face, stopped to see that neither of the women was badly injured, then hurried on to his castle.

TREASURE SHIP BLAST KILLS 14

LORIENT, France, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Italian salvage vessel Artiglio, which was trying to recover $5,000,000 in gold bullion from the sunken liner Egypt, exploded and sank off the island of Houat with loss of 14 men yesterday, port officials here announced today.

The signal man said he heard a violent explosion about five miles to the southwest of his station, and saw water spout a thousand feet into the air. Then there was a great billow of smoke and chunks of wreckage dropped into the sea.

The Artiglio had temporarily abandoned work on the wreck of the Egypt, which had been shifted by ocean currents after the first salvage operations. At the time of the explosion she was sending divers down to examine the hulks of two munition ships sunk during the war.

Egg of Dinosaur Found in Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Florida Times-Union says in a dispatch from Ocala, Fla., that a dinosaur egg, estimated to be from 2,000,000 to 7,000,000 years old, has been found in a phosphate pit near Dunnellon, in Marion County.

The egg is similar to those discovered by Roy Chapman Andrews, noted explorer.

SET LIVINGSTON BURIAL RITES

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the T. B. Moreland funeral home, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, for Murray Gilchrist Livingston, 69, of 5817 Warne road, East End, former city ordinance officer and chief of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, who died Saturday in the West Penn Hospital. Interment will be private.

Mr. Livingston was appointed chief ordinance officer in 1902 and head of the Bureau of Weights and Measures in 1911, when the department was created. He served continuously until 1928, when he was dismissed by Mayor Charles H. Kline. He was a retired captain of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Mr. Livingston leaves his wife, Mrs. Catherine Elizabeth Owens Livingston, and two sisters, Arabell Livingston and Cora M. Livingston.

Employer Bequeaths $15,000 to Domestic

RED OAK, Ia., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Miss Augusta Johnson, for 34 years a domestic in the home of Thomas D. Murphy, late calendar manufacturer, is to receive $15,000 under the provisions of his will.

Murphy died two years ago, and his widow last month. In his will the wealthy manufacturer directed that in the event Miss Johnson was still in the employ of his wife at the time of her death, she should receive the money "prior to all other bequests."

Finding of Watch Chain Reveals Train Death

HARRISBURG, Dec. 8 (AP.)—The finding of a watch chain on the pilot of a locomotive as hostlers were cleaning it, led to the discovery that several hours previously the train had killed a crossing watchman at Floris, Lancaster County. The watchman was John T. Griffin, 54.

The train passed the Floris crossing about 10 minutes after Griffin reported for duty at 10 o'clock.

BENGALIS SLAY BRITISH CHIEF

CALCUTTA, Bengal, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Lieut. Col. Normal Skinner Simpson, inspector general of prisons in Bengal presidency, was shot dead in his office today. The assassin escaped.

Simpson was in his office when three Bengalis demanded to see him. They were told that he was engaged and were requested to fill in applications for an audience, but they refused and pushed aside the servants. As they pushed through the door all fired at Simpson, who was examining his letter files.

The three Bengalis immediately rushed downstairs, firing continuously as they disappeared in the direction of the Hall Bazaar. J. W. Nelson, judicial secretary, was seriously wounded in attempting to halt them.

SECOND BLAST VICTIM DIES

The second death as a result of a gas explosion in the home of Perry Ewell, 3452 Upsal place, East End, Saturday, occurred when Ewell died in West Penn Hospital early today. Mrs. Ewell, 37, died in the same hospital yesterday.

A son, Robert, 15, also burned in the blast, may recover.

The home was damaged $5,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewell had smelled gas, and had gone to the basement to investigate. A short time later the house was rocked by the blast. Mrs. Hallie Swain, a sister of Mrs. Ewell, was on the first floor with Marilyn Ewell, 9, a daughter. Both escaped injury.

Fire Capts. Ralph Longmore and William Hyde declared they found a leak in the gas main close to where it enters the house from the street. It was still burning when they arrived, they said.

Paroled Convict Jailed in Munhall

George White, 38, Negro, of 510 Heisel street, Homestead, said by Munhall police to have been released Friday from the Western Pennsylvania penitentiary after serving a long term, was in Munhall Police Station today. He was arrested early yesterday after police said, he was caught attempting to enter a hardware store. Police said he was on a four-year parole.

COUNCIL PLANS BUDGET WORK

Plans for beginning of work on the 1931 budget were expected to be made at the regular session of City Council today. President John S. Herron indicated a slight cut probably would be made, the figure depending on the amount Council appropriates for unemployment relief measures.

It was expected today that the millage would be set not later than Thursday.

Estimated revenue for 1931 is $200,000 more than estimated receipts for this year, the advance being attributed to an anticipated $10,000,000 increase in building valuations and a more effective system of collecting obligations due the city on tax, water and various other accounts.

Washington Man Kidnaped, Robbed

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Police are seeking three bandits who took Rudolph Nalsburg, 42, "for a ride" at the point of a gun, robbed him of his money and watch, and left him tied hand and foot in a barn on a lonely road about six miles from Washington, making their escape in his automobile.

Can We Wait for Pensions?

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Now everybody knows how the farmers felt when they were hollering for farm relief last year.

We think the farmers are better off than we are. At least, a farmer has a farm. Even if it is made of registered divots.

There seems to be a little kick in all of us. We want relief too.

Congress is going to kick forth an appropriation of thirty million dollars for food.

It was supposed to be sixty million. But President Hoover told Senator Watson that was too much.

He said the appropriation was to be for food. Not for food and drink.

But by the time Congress gets through barking and filing there will be no filing.

They've got to vote on it, talk on it, filibuster on it, compromise on it, argue on it, kick it around and table it. Then they send it to the committee for alterations and when the laundry comes back there ain't any buttons on it.

The smart citizen doesn't wait for government relief. He goes out and hustles for himself and tells nobody.

The citizens who are getting by these days are the boys who are keeping it a secret. The foolish hen cackles when it lays an egg. But the rooster never crows when it finds a little corn.

We seem to have started something when we criticized the man who turns the pages for the man who plays piano for Kreisler.

He seems to have more admirers than Kreisler himself.

All we claimed was that he sneaks in little jerky bows on Fritz's applause.

They were not full-length bows like Phil Scott takes.

They were furtive nods from the neck nowhere.

But they were bows. Now, Louis Reichert Huber, of the University of Washington Daily, says he has seen Rachmaninoff play piano and that Rachmaninoff has no page-turners.

Rachmaninoff has no page caddies. He has no music sheets. He plays from memory. And if you don't like it you can sue him.

He thinks that if pianists rate page-turners, why don't reporters have assistants to insert pages in the typewriters? And take the sheets out when the page is full.

They do. And they complete the operation by tearing the sheets up.

Or Rudy Vallee have a megaphone valet?

Page-turning is not an overrated industry. Suppose Kreisler's page-turner drowns him and makes him play a serial story from the Cosmopolitan Magazine?

Queerer things than this have happened when you left your camera home.

Anyway, our one visit to Carnegie Hall seems to have stirred up music circles. Like hash, there is more in music than you see on the surface.

And for the sake of Mr. Huber, Phi Mu Alpha, Washington University and musical Seattle, we hope that nobody gives us any more tickets to Carnegie Hall.

Like most critics, we have kicked up a divot we find impossible to replace.

New Castle Starts Job Relief Project

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—The city's movement to aid unemployed by providing work on improvements became effective today, when 100 men started on the widening of the Neshannock Narrows. It is planned to rotate several hundred men on this job, employing them for three-day periods. They will work eight hours and receive 35 cents an hour.

Washing....

The weekly-recurring bugaboo of most housewives becomes a simple matter of turning on and off the electric current with the A.M.C. Washer in the home.

A. M. C. Washer

One of the most popular electric washing machines in our store . . . because of its many points of superiority and its reasonable price. It has a large porcelain enamel tub, 8-sheet capacity; a wringer adjustable to 5 positions; encased mechanism; and it's easy to operate.

Cream to whip?
Fudge to beat?

Dormeyer Electric Mixer
$19.50

You could establish a new speed record in preparing meals if you had a Dormeyer electric mixer and fruit juice extractor in your kitchen. Attach the beater to the quiet running motor, and eggs, cream, batter, fudge . . . anything you want beaten or stirred is ready in a few seconds. The Dormeyer is not fastened to a stand and so may be used in any size bowl. Put on the fruit juice extractor and limes, lemons, oranges or grapefruit are emptied of every drop of juice. Juice extractor, $5.50.

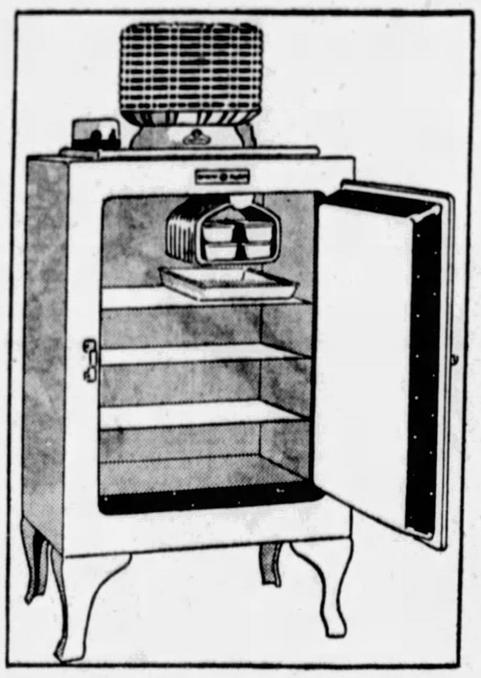
Food Storage Problems Solved With the General Electric Refrigerator



Left-overs make succulent dishes when they are preserved in the General Electric refrigerator; salads and desserts are easily made; ice cubes are always ready; and food is kept at a constant, scientifically determined temperature. These are the reasons that make the General Electric the housewife's favorite; and her husband knows that the upkeep cost is negligible . . . and repairs are unnecessary.

URGES FEDERAL 5-DAY WEEK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Establishment of the five-day week in all branches of the government service was proposed in Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, as an unemployment aid.

Walsh has embodied this plan in a bill to be introduced today which would make it effective for one year and authorize the President in his discretion to continue it another year.

In a statement Walsh said the proposal of the administration for speeding up public works was "all very well as far as it goes, adding:

"At best, however, such a program reaches only laborers, artisans and building material industries and is of no help in furnishing employment for the so-called white-collar workers who belongs to a class which is in the aggregate a very large element of the unemployed.

"Putting the government service in the present emergency on a five-day week basis without an reduction in existing rates of pay will create more jobs at a time when jobs are so sorely needed."

GANG WITNESS PUT ON SPOT

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Nicholas (Cherko) Loriano, whose testimony aided the state of New York to send the Diamond brothers and John Parino to the electric chair seven years ago, was shot five times and killed early today at a social club in Brooklyn.

Although police arrived at the scene only a few seconds after hearing the muffled shots, they found only the half-empty glasses and burning cigaret stubs of Loriano's companions, who had fled.

The former state witness was identified by means of a scar on his cheek. Detectives said that his murder had been expected for seven years, as Loriano had virtually been "on the spot" since his testimony.

Morris and Joseph Diamond and John Parino, were sent to the electric chair after Loriano testified that the plot to kill William S. Barlow and William H. McLaughlin, and seize the $45,000 which the bank messengers were carrying was hatched in Parino's bungalow. Later, the scar-cheeked witness recanted his testimony.

DASHES ABLAZE TO STREET, DIES

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Enveloped in flames and screaming, Mrs. Mollie Miller, 62, a widow, ran into the street from her home and was fatally burned before neighbors could extinguish the fire.

Constable Charles A. Barnhart said he believed she saturated her clothing with kerosene. His investigation showed, he disclosed, that Mrs. Miller had gone to the cellar and poured coal oil from a large container into a small dish. She was alone, two sons and a daughter being absent.

DR. W. E. BARTON DIES AT 69

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. William E. Barton, Congregational clergyman and author, died yesterday in a Brooklyn hospital, where he had been ill of pneumonia for a month. He was 69 years old. Burial will be at Foxboro, Mass., alongside his wife, who died in 1925.

Dr. Barton held charges at Robbins, Tenn.; Wellington, O.; Boston and Oak Park, Ill., and was once professor of practical theology at Vanderbilt University Nashville, Tenn.

In later years he attained renown as an author and lecturer. He wrote five books on Lincoln and numerous volumes on religious subjects, history and fiction.

SNAKE'S POISON KILLS FORTY

BOMBAY, India, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Death of 40 students of the London Mission School at Erode, Madras, is attributed to snake's poison in their food.

The students, Exchange Telegraph Company dispatches from Erode say, had just finished their midday meal when 40 collapsed and died in quick succession.

It was stated afterward that a snake was found in the utensil in which the soup for the meal had been prepared, the soup as a consequence being highly poisonous. The cook was one of the victims.

Suspect in Avella Slaying Put in Jail

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Herbert Conrad, 30, arrested at Keyser, W. Va., for the murder of Thomas Peteras, 38, near Avella during a drinking party, was placed in Washington County jail today, awaiting formal charge of murder before the February court. Conrad was turned over to county authorities by Sheriff Irvin Charnock, of Brooke county, W. Va.

Baby in House—Cough Not Wanted

Mother Makes Wise Move

"My baby is two years old. You can imagine how scared I was when I caught a bad cough. All I could think of was, 'If only baby doesn't catch it'. I took some Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup because I had used the Drops when I was a little girl. The Syrup is as good as the Drops—it relieved me of my cough and stopped my cold in a couple of days. Baby didn't catch it." Mrs. E. J. Kramer, 6604 Bliss Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

HOLLYWOOD AND NEW YORK CHAT COUPLED WITH LOCAL THEATER NEWS

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Consolidated Publications.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.

Now it is Patsy Ruth Miller who will dust off her make-up box for a screen comeback in Pathe's "Lonely Wives."

The complications of this story already involve Laura La Plante, who hasn't appeared before a camera in many moons, and Esther Ralston, who is only one picture removed from vaudeville.

Edward Everett Horton, a comedian whose fame hasn't been long half long enough, will play the husband of Laura, and the center of the mix-up. Patsy Ruth will be a bit enraptured and Esther the wife of a vaudevillian.

Russell Mack is commissioned to make a merry picture of it.

Patsy Ruth Miller

A Hollywood supervisor was boasting of a picture so poignant that even a theater book agent cried over it.

UNHAPPY LIES THE HEAD

The tantalizing onus of stardom is being deposited on the shoulders of Kay Francis, sleek-haired siren, and Paul Yukas, the Hungarian actor, who came into this world, excitingly, in a railroad coach, and who has since become a favorite son of the European and American cinema.

The two will be co-starred by Paramount in "Buy Your Women," production starting around the first of the year. Octavus Roy Cohen wrote this story, but the title was made in Hollywood.

Paramount, per B. P. Schulberg, bases the promotion of its two sophisticates on a poll of exhibitors.

JEAN ARTHUR ASSIGNED

It develops that Jean Arthur is to carry on with Jack Oakie in "June Moon," his next picture.

Jean Arthur

Only this time, the actress will have a character role instead of the lead, as in "The Gang Buster."

No doubt, there is greater glory in leads but character parts have a way of turning out to be more interesting. This is particularly true when it comes to star-pictures.

Another who carries on with Oakie is Edward Sutherland, the director. Eddie has made some of Paramount's best comedies, and is well thought of at the studio.

West View Church To Serve Supper

The annual sauer kraut and baked bean supper of the West View United Presbyterian Church will be held tomorrow night in the church assembly room, beginning at 6:30 p. m., the committee has announced. Members of the Ladies' Aid Society will be in charge. The public has been extended an invitation to attend.

Back Again

Presbyterians Show Seminary Increases

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—An increase in the number of students enrolled at Presbyterian seminaries was noted yesterday in a statement by the Rev. Frederick E. Stockwell, general director of the department of colleges, theological seminaries and training schools of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

LITTLE SISTER GETS BIG SISTER'S MAN IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"What Men Want" is the new picture in the Harris. It is the love game in a sophisticated setting. It is an average Hollywood exhibition.

Pauline Starke is in the cast, looking different than she used to. She portrays a "life of the party," who gives a ritzy boy friend the air in favor of another fellow, who is a lot younger and maybe richer. Then little sister comes out of the West and what do we have but a great big, but not so interesting, triangle.

GOOD OLD ROBERT

Ben Lyon is the new love. He looks like a big grownup schoolboy. He is far too innocent for the fast crowd he romps around with.

Hallam Cooley is the most diverting person about. He staggers through the film, always looking for another drink or another party.

THE LITTLE SISTER

Barbara Kent plays the little sister who steals big sister's man.

The vaudeville on the stage features Charles Bennington and his harmonica band; Eddie Hill, comedian; Senna and Dean, Bud and Elinore Coll and the Royal Sidneys. There is music by Ralph Harison's band and an amusing short screen travesty on wild West days, in which monkeys are featured.

NEW STAGE PROGRAMS FOR WEEK STRONG IN COMEDY

"Berkeley Square" is this week's bill in the Alvin, opening tonight. Leslie Howard and Margalo Gilmore are featured. There will be the usual matinees.

Next week's offering in the Alvin will be the John Drinkwater comedy, "Bird in Hand," presented by the company of English actors that appeared in it in New York, headed by Walker Edwin. The seat sale opens Thursday.

Tonight, in the Nixon, the Arthur Hammerstein musical romance, "Sweet Adeline," will be staged. Helen Morgan, Irene Franklin and Charles Butterworth head the cast. Matinees are listed Wednesday and Saturday.

A new Theater Guild play, "In the Meantime," comes to the Nixon next week for presentation prior to the New York premiere. Glenn Anders and Linda Watkins will be prominent. Seats will be on sale Thursday.

"Jerry," a comedy which formerly served as a Belle Burke vehicle, will be given in the Pitt this week by the George Sharp Players, with Thursday and Saturday as matinee days.

Next week in the Pitt the offering will be "Daddy Dumplin's," an Earl Carroll dramatization of a George Barr McCutcheon tale.

McConnell Speaks At Wilkinsburg

A. C. McConnell, director of social and religious activities of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor, will speak tonight in the Second Presbyterian Church, South avenue, Wilkinsburg. He will speak on "How the Other Side Lives," and will illustrate his talk with motion pictures. The meeting is being sponsored by the Christian Endeavor Society of the church, and the proceeds from the lecture will be donated to charities.

Bellevue Minister Ordained Priest

The Rev. William B. Carns was ordained to the priesthood at services yesterday in the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, Bellevue, the Rev. Dr. John Dows Hills, rector. Bishop Alexander Mann officiated and Dr. Hills preached the sermon. Mr. Carns has been assistant to Dr. Hills for six months, having come here upon his graduation from seminary in Philadelphia. The Rev. Charles W. Newman, also was ordained at the same time.

Banker, Polo Player, Dying of Shot Wound

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—James Meckley Potts, bank and corporation director and former polo player, was near death today from a bullet wound in the right temple. Police said Potts shot himself yesterday.

Potts is a native of Pennsylvania. He was injured a year ago when thrown from a horse while playing polo, spending two months in a hospital after the accident.

Japanese Earthquake Destroys 253 Homes

TOKIO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Rengo News Agency reports from Tainan said a severe earthquake shook that Southwestern Formosan region today, killing four persons and causing 253 houses to collapse. The quake began at 3:50 p. m. and lasted 13 minutes.

Wilkins' Pole Trip Vessel Completed

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The converted submarine, the Nautilus, which Sir Hubert Wilkins will use in next summer's North Pole expedition, was moored in the Delaware River yesterday after two months of rebuilding.

Singer

CHARITY SHOW AGAIN TONIGHT

An extra performance of "Aunt Lucy," the community play being presented by residents of Verona to raise funds for charity work, is scheduled for tonight. The show, under auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Verona Methodist Episcopal Church, was presented Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights in the Verona High School. There are 150 men and women in the cast and 175 children have roles. Miss Emily Neville, 20, of Decatur, Ala., is directing the play.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along!)

That even the bootleggers are having a heart, and are meeting the sitch-ee-ay-shun. Some of them in the Broadway Belt are offering laughing soup at $12 per case—$1 down and $1 a week.

That Congress last summer outlawed $2.50 gold pieces.

That the Mary, who had that little lamb, was Mary Elizabeth Sawyer, of Massachusetts. She also took it to school with her.

That a Cleveland writer has discovered that "Gonif" is not the way to spell the word which is Joosh for thief. It is spelled "ganov" and is from the Hebrew verb, ganver. So, there.

That if the palm of your paw perspires you can't have a fever.

That in advertising medicinal palliatives (oop!) you are permitted to use such expressions as "kills pain," "relieves headache," "aids digestion," "is an effectual remedy for—" etc. But if you use the word "cure" they'll clap you into a hoosegow.

That Skiddaw, a town in England, has one man living in it.

That chewing gum was discovered on Staten Island in 1870.

That the world's largest flower, it is said, measures a yard across and weighs 15 pounds. Oh, I read the dang thing somewhere!

That in ancient times wedding rings were made of iron.

That in 1796 adults were charged a ½-dollar and children two-bits to see the first elephant in America.

That there is a plant in Mexico which, when placed in water, forms soap suds and may be used to wash silks.

That in Tulsa, Okla., there is a chap named Murphy Goldberg, who has a Danish dialect. He got his first name from his mother. Murphy was born in Copenhagen.

That there were 11 guys in that boat with George Washington when he crossed the Delaware.

That Louvois, minister of war for Louis XIV, introduced the gag about soldiers marching in step. So that's the guy!

That milk is poison to some people and disagrees with others. It will agree if taken with a tablespoonful of lime water.

That if you have a bad code id your node and can't get along without cigarets, smear them lightly with mentholated ointment and it will lessen the irritation.

That the price of divorce in Arabia is one camel. No alimony.

That the North American Indian sheds tears, but never cries out loud. The reason is that when he was an infant his mouth was covered by the palm of his mother's paw and his nose grasped between her thumb and fore-digit each time he let out a bark. He soon learned to weep in silence rather than suffocate.

That pupils of blondes' eyes are uniformly smaller than those of brunettes. (Don't get restless. I'll be through soon.)

That one of the most clever methods of gem forgers (to give a precious stone an antique appearance) is to cram the newly-cut gem down a turkey's throat, leaving it there for a few days to be shaken up with the gravel in the poor thing's craw. And does he get mad!

That Pasteur discovered there can be life without air when he studied the fermenting organism of yeast.

That the ruby is chemically the same as the sapphire, only with different coloring. In the 16th Century, a ruby of one carat was worth eight times as much as a diamond of the same weight.

That the sun really is a star.

That the ancient Greeks (who hadda work for it!) held that war was "the natural state of man."

That there are only three cathedrals in New York City.

That 56,000,000 persons put nickels in Times Square subway turnstile slots each year.

That Prof. Sheldon, of N. Y. U., computes that there are 2,200 tons of dirt and dust in suspension in New York's atmosphere.

That the old Egyptian week was 10 days long, 3 wks to a mo.

That of the 30,000 Egyptian mummies recorded, nearly all show evidences of rheumatism. No rickets or cancer, however. There was one case of gout and one of appendicitis.

That in the polar regions colds in the head are unknown.

That the Negro is never prematurely gray. When a Negro is gray, you can safely wager he is a veteran.

And that under the influence of anger or fear hair may become straight. So consider yourself insulted, you such-and-such!

HEARST PROFIT AMPLY COVERS DIVIDEND

Year's Requirements on Preferred Earned Twice Over in 10-Month Period

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8. Earnings for the first 10 months of 1930 of over twice the dividend requirements for the full year on all the 7 per cent class A participating stock to be presently outstanding were unofficially announced by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc. These earnings are after full provision has been made for prior charges, including depreciation, interest and reserve for taxes.

OFFICIALS GRATIFIED

In view of a generally expected decrease in earnings of many of the large corporations throughout the country during 1930, this record is considered more than satisfactory by the officials of the company. It indicates that the newspaper publishing business is less affected by any general curtailment in purchasing power than is that of most lines of industry.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

During the last four years, earnings of the corporations controlled by Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc., have averaged 3.14 times dividend requirements on the class A 7 per cent stock, and with earnings already in 1930 of over twice the requirements it is not expected that the average for the five years including 1930 will fall much below this figure.

Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., has recently declared the regular quarterly dividends on both the common and participating stocks payable on December 15.

HOOVER TO ASK COURT ACTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(Universal). — President Hoover will submit his special message to the Senate advocating American adherence to the world court of the League of Nations early in the week, it was indicated at the White House.

It was stated that, although the message hardly will be ready for transmittal to the Senate today, it would be sent to the capitol by Wednesday, when the Foreign Relations Committee to which it will be referred, will have a meeting.

The special message of the President, it was stated, will be comparatively brief, but there will be a long letter from Secretary of State Stimson and the exchange of correspondence on the subject.

RIVER SEARCHED FOR SECOND BOY

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Dec. 8.—(INS.) — Dawn today found searchers renewing their hunt for little Billy McFadden, 5, of Jersey City, who disappeared Friday with Billy McTague, 6-year-old son of Tom McTague, local football star.

The body of the other missing boy was found on the breast of the Mauch Chunk dam of the Lehigh River late yesterday. He had been drowned. Dynamiting was resorted to in an effort to uncover the body of the McFadden child, but darkness deferred further search until daybreak. It is believed they fell through thin ice while skating.

Tear Gas Disperses Textile Mill Pickets

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Danville police today used tear gas bombs to break up mass picketing at the gates of the Riverside cotton mills, whose union employes are on strike. There was no fight. No one was injured. Meanwhile, National Guard troops at the Dan River mills in the neighboring village of Schoolfield were called upon to disperse crowds. This was done without disorder.

Miss Aldrich Weds Harvard Professor

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Manley O. Hudson, professor of international law at Harvard University, and Miss Janet Norton Aldrich, daughter of Senator Ellis L. Aldrich, of Brunswick, Me., were married yesterday at the home of Prof. Hudson's father, David E. Hudson, in New York.

Archbishop O'Connell Reaches 72nd Year

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Following his annual custom, William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston and dean of the Catholic heirarchy in America, today celebrated his seventy-first birthday by pontification at a solemn high mass in Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

Real Estate

The Wellington Heights Land Company reports that Richard M. Hart has taken possession of his recently completed home in Perry highway, Wellington Heights Plan. The house has nine rooms, three tile baths and a two-car garage built on the rear of the property. The house was built by Chester Willoughby.

A stone and brick home with tile bath on lot 17 in the same plan is being constructed by Walter H. Skiles. The lot measures 50x150 feet.

An irregular shaped lot fronting on Wellington drive and overlooking the Highland Country Club has been bought by J. G. Swirel for a private consideration. The purchaser plans the construction of a home on the property.

The Snyder property, Ridge and Galveston avenues, North Side, has been sold to the Knight Life Insurance Company. The company, after extensive repairs, intends to make the building its home office. The A. D. Wilson Company represented the Snyder interests and J. F. McClurg the purchaser.

A reciprocal agreement between the Pennsylvania Real Estate Board and the National Association of Real Estate Boards whereby only boards belonging to the state association may be constituent boards of the national association was announced at the recent Chicago meeting of the board of directors of the national organization. The agreement also provides that only boards holding membership in the national association may be retained in the state association's roster.

Hughes to Honor Red Cross Founder

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A bust of Henri Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross, will be presented to the museum of the American Red Cross next Wednesday, by Americans of Swiss origin.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes will preside at the ceremonies and the Swiss minister, Marc Peter, will make the presentation. John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, will make the address of acceptance.

Truck Robbed While Driver Attends Mass

While he was worshiping in St. Peter's Catholic Church, West Ohio street, this morning, James Leonard told police a thief ransacked his truck and stole two suits of men's clothing, three women's coats and other wearing apparel. Leonard, who resides at 1210 Lorraine street, is employed as a driver for a cleaning and dyeing establishment.

PLAN ELECTRIC STEEL MILL

A steam operated steel mill of the Duquesne works of the Carnegie Steel Company is to be electrified and made ready for operation by early spring, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The new equipment, which will be required for the operation of the mill, has been ordered by the Carnegie Company from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

The equipment will include one 1,600-horsepower induction motor which will drive a 28-inch roughing mill; one 1,250-horsepower, 600-volt, 60-120 revolutions per minute motor that will drive a 22-inch finishing mill, together with auxiliary apparatus.

A current trend toward economical industrial operation is seen in the award of the contract, according to officials. During the World War boom times and the recent bull market, executives pointed out, plants were expanded rapidly to meet sudden demands. Now a return to normal consumption is being met by effecting greater economies of operation and production.

Punches Mirror, Believing Own Image Foe

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 8.—Floyd Fanti, who struck the mirror in the top of a weighing machine, mistaking his image for the face of another man, is at Union Hospital. Surgeons united two severed tendons of his right hand.

PAYROLL THEFT TRIO HELD

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies have arrested three men in connection with a $5,305 payroll robbery and declared they also planned a hold-up of the University National Bank.

The men, deputies said confessed the intended bank robbery and the payroll theft. They are Raymond Worcker, alias Raymond Wray, Terre Haute, Ind., Fred "Coley" Russell, 27, and his brother, Leonard, 22.

Authorities reported they recovered nearly $1,600 of the payroll loot obtained in the robbery of Miss Cozina Imbery, November 24. She was said to be an acquaintance of Leonard Russell.

GERMANS RIOT OVER WAR FILM

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(Universal).—Crying "down with the war-hate film," 1,200 Nazi (Fascist students) last night staged a demonstration and paraded and battled for hours with the police in Nollendorf Platz in front of the theater where "All Quiet on the Western Front" is being shown.

Eight were arrested, including one woman, and a number were hurt.

Inside the theater there was complete order under the watchful eyes of a heavy police guard which made up about one-fourth of the audience.

Outside, in the street crowds, the tumult necessitated calling out police reserves two different times. The demonstration began with small groups of students singing Fascist songs.

Feverish unrest marked the entire day in Berlin and suburbs. Sixteen persons were injured in clashes of Nazis and Communists in different sections of Berlin.

BILLS ON TRADE TO GET AIRING

Several hundred business men of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania will meet tomorrow noon at the William Penn Hotel, under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce to discuss bills likely to be introduced in the 1931 State Assembly that might jeopardize their trade.

Robert Haight, legislative expert of the state chamber, will interpret some 3,000 bills in their relation to business.

Previous to the luncheon meeting, there will be a conference of the directors of the state chamber.

Time Before Christmas Too Short for Doll Lady

Dear Little Girls:

Every day brings one day closer to Christmas and the days are slipping away all too quickly to suit me. It isn't that I don't want to see Christmas coming so soon, with all its cheer, but I have such a big job on my hands distributing my lovable dolly, "Tickletoes," that I know that I'll be nearly standing on my head just before the holidays arrive.

That's why I want every little girl who wants one for a playmate to get her "Tickletoes" just as soon as possible. Hundreds of little girls have already been in to see me, selected their dolly and taken her home. Are these little girls happy? Words really cannot express their joy.

Of course, to get "Tickletoes" all for your very own you must do something for me. But what I ask isn't at all hard if mother and daddy will help you. And you'll be tickled pink with "Tickletoes" because she's the most adorable dolly that was ever made. With a soft, rosy complexion, bright eyes that open and close, a happy smile, cute little fingers and toes, a pretty bonnet and organdy dress, slippers and stockings to match and most important of all three distinct voices.

You'll find "Tickletoes" an ideal playmate. Hundreds of little girls are writing and asking me for information. Here are the names of some from whom I have received requests during the last few days:

Betty Gallagher, Lyda Hernann, Anna Lou Caseber, Norma Kimball, Ruth Robinson, Eva Green, Geraldine Gallagher, Patsy Steeb, Dorothy Burket, Mary Morrison, Alice Connors, Edna Everley, Mildred Minner, Gladys Curran, Lila Struble, Mary Enslen, Alberta Rudolph, Gwendolyn Mitchell, Eileen Dimerling, Carol Hardy, Josephine Gravotta, Mary Procopio, Lorraine Hassin, Mary Maofy, Ruth Dawson and Marth Ray.

Now if you want to know how to get this wonder doll clip the coupon, fill it in and send it to me today. By return mail I will send you a letter telling just what you will have to do. If other little girls can get a "Tickletoes" so easily there's no reason why you can't do it just as well. Goodbye 'til tomorrow!

TRAFFIC ESSAY WINNERS TO SEE PLAY

Comedy by Tech Students Scheduled When Awards Totaling $2,000 are Made

"Homesick," a one-act comedy, will be presented Friday night in Carnegie Music Hall by the Carnegie Tech department of drama as a part of the Better Traffic Committee's prize awarding exercises, according to Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the traffic committee's education section.

The exercises have been planned for the awarding of 210 cash prizes and five collegiate scholarships to writers of essays in the committee's fourth annual traffic essay contest for school children. The cash awards and scholarships total $2,000 in value.

WROTE ON CODE

The five scholarships were offered by the University of Pittsburgh, Duquesne University, Pennsylvania College for Women, Mt. Mercy College and Carnegie Institute of Technology, to writers of the best essays on the committee's proposed codified traffic ordinance.

Each of the 2,252 pupils of the public and parochial schools who reached the finals will attend the exercises at which the prize winners will be announced. The 2,002 pupils who are not to receive prizes will be given certificates of merit. The total enrollment in the contest was 70,724.

OFFICIALS TO SPEAK

Other features of the program Friday night include a performance by the Bugle and Drum Corps of Police and Fire Corps No. 303, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and talks by city government and traffic committee officials. President of City Council John S. Herron will present the awards.

WINNER MAKING READY FOR TOUR

Miss Anna Nydes, the new "Miss Pittsburgh," who won this title and the Gloria Swanson-Sun-Telegraph de luxe tour to Paris, all expenses paid, has been temporarily relieved from all of her duties at the office of the department of law, City Hall, and is giving all of her time to preparation for departure for New York Wednesday night.

Thursday and Friday she will be entertained with a score of other Gloria Swanson girls in Hotel Roosevelt, New York City, and Friday night at 10:30 o'clock she will sail for France on the French Line S.S. Ile de France.

Tonight Miss Nydes will be the guest of Loew's Penn Theater for a showing of "Morocco," the feature picture current this week.

Miss Nydes will be accompanied by a score of friends, and the five girls who won the Sun-Telegraph free Bermuda trips will be guests in an adjoining box.

Ted Claire, master of ceremonies this week, probably will introduce Miss Nydes to the audience.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Parade!

It's a long hike from Fifth avenue with its orderly Armistice Day procession of doughboys to the tramp of military officers in the barbaric wilderness of the Caucasian Hills in Europe, but that's where the parade is tonight.

Perk up your military spirit and mark time as trumpets and brass announce the "March of the Sardar" on KDKA at 10. This magnificent concert march from Ippolitow-Ivanow's "Caucasian Sketches" just blazes with color.

* * *

Or if you'd rather march closer to home, join the Vastine Band parade down the main street of Monroeville, O., at 8 on KDKA.

* * *

Those Southern Methodists unleash a new brand of aerial attack on WJAS at 10 with Guy Lombardo playing their favorite tunes.

* * *

What announcers besides Graham McNamee are in "Who's Who?"—D. T. J.

Answer—The 1930-31 edition of "Who's Who" does not list radio announcers, not even McNamee. Compilers of the book maintain that radio announcing is not a profession. We think their attitude a bit unfair, particularly with Milton J. Cross and Alwyn E. W. Bach, winners of the Diction Medal.

* * *

Ernie Smith, of the Hearst Radio Service, gave the announcing boys in the East something to think about with his description of the Notre Dame-U. S. C. game over Columbia and WJAS Saturday.

* * *

Ernie claims he has the largest dog in the world. Prince Igor weighs 185 pounds and has three strains in his ancestry—Great Dane, St. Bernard and Shepherd Police.

* * *

Prince Igor goes to every football broadcast with his master. Once in a long while he barks for a touchdown, but more often he barks for juicy steaks.

* * *

We confer gold medals on William Burke Miller, George Hicks and James Wallington for their picturesque description of the submarine O-8's dive off New London, Conn., yesterday.

* * *

To our mind it was the most perfect, clever bit of news reporting ever undertaken by the NBC. It had more punch than a dozen football games.

* * *

When Hicks said he was "at sea" in more ways than one, he was only fooling. This boy has a ready wit and colorful vocabulary. Wallington had some nice remarks, too.

* * *

Credit for the bright continuity and the ingenious way officers of the Navy were introduced to explain the various maneuvers, goes to Skeets Miller, the "little Napoleon" of NBC who arranges all special broadcasts.

* * *

Skeets won the Pulitzer prize for obtaining a personal interview with Floyd Collins when Collins was imprisoned in the Kentucky cavern.

* * *

In seven years of radio reporting we have heard nothing to compare with the skillful way this broadcast was presented. So packed with realism that we saw Hicks go down the conning tower and into the torpedo chamber; so graphic that we want to go through the stunt ourselves—without joining the Navy.

* * *

Would it be out of place, Mr. Arlesworth, for us to recommend bonus checks for these boys?

* * *

"BY THE WAY—"

Ted Husing is to describe the colorful military formations prior to the Army-Navy game this Saturday, CBS and WJAS taking the air at 12:15 . . . Graham McNamee tells the story for KDKA and WCAE fans at 1 p. m. . . . If all the people in the tristate range of KDKA listened at the same time there would be an audience of 11,516,700 . . . believe it or not . . . this is based on 4.68 listeners per radio home . . . Lloyd Thomas informs us that 98 per cent of the people listen in from 6 until midnight . . . afternoon comes next, then morning . . . Mildred Nixon, the KDKA mail girl, has sorted 163,418 letters in the last year . . . Irene Bardoni sings for WCAE fans Thursday at 8 . . . Don Clark writes the continuity for "Old Curiosity Shop" on WJAS . . . he is also "Jerry Madison" in the Publix Revue on Tuesday night . . . Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt speaks on furniture and dress tomorrow afternoon at 5, WCAE . . . Charles Finan and Paul Winkoop, "Snoop and Peep," return to WCAE tomorrow night at 8:15 . . . they learned to sing while scrubbing decks for Uncle Sam.

Electric Clock

For CHRISTMAS

★ ★ ★

. . . it's the PERFECT gift!

Beautiful, personal, appropriate . . . dignified, modern, useful . . . the gift that everyone wants . . . the gift that you, yourself, would like to receive!

There are hundreds of designs . . . for young and old alike . . . hundreds of styles, finishes and sizes. For the mantel, desk, radio, table, wall . . . for every room in the home . . . even the kitchen. And floor models for the hallway, living room and stair landing.

Cases of glistening walnut, mahogany, rare woods . . . inlaid, plain, or with highly decorative carvings. Some have rich-toned bakelite or metal cases . . . each a work of genuine art. Silvered dials, gilded dials . . . illuminated, perhaps. Many are fitted with the melodious chimes of Canterbury, Westminster, Whittington . . . that sound forth the time every quarter hour.

Best of all, an Electric Clock provides ever-accurate time. It is a minute-after-minute reminder of the giver . . . that pleasant reminder which is the true criterion of the Perfect Gift. Give an Electric Clock for Christmas!

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The earliest fingers of the jazz masters are disturbing more and more the sacred shrines of the masters.

Wagner, Beethoven, Grieg, Verdi, Tschaikowsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff—all have been sacrificed to make a hoofer's holiday. For a time Saint-Saens was left serene in the exclusive company of Debussy and Stravinsky, who until now have defied the dance maestros.

"The Swan"—excuse me, while I brush away a tear—is now a one-step along with the "Moonlight Sonata," the "Evening Star" and the arias from "Faust" and "Lucia."

* * *

The jazz boys seem to have neglected the hymns, but it won't be for long, if we read the signs of the times aright. With jazz bands now playing in churches we'll soon be keeping time, our tea leaves tell us, to a modern version of "Rock of Ages" and the hosannas of Martin Luther.

Heights of Boredom Might Be Diverting

Symposiums on "outstanding days," "greatest thrills," "most memorable events" in people's lives continue to find favor with the broadcasters. Why not for a change—it might prove diverting—discussions of the dullest days, the most trivial moments, the heights of boredom?

* * *

Talkie stars have done well to abandon their serious practice of greeting the radio public with a sentence or two of ballyhoo concerning their forthcoming picture and a few bars of a theme song. They are now going in for original microphone sketches.

Scarcely a station now remains unrepresented by a two-piano team. They possess the dizziest fingers on the radio. The millennium will arrive when they fail to keep in unison.

Though he has been dead more than 40 years, Wagner today has a more compelling modern note than the majority of modern composers who aspire to a nod from Toscanini.

* * *

There comes a time in the life of every basso when, without warning, he gives off the song of the Volga Boatman.

Of all the classical composers who have been tossed into the jazz hopper, Chaminade has come off with greatest glory.

NOTE TO WIFE FREES SLAYER

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8.—Although never positively identified, "Mike," alleged admirer of Mrs. Elizabeth Shubert, slain two months ago by her husband, aided materially in the acquittal of Steve Shubert. The jury was apparently impressed by a letter addressed to Mrs. Shubert asking for a tryst.

Shubert was acquitted on a plea of self defense and unwritten law. After two friends visited his wife at 6 a. m. and brought liquor, she insisted on hiring a gypsy orchestra for entertainment. Shubert objected and in the ensuing scuffle the revolver was fired and the woman fatally shot.

BANDITS KIDNAP PAIR, CAPTURED

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Two robbers who kidnaped Carl V. Wisner, Chicago attorney, and his niece in a holdup were captured 10 minutes later after a running gun fight with two police squads. No one was injured in the battle.

The attorney and his niece had been snatched from the sidewalk in front of the Wisner home just after they had alighted from an automobile.

SEEK CABARET GIRL IN KILLING

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A man and a woman were held in jail here while officers of nearby Western states continued to seek Jean Dayle, 21, cabaret singer, in connection with the slaying and robbing of Sam Frank, 65, Memphis, Tenn., jewelry auctioneer, in his hotel room here.

P. J. Guinin, 31, and Edna Arnold, 22, said by officers to be friends of Miss Dayle, were held pending further investigation.

Miss Dayle is known in several cities under assumed names, officers reported. They said Miss Dayle was with Frank the night of the slaying.

Frank was robbed of cash and gems valued at several thousand dollars. He died from a fractured skull and strangulation. He had been slugged with a whisky bottle and a woman's stocking was found crammed in his throat.

Pittsburgh Pastors Speakers for Elks

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 8.—The Rev. M. F. Bierbaum, pastor of Pilgrim Evangelical Church, Pittsburgh, and chaplain of the Pennsylvania Elks Association, was the principal speaker at the annual memorial services at Rochester Lodge No. 283, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—The Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church, Pittsburgh, made the address at the annual memorial services of New Castle Lodge of Elks.

Man Seeks Haven In Jail, Sets Self Afire

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Frank Brown, a Negro, ran through the back door of the Washington County jail, tossed a pistol and $20 on the floor and hid under a table. Turnkey Rickard placed him under arrest on charges of robbing another Negro. He had not been in his cell more than 10 minutes before he set fire to his clothing and the bed. Other prisoners and the officer put out the fire. The Negro was not severely burned.

ICE BREAKS, BOY DIES, 2 SAVED

A boy was drowned and two companions were saved from death after they broke through thin ice along the banks of the Youghiogheny River, near Scott Haven, yesterday afternoon. The dead lad is Samuel P. Moore, 10, of House 75, Scott Haven. Albert and Anthony Krezlowski, 13 and 9, respectively, were rescued by Adolph Saccino, of Blythedale.

According to witnesses the three boys had been sliding on the ice along the bank about half way between Blythedale and Scott Haven, when they broke through. Saccino heard their cries and ran to them. He managed to drag the brothers to safety, but was unable to reach Moore, who was caught in mud and underbrush below the surface.

TURKEY FLAYED AS SOURCE OF U. S. DOPE

La Guardia Files Bill Expected to Force Help In Curbing Drug Traffic

Financial Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Declaring Turkey is the source of most of the narcotic drugs peddled illicitly in the United States to wreck the lives of thousands of persons, Representative F. H. La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, today filed a bill in the House requiring customs examination of every article of commerce from that country.

Inspection of every parcel of goods imported from Turkey, La Guardia believes, would force Turkey to co-operate in the war against illicit drugs.

H. J. Anslinger, director of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, recently told the House Appropriations Committee that most of the "dope" sold by peddlers was smuggled into the country from Turkey.

As Turkey is not a signatory to the convention between the United States and other powers for the suppression of the abuse of opium and other drugs, Turkey is not compelled to apply restrictions on manufacture and export of narcotics.

DIRECT PROTESTS LIKELY

Direct protests to Turkey, however, were believed likely, unless steps are taken by her to curb the illicit traffic.

La Guardia said:

"It has been discovered that large manufacturers have moved their plants from various countries to Turkey. Turkey is one of the few countries which has failed to sign the treaty for the suppression of the abuse of opium and other drugs, signed by the leading nations of the world.

"This treaty provides the instrumentality through which the nations may clear information as well as definitely providing the regulations under which narcotics may be manufactured and exported.

"Turkey has repeatedly been urged to sign the treaty and though it repeatedly gave assurance to the powers that it would, to date it has failed to do so.

'DOPE' INDUSTRY BUSY

"The narcotic industry in Turkey is now flourishing and there is no control of the manufacture limitation of methods in exportation. Unlawful dealers and smugglers of narcotics are operating from Turkish territory. Most of the smuggling to the United States comes from Turkey.

"The Federal Bureau of Narcotics recently discovered one of the important sources of importation and has not only seized and confiscated large quantities of narcotics which come from Turkey, but has several persons under indictment in New York City.

"Turkey must either sign the treaty and comply with the provisions or else be subjected to different and separate treatment in the export trade and submit to the conditions which this country has a right to impose."

Plan Job Relief Meet Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Launching a "Buy Now" campaign as one phase of its activities, the general committee named to participate in the drive against unemployment will meet Wednesday evening. All unemployed of the city will be registered as to trade.

Judge Puts Liquor Ban on Man, Girl Motorists

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 8.—At a hearing before Judge Parker, Miss Margaret Derosia and E. B. Torgler, of Bradford, were penalized by fines and costs, following an auto accident in which their car figured in Franklin last summer.

Miss Derosia, an accountant, admitted taking two drinks before leaving East Hickory. She was arrested here by state motor patrolmen for driving while intoxicated.

Judge Parker suspended sentence, placing both defendants on probation for a year, upon their agreement not to handle or drink intoxicants during that time. He fined Torgler $250 and the girl $200.

'GLOOMY DEAN' IN RADIO TALK

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, in a trans-Atlantic talk, described as "mutilated and incomplete" a religion that did not touch science, and a science that did not touch religion.

He said he did not believe science and religion would ever entirely agree, the most for which they could hope being that the science of a religious man might be scientific, and the religion of a scientific man might be religious.

Much has been done in the past 50 years, he asserted, to clear away the mass of false science from religion and remove many obstacles to religion from science.

ART SHOW DRAWS RECORD CROWD

All former attendance records at Carnegie International art exhibits were shattered by the twenty-ninth exhibition, which closed last night. This announcement was made at the Institute immediately after the end of the exhibition.

The exact count for the six weeks of the show was 141,361. This attendance exceeded last year's by 8,797, and surpassed the former highest attendance of 113,275, at the exhibit of 1925, by 8,086. The attendance at the International has more than tripled in the last 10 years.

Tomorrow the shipment of American paintings back to their owners will begin. Next week all of the European paintings will be removed to the Cleveland Exhibit of Art, where they will be exhibited in January. From Cleveland they will go to the Art Institute of Chicago, and from there sent back to Carnegie Institute next April to be returned to Europe.

MURDERS, HOLDUPS BAFFLE POLICE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Platt

William Platt

The best true story of the hunting season finally had Monday morning the six sons of Mr. and Mrs. Rosa Bryner set out. From their home on the Connellsville-Farmington road, near Ohio Pyle, late Monday evening the six Bryner sons returned to their home with six deer, each son having shot one.

At the banquet for the South Hills High School football team a few nights ago, Sam Smith, the fourmore football star at Waynesburg, who is now coaching Dormont High, told this story:

"A few years ago, when Notre Dame was playing Army, the Irish team discovered that Harry Wilson, the Army star, always flashed when his number was called for a play. That, of course, made it easy for Notre Dame to stop Wilson.

"But the Army coaches learned of this, and they frustrated the Irish by having all four of the backfield men flash just before the ball was passed. Notre Dame was so bewildered by so many flashes that the Army backs had an easy time of it.

"And after the game Rockne declared that it was the first time he had ever been beaten by four-flushers."

If you went to Public Safety Director Clark today and asked for a permit to stage a bicycle race downtown, the director probably would have you arrested on a charge of being a suspicious person, or something.

Bicycle racing is passe, but it was your father's favorite sport. If the sport idols of today are Pie Traynor and Eddie Baker and Buck McTiernan, the idols of 30 years ago were Lester Wilson, George Banker and Alex Sanguigni, all Pittsburghers. Wilson was recognized as the amateur bike champion, and Banker was the professional champion. Sanguigni, who is now in the hauling business, succeeded Wilson as the mob's hero.

Sanguigni would tell you that bicycle racing was the most strenuous sport ever invented. The racers feared cramped leg muscles which rendered them helpless. The witch hazel industry boomed with bicycle races, for gallons of it were rubbed into the thighs and calves of the riders.

The races usually ended in Sixth street, downtown. Hundreds lined the sidewalks for the finish and more than once the leaders would have to dismount and push their wheels through the crowds. Often, too, a rider whose machine had broken down would push his bike to the finish line.

The favorite route for road races was out the Butler plank road to Bakerstown, and return. Stiffer tests were to Butler and back.

Andrey Avinoff, director of Carnegie Museum, and his friend, Mr. Clapp, chairman of Carnegie Institute's board, went fishing a few months ago.

Mr. Avinoff had never fished before, so when he captured four brook trout he was enthused beyond silence.

In fact, he immediately wired friends:

"COMING TO DINNER WITH FOUR BROOK TROUT."

In his excitement, Mr. Avinoff neglected to sign the telegram, which reached its destination in this language:

"TROUT."

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 8.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

We had an awful good Methodist team out here till this Knutre Dame showed us coast defenders how America's biggest collegiate industry really should be carried on. I have heard all kinds of reasons about why some section played better than others and all those usual alibis, but after seeing Knutre Dame I just can't see but one conclusion to be drawn. It just ain't a Protestant pastime.

Huge Saving Seen in Lake Canal

PITTSBURGH TO BENEFIT IN RATES

Project to Prove Boon to Coal, Steel Industries; Carry Fight to Capital

Annual savings of $7,900,000 would be made possible by the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal which will handle over 25,000,000 tons of traffic a year, according to a study of the plan made by Robert Isham Randolph, consulting engineer for the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board of the State of Pennsylvania.

The $101,000,000 canal extending from the Ohio River at Beaver to a point on Lake Erie, near Ashtabula, would break the grip of unfavorable freight rates on the coal industry and would permit the steel companies to get their ore and limestone at a lower cost.

AID TO PITTSBURGH

These developments would materially help Pittsburgh in competing with other districts and would increase employment here, it is claimed.

In constructing the canal the Beaver and Mahoning rivers would be canalized by the construction of locks and the deepening of channels. From Niles the canal would turn directly north, leaving the natural river system.

A 12-foot channel would be provided which would make possible the use of deeper barges than are now carrying traffic on the Ohio and Monongahela rivers. The sills of the locks of the recently constructed dams on the Ohio have been designed to permit a 12-foot draft in anticipation of the building of the canal.

CARRY FIGHT TO CAPITAL

The canal plans provide for a minimum width at the bottom of 131 feet, which would permit the rapid handling of large tows. About five years will be required for construction of the canal.

Tonight 50 industrial leaders of the Pittsburgh district will leave for Washington to attend a conference on the canal to be held in the Willard Hotel tomorrow. The delegates from Pittsburgh will attempt to gain the support of senators and congressmen for the project. The plan will also be laid before the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which convenes in Washington tomorrow.

2 DEAD, 7 HURT HERE IN AUTO CRASHES

Man and Woman Die After Accidents; Policeman Hit Chasing Speeding Motorist

Two persons, one a woman, were dead and seven others injured as a result of automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district.

Injured in an automobile in which her son was killed Friday morning, Mrs. Mary Walters, 45, of Trevskyn, died yesterday in Mercy Hospital. She suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a Heidelburg street car at Second and Railroad avenues, Carnegie. The son, Paul, 14, died a few minutes after the accident.

A daughter, Agnes Walters, 18, and Anna Burns, of Muse, were slightly hurt, and another son, Joseph Walters, 23, escaped injury. The car was owned by Miss Burns and was being driven by Joseph Walters.

MAN KILLED

William Buford, 28, a Negro, of 808 Pensylvania avenue, Coraopolis, was killed and two others were injured when an automobile in which they were riding skidded and overturned on the Aliquippa road, South Heights, yesterday. His companions, William Langley, 28, and John Henry, 24, both Negroes of 115 Main street, Coraopolis, were given medical attention and taken home.

Joseph Vernattowez, 13, of 129 South Seventeenth street, was in South Side Hospital today with both legs broken, after being hit by a machine said to have been driven by John A. Selen, 62, of 1914 Bailey avenue, McKeesport. Selen was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

While giving chase to a motorist who had passed a red signal light in Butler street, Etna, Motorcycle Patrolman George Steiner of Etna police was struck by another automobilist. He sustained severe lacerations and bruises of the leg, police said.

Suffering fractures of the right leg when he was struck by an automobile at Evans and Baldwin streets, McKeesport, Dusan Mrvos, 41, of 902 Soles street, McKeesport, was in the McKeesport Hospital today.

TRUCK STRIKES MAN

Struck by a truck at Port Perry road and Braddock avenue, East Pittsburgh, John C. Leary, 45, of 88 Gloster street, suffered a fractured right arm and lacerations. He was taken to the Braddock General Hospital. The truck, owned by the Equitable Gas Company, was driven by Nick Nappi, of 6204 St. Marie street, according to police.

Joseph Toth, 50, of 1150 East Eighth avenue, Munhall, was injured yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by Leo P. Fagan, of 5641 Pocusset street, near his home. Toth was taken to the Homestead Hospital.

New Bronze Indian for Sharpsburg

NEW STATUE OF GUYASUTA TO REPLACE ONE HIT BY AUTO

A new statue of the Indian chieftain, whose tribe once held Sharpsburg and Aspinwall, to stand at Main and North Canal streets where its predecessor was wrecked by an auto a year ago.

ERECT STATUE AT SHARPSBURG

Chief Guyasuta, like the Phoenix of old, which destroyed once, arose again from the fires to greater things, will again look down on the people of Sharpsburg.

A statue of Chief Guyasuta, erected at the intersection of Main and North Canal streets, a gift of H. J. Heinz, 35 years ago, was destroyed a year ago when a motorist bumped the statue from its base.

A brand new statue of the chief, which, according to Borough Secretary H. J. Hohman, Jr., cost about $1,000, was delivered to the borough municipal building recently. The Pennsylvania Indemnity Corporation, with office in the Park building, made the gift this time. They handled the insurance for the motorist. A reinforced concrete base is now being constructed for the new statue.

Chief Guyasuta and his tribe had possession of that section many years ago. They owned land that is now Sharpsburg, Aspinwall and a part of O'Hara township. Old settlers bought all of the land. The chief is buried on the Darlington property in O'Hara township.

Cashier's Killer Escapes, Stolen Car Found; Bandit Routed at Trolley Barns

A pre-holiday crime wave swept the Pittsburgh district over the week-end as police vainly hunted gunmen, holdup men and thieves in an effort to check the orgy of lawlessness. High points of the crime calendar were:

1—County detectives and state police continued search for the gunman who shot and killed the cashier of the Allegheny Trust Company, Verona, Saturday, and escaped with $1,328.

2—A robber attempted to hold up the operator of a one-man trolley car in South Hills tunnel barns early today, but was frightened away.

3—Police were on trail of slayers of Martin Shaffer, of Valley Heights, shot and mortally wounded by two robbers Saturday night.

4—Anna Shellmick, 18, of Bull Creek road, Fawn Township, reported kidnaped from her escort in Brackenridge last night, returned to sister's home in Tarentum, but later disappeared.

Several clues were being followed today in an attempt to apprehend the gunman who killed the bank cashier, Charles N. McFarland, 38, without giving him a chance for his life.

AMATEUR SUSPECTED

Detectives incline to the theory that the holdup and murder was the work of an amateur. The automobile in which he fled was found in the Eastwood road, near the Frankstown road, Penn Township, several hours after the holdup.

Funeral services will be held for McFarland at 8 o'clock tonight in his Oakmont home, in charge of the Rev. B. W. Hutchinson, of the Oakmont Methodist Episcopal Church.

A masked robber pressed a revolver against the breast of William Berger, 1821 Woodbourne avenue, operator of a Mt. Lebanon one-man trolley car in the South Hills tunnel barns early today, with the command:

"Stick 'em up."

Berger, thinking he was the victim of a prank, turned to get out of his car. The bandit seized him. Berger shouted, attracting the attention of another operator. The holdup man fled.

Steven Bayza, of Colfax street, Brackenridge, reported to police that as he was driving in Brackenridge last night with Miss Shellmick, a stranger stepped on the running board, pointed a revolver at his head, held a sponge filled with ammonia to his face and forced him to alight.

GIRL RETURNS

Bayza said he was felled by a blow with a revolver butt. His assailant then leaped into the car and drove off with Miss Shellmick, he related. The girl later returned to the home of her sister, Mrs. Bessie Howard, Seventh street, Tarentum, but later left, the latter said, without saying where she was going.

For the second time in three weeks, thieves scaled the 25-foot wall surrounding the loading area of the W. S. Schomacker Company, 839 Lockhart street, and escaped with a truck loaded with 5,300 pounds of granulated sugar.

Officials of the company blame bootleggers for the theft. They said that in the first robbery two trucks, one loaded with granulated and the other with powdered sugar, were stolen. The powdered sugar was later recovered.

TRUCK RECOVERED

The thieves loaded the truck themselves and later succeeded in removing a special bolt which had been placed in the door of the loading area, after which they drove the truck out the front entrance. The truck, like the other two, was recovered in Woods Run.

Admitting two holdups and four robberies, John Rusyn, 17, of 2504 Josephine street, and Theodore Andrukayzys, 18, of 14 Kosciusko way, were held for Morals Court today by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court.

According to police records, the youths confessed to holding up M. Wolfe in his confectionary store at 2200 Arlington avenue, taking $5, and David Hill, fare collector at the St. Clair incline, Josephine street, from whom they took $25. Both holdups took place December 2 and the victims were cowed with guns.

Four petty robberies also were

By PENELOPE REDD.

Miss Phyllis and Miss Louise Totten are sponsoring the collection of antique furniture and silver from the Brainard Lemon collection of Louisville, at the Hotel Schenley.

The Lemon collection has been exhibited in Pittsburgh annually for the past decade. Of recent years a charming installation has been effected through the addition of Georgian furniture which serves as an appropriate background for the silver.

Penelope Redd

The deceitfully fragile appearance of a three-pedestal Sheraton dining table is belied by its actual weight. Of mahogany, exquisite in tone, it is banded with rosewood and stainwood inlay.

Another unusual item of furniture is a serving table flanked by two ritualistic wine urns on monumental pedestals. The table is dressed with candelabra, a fine pair of crystal vases encased in silver designed by Paul Storr in 1826, and a centerpiece tureen by the same silversmith who flourished from 1794 to 1836.

One finds crests of families familiar through famous portraits such as that of the Baron Craddock-Hartropp engraved upon a pair of entree dishes with the crest modeled into handles.

Elizabeth Godfrey's muffineers in the more elaborate style of George II, registered in 1752, prove the women were no inconsiderable craftsmen several centuries ago.

Other important objects are three salters by Paul Lamerie, greatest of the workers in silver, designed in 1729, and two silver gilt patens, probably intended for ecclesiastical use. The patens bear the arms of the Duke of Newcastle and the date 1697 with only the initials of that excellent and unknown master, "V. N."

HOLIDAY GIFTS FOR NEEDY ASKED

Poor Children's Requests Pour Into Headquarters; Quick Action Imperative

The Toy Mission Santa today began compiling his list of needy boys and girls who, but for the timely donations of new and old toys these days, might find their Christmas stocking empty.

Thousands of requests began pouring into Toy Mission Headquarters at 414 Penn avenue from public and parochial schools throughout the city. George L. Bond, founder of the mission, and his corps of volunteer workers have spent several weeks mailing out request slips to principals and teachers who pass upon the needs of children from deserving families.

There are thousands of families in the city, according to Bond, where poverty constantly hovers and this year there is greater distress than ever before due to the unemployment situation, he says.

RECEIVING STATIONS

Every police and fire house in the city is a receiving station for toys—old and new. The Sun-Telegraph is helping out in this worthy enterprise by taking over the full responsibility for collection of neighborhood donations.

Toys of all kinds are acceptable. Anything that can be repaired or matched with other donations is eagerly sought by Toy Mission workers. Leave your donation at the nearest fire or police station and it will be collected by Sun-Telegraph delivery trucks and taken to Toy Mission headquarters where an army of volunteer workers is busy sorting, repairing and wrapping the gifts that will make some needy child happy Christmas Day.

Last year the mission served more than 17,000 boys and girls of the Pittsburgh district. This year there will be thousands more requests, according to Bond, who points out that the time is short and quick action imperative.

BOND MAKES APPEAL

Mr. Bond in an appeal today said:

"We hope to be able to serve thousands of children this year who are inadvertantly suffering their first pangs of poverty due to depressed business conditions. We are faced with the greatest problem our little charity has had in 36 years and we are appealing to the great public of more fortunate men, women and children to send in some little donation to make these brave little hearts happy on Christmas Day."

LEARNING PITTSBURGH'S SKYWAYS

MISS HELEN RICHEY

Two student pilots at Pittsburgh-Butler Airport as one started aloft. Miss Richey, daughter of McKeesport's school superintendent, last week won her limited commercial pilot's license. Miss Janner's home is in Butler and she's still working at the airport for her first license.

PUPILS BUILD POSTOFFICE

Miss Delphine Bisi, teacher of community nature study and art at the Spring Lane School, old St. Clair Borough, decided to interest her third grade youngsters in some project that would be of interest and provide experience in civic problems. She decided to undertake the construction of a miniature postoffice.

The boys were given charge of collecting boxes and materials for the actual construction work while the girls rummaged for old letters, stamps and other essentials of a postoffice. They wrote to the postmaster and planned, with his co-operation, a trip to the postoffice that they might find out how a real one was carried on.

After three months of hard work, the pupils have created a crude postoffice that can be set up in five minutes, but is big enough for the children, who are 7, 8 and 9 years old, to work in.

School project workers have complimented the children on their realistic exhibition. The University of Pittsburgh requested that the children show their lantern slides on the workings of a postoffice. The slides were drawn and tinted by three of the little girls of the class.

SUSPECT HELD IN SHOOTING

A suspect was being held by North Side police today in connection with the shooting of two men in a restaurant at 117 West Ohio street, Saturday morning.

The prisoner, one of three sought, was docketed as Walter Cole, 26, of Sherman avenue. He was arrested last night in East Ohio street.

The two victims, James Garafalo, 36, of Perrysville avenue, and Jerome J. King, of Fifth avenue, who were taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, refused to talk, according to police. Garafalo was shot twice in the right arm, and King once in the left leg.

Heavy Mail Sent Loneliest Child

DARWIN, Australia, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The loneliest child in Australia, a girl of 11, is getting joy from a big mail. She lives at Birdum, Central Australia. The only inhabitants are herself and parents. The nearest neighbor is 100 miles away. She wrote a newspaper in Sydney telling about herself. Now she gets so many letters from children that the government has increased the facilities for handling Birdum's mail.

Officials Scan Leech Farm Golf Course and Movies

Mayor Charles H. Kline and city councilmen were among the 350 persons who last night inspected the new indoor golf course and electric sound-producing motion picture machine at the Leech Farm, the city's tuberculosis farm. Speakers were Mayor Kline and Councilman John Herron.

The golf course will be open daily, while the picture machine, installed in a $30,000 auditorium, will be used Tuesday and Friday nights.

Homestead Blaze Damage Set $1,000

Fire damaged the drug store of A. J. Smetana at 106 East Eighth avenue, Homestead, last night. The flame originated in the basement and caused damage estimated by police at $1,000. The first floor storeroom was slightly damaged by smoke.

HAS TO BE ON THE JOB DESPITE BAD WEATHER

MR. WM. H. GLOVER

REM quickly checks coughs

Mr. Wm. H. Glover of 5005 Anthony Ave., Baltimore, is the manager of a filling station. Good weather and bad, whenever a customer "honks" for service, he must be on the job, ready to fill up a gas-tank or check the oil. Naturally he gets coughs off and on, but he's learned what to do for them. "It must have been five or six years ago," says Mr. Glover, "that we started using REM in our family. I work at the station all year round, and running out to give service in all kinds of weather, I get coughs-and-colds. But I've never failed to get relief with REM. I've gotten many a bottle at George Bowman's across the street. We all use it at home, too. I think REM's great and I'm glad to tell how good it is."

MEMBERS OF THE GOOD WILL CLUB IN A MEETING CALLED BY PRESIDENT JEAN GRIFFITH

KENNETH WHITTAKER EDNA MAY MacCRUM

Young members of the Good Will Club, up and coming welfare organization in Winterburn street, soliciting clothes for their poor. At the present time, they're aiding two destitute Hill families.

CHILDREN WORK FOR CHARITY

Eight children, selling cookies that their mothers make, and collecting clothes that residents of the Schenley Park district have no further need of have taken on a welfare campaign of their own. They call themselves the Good Will Club, and are aiding two Hill district families in need with baskets of food and clothing.

All live in Winterburn street. They have regular meetings, and spend their spare time working for charity. Each contributes as dues a dime a month. They have been in operation since last April. And Christmas—that's to be the day when they hope to make their best showing.

Jean Griffith, under 12, is the president. Kenneth Whittaker is vice president. The other members are James McNeil, Edna May MacCrum, Nancy Jane Kalberer, Ralph Whittaker, Gwendolyn Griffith, John MacCrum, Alberta MacCrum—the youngest, for she's three—and "Tippy McNeil," a hound dog.

During the summer they borrowed ice cream from the mothers and sold it—along with the cakes. Later they were able to buy their own cream and sell it. They realized $30 profit, which went into Halloween and Thanksgiving baskets for the two poor families.

BRADDOCK RAID HEARING FOR 41

Six women and 35 men, all Negroes, were to be given hearings today before Burgess James H. Rose, of Braddock, as an aftermath to a raid conducted by Police Lieut. Edward McDonough on a house at 543 Sixth street, rear, Saturday night. Susie Fields, 30, a Negro woman, was held on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and the others as visitors, police said.

POLICE WEIGH BOMB CLUES

County detectives, headed by James Reddington, are today investigating a bomb explosion which yesterday partly demolished the Joyce restaurant, 318 Sixth avenue, McKeesport. The building and adjoining structures were damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars, police said.

According to McKeesport police, about two feet of fuse, similar to that used to set off explosives, was found near the rear door of the restaurant. No one was injured in the explosion, they said.

Michael Joyce, owner of the restaurant, was unable to give police any reason why his establishment should be bombed. He had been in business only two weeks and said he knew of no one who would wish to harm him. Police said they believed that the bomb had been meant for some other establishment.

Body Identified As Son's by Mother

An unidentified man, found unconscious by North Side police at Cajou and Range ways late last night, died today in Allegheny General Hospital of a skull fracture.

The body later was identified by Mrs. Mathilda Noe, of 213 Chesbro street, North Side, as that of her son, James Noe, 35, of 207 Warfield street. She said he was ill yesterday morning when she last saw him.

Four Fined $95 In Store Thefts

Four persons, accused by detectives on charges of shoplifting in a downtown department store, were fined from $10 to $50 when arraigned today.

They are Peter Stasanos, 35, of Robinson street, fined $25; Mr. and Mrs. Amelia Maoles, 10 Covington street, fined $10 each, and Mrs. L. H. Rodis, of 7021 Manhattan street, fined $50.

Dr. Ewers Sees Religion Strong in England

Religiously, England seems to be in rather good condition, the Rev. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, declared in his sermon on "Dear Old England," last night in the church. In part he said:

"Religiously, England seems to be in rather good condition, if we may believe such authorities as Dr. Norwood, Canon Tatlow, Dr. Garvie and Dr. Selbie. College and university students are very religious, judging from their attendance of meetings of religious and social themes. Church unity is also making decided progress, as witnessed by the Union of Presbyterian Churches in Scotland last year.

"The first question which the English ask is always regarding prohibition. If I may judge, drinking is on the decline there. The "pubs" are only open at intervals during the day. In point of personality, the English are superb."

Gastritis 4 Years Gone Now! Feels Like New Man

"I received a sample package of your wonderful ACIDINE," says Douglass Terry of Chicago, Ill. "I had Gastritis four years. I am happy to say I feel like a new man. I have a sweet, pleasant taste in my mouth now."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

FIVE NEWSBOYS GIVEN AUTOS

Nearly 3,000 carrier boys and newsboys employed by the Sun-Telegraph crowded into the Harris Theater yesterday afternoon to see Austin Bantam cars presented to five of their co-workers, while to several others were given prizes in gold. These were the major prize and cash prize winners in the contest recently conducted by this newspaper through its street sales and home delivery department for increased sales.

The winners of the Austin Bantams were: Joseph A. Cygnarowicz, Theodore Eugene Huff, John Zuk, Louis C. Williams and Joseph A. Santoriella, each representing a different section of Pittsburgh.

The presentation of the Austin Bantams was made from the stage by B. W. Bloom, circulation director of the Sun-Telegraph.

In the meantime, Warner Bros. had provided a fine entertainment for the big audience, including a Western thriller, "Under Montana Skies," and the feature act on this week's vaudeville bill at the Harris, Bennington's Newsboys' Harmonica Band. And the Pittsburgh newsboys made that New York newsboys' band play plenty.

Truck Man Loses Tacks, Autos Find Them

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—If the truck driver who lost a keg of roofing tacks on the Oakland highway four miles north of here, goes back there inquiring about it—it'll be a tactical error.

Stalled automobiles were parked for a quarter of a mile on either side of the road last night, most of them with four flat tires. Two cars brought a score of machines into San Jose, and at least that many more were lined up at Milpitas.

Chorus Entertains At County Jail

Prisoners in the county jail were entertained yesterday with a musical program by the Scotch Mixed Chorus of Pittsburgh. The 35 men and women sang many numbers, including "Bonnie Boy" and the "Babylon Wail," the program including several solos.

ELK MEMORIAL RITUALS HELD

Pittsburgh district lodges of the B. P. O. Elks last night joined with lodges throughout the country in memorial services for deceased members.

John A. Freyvogel, exalted ruler, was in charge at No. 11, Seventh street. He reported 41 members died during the year.

At Lodge No. 339, Cedar avenue, North Side, the speaker was Dr. S. S. Baker, president of Washington and Jefferson College. District Attorney Andrew T. Park spoke at Homestead Lodge No. 650. R. J. Miller, exalted ruler, presided, and H. E. McWhinney delivered the eulogy.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty delivered the oration, and J. Charles Wenzel the eulogy, at services of Knoxville Lodge, No. 1196, held in the Uhlman Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars auditorium, Mt. Oliver.

Never Ending Search

For better ways to cut food prices

As food merchant to a nation, A&P bears a responsibility greater than that demanded of a mere trader in food. Selling food to great numbers of families involves the well-being of millions of people. Reducing the nation's food bill calls for more than the slashing of grocery prices.

It calls for everlasting watchfulness for better methods of food growing and producing, of shipping, of handling and storing, of marketing and retailing food—command of every invention and every means known to man for assisting the flow of food from its sources to the store counter.

Because A&P assumes the entire task of bringing food from producer to consumer, its responsibility to the public is greater than if it performed but a small part. Its search for better methods must be never-ending. Its way of lowering the cost of food to the consumer must be the best.

A&P makes food prices low by the best methods of Today. A&P will keep food prices low by the best methods of Tomorrow.

INSIST PLANS FOR POSTOFFICE BE CHANGED

Congestion Seen if Present Course Is Carried Out; Await Federal Drawings

Indicating that there will be a "fight" if government officials insist upon a Seventh avenue ramp to the new post office, to be built at Grant street and Seventh avenue, instead of a ramp over Grant street, Frank L. Duggan of the Better Traffic Committee, said today he is awaiting copies of the final plans for the new Federal Building before taking any definite action.

Duggan said that last May government officials had agreed to the Better Traffic Committee's proposal that a ramp be built over Grant street, eliminating a left turn and consequently traffic congestion at the Seventh avenue entrance.

Now, however, Duggan said he understands that the Grant street ramp plan has been discarded. It was said at the Treasury department that the plan calling for a ramp with an opening and exit on Seventh avenue is still in force. The supervising architect's office reported that it knows nothing of any change in the plans which would provide for the Grant street ramp.

Duggan declared that if the Seventh avenue plan is to be carried out, "it will mean a fight." He is waiting until he receives copies of the plan from Washington before taking any definite action, he said.

North Side Youth Held in Robberies

Accused of having robbed the poolroom and home of Joseph A. Profeta, 2846 Preble avenue, North Side, Anthony Simovitz, 17, of 2910 Preble avenue, was held for further investigation at a hearing in Morals Court yesterday. It was testified by police that the youth had entered the home and poolroom of his neighbor four times within the last year. According to detectives, the boy admitted three of the alleged robberies but denied the fourth.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

AIDES FOR CITY CLUB'S BRIDGE

HARRIET LaSALLE DORRANCE — LOUISE BAUSMAN — MARGARET PHILLIPS

Three members of Pittsburgh's younger society set who will serve as aides at the holiday bridge which the Woman's City Club will give in the William Penn Hotel Wednesday night.

Cinema Guild Sees Film, Siegfried

The Hotel Schenley ballroom attracted many members of the Cinema Guild last night, when "Siegfried," the second imported motion picture of the season, was shown. A French play and a Spanish film will be given on first Sunday nights in January and February.

Among those chatting with friends during intermission were the William A. Durkhams, with Mrs. Durkham wearing chanel red crepe and a black velvet hat. Mrs. Rose Natale Yost, who, with Leroy Bailey, is sponsoring the event, wore a beige lace and black velvet gown and a black velvet and ermine wrap, and a smart black velvet bicorne.

Others I noticed standing in the reception room were Miss Edith Gray, in orchid chiffon; Mrs. John Stevenson Patterson, in red crepe, and Mrs. George T. Bailey, in black chiffon.

Others who showed their interest in the guild were Mrs. W. Beddell Monro, Mrs. Raymond Willey, Mrs. A. P. Brill, Mrs. J. E. Lewis, Mrs. Selous Armour Person, Mrs. Harry Christian May, Jr., Mrs. W. C. Hicks, Mrs. Ferdinand T. Weil, Mrs. George Lippert, Mrs. Ernest Tenner Weir, Mrs. James Henry, Jr., Mrs. Dwight Coble, Mrs. Frank J. Kier and Mrs. Thomas D. Chantler.

* * *

The John Stevenson Pattersons, who have divided the past five or six years between Europe, New York and Pittsburgh, will move into their apartment in the Park Mansions shortly. Their son, George M. Harton, will join them, arriving home on Saturday from the Culver Military Academy.

Mrs. L. Blaine Snow, of Kinsman road, will entertain with a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club in honor of her daughter, Carolyn-Clare Snow, December 26. Invitations are out for the tea her aunt, Mrs. William D. Hamilton, will give Saturday, December 20, in the Twentieth Century Club to present her to society.

* * *

A dance for the younger set has just been added to the calendar for boys and girls who'll soon be home from school.

The Albert Burchfield Craigs, of Sewickley, will give a dance for their daughters, Henrietta and Mary Elizabeth, on Monday, December 29, in the Dorian Club, Sewickley.

* * *

Informal Luncheons

Today Mrs. Charles Wiley Davis is entertaining with a small luncheon in the Allegheny Country Club for Martha Leggate, debutante daughter of Thomas Leggate.

Tomorrow night, after the opening production of the Stage and Play Society in the Twentieth Century Club, the cast will entertain friends at a supper and a dance in the clubhouse.

* * *

Another event of tomorrow will be a luncheon Mrs. J. Boyd McKown and Mrs. Charles H. E. Succop will give in the Twentieth Century Club for Frances Kier and Jane Marshall, two debs of the season. On Thursday Mrs. Arthur E. Braun and her daughter, Elizabeth, will give a tea in their home, Warwick Terrace, Morewood Heights.

A dinner for the debs in honor of Virginia Drake, daughter of the J. Frank Drakes, will be given Saturday evening in the Pittsburgh Golf Club by Mrs. Julian Burdick. After the dinner, the guests will dance.

And on Saturday night the Junior Woman's Club of Sewickley will give a show in the Guild Hall.

Miss Mary Louise Hampton, daughter of William J. Hampton, of Portland street, has chosen January 17 as the date for her marriage to John C. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Peterson, of Wilkinsburg. The wedding will take place in the annex of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

* * *

December 18 is the date chosen by Miss Kathryn MacDonald, daughter of Mrs. Lyda J. MacDonald, of Bennett street, for her marriage to Dr. John C. Hartman, of North Braddock.

Wedding Date Set

Miss MacDonald has chosen Miss Marion Martin and Miss Hazel Thomas as her bridesmaids, and Mrs. George F. MacDonald as the matron of honor. Frank Hartman will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will include Dr. James S. Meharey and Dr. John R. MacDonald, brother of the bride-elect. Dr. George F. MacDonald will give his sister in marriage. The wedding is taking place at 8 o'clock in the evening in the MacDonald home.

Officiating will be the Rev. Dr. J. L. Grimm, of Glenwillard, uncle of the bride-elect, assisted by the Rev. Dr. George Taylor, Jr., of the First Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg.

SARTORIAL NOVELTIES DISCOVERED IN BACK OF THE NEW DECOLLETE

Sketched in Paris

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—All front and no back is about the most adequate description that can convey succinctly the type of frock favored by the women seen at the smartest gatherings. Most of the backs merely have straps covering the white, open spaces, others dispense with even that and hold up their dignity in a most mysterious manner. There is no denying the charm of these backless frocks and when worn by the right woman who is always quite unconscious of any startling sartorial novelty she may be wearing, the effect is simply grand and the essence of sophistication. These frocks are usually in black and velvet or satin is much liked as it moulds the figure so beautifully. It is most amusing to see at one gathering frocks of the utmost simplicity and others that just breathe worldliness, and both of them sartorially quite in the picture. Fashions without relating a vestige of her watchfulness or rigor, certainly is allowing us more freedom in the choice of our clothes provided that they can conform to certain requirements.

* * *

THE VERY SOPHISTICATED evening gown (to the left) is by Vionnet. The material is soft black satin. It moulds the figure over the bodice and hips, but trails in two wide godets in back. The wide shoulder straps across in back, suspender fashion, and meets the curving line of the bodice at either side of the V-shaped point.

* * *

THE OTHER DRESS, a recent model by Chanel, is the last word in smart simplicity. Dark blue tulle is the material used. It is worked in tiny hand-tucks running vertically from the decolletage to the first crisp little flounce. From there on the skirt flares in a wide sweep, flounce upon flounce to the instep. So crisp and stiff is the flare of the lower skirt, that one suspects a crinoline or buckram foundation, but whatever the medium, the effect is fine. The narrow belt of matching tulle is flat and is clasped with a jewelled buckle.

Voters in South Hills Collect Toys for Poor Children

That very busy unit, the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon League of Women Voters, is undertaking another new activity—the collection of reconditioned or new toys for Christmas distribution among needy families of the community. If the supply is greater than the demand, the surplus will be turned over to the Toy Mission.

This week's league meetings begin with the session of the Twenty-secenth Ward women this afternoon in Mrs. Albert Smith's home, Morrell street. As program there will be a discussion of "Ward Organization of the Political Parties" by Mrs. L. F. W. Hildner, Democrat, and Mrs. Walter McFarland, Republican.

A more than usually elaborate program has been prepared for tomorrow's meeting of the Twenty-sixth Ward League. It will be held in the American Legion Home and will be followed by a tea. Miss Edith Gunn, vocational counselor of Perry High School, will review Carrie Chapman Catt's "Woman Suffrage and Politics;" Mrs. H. C. Reller will tell of her trip through "The Land of the Midnight Sun;" Mrs. R. A. McKenny will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Sue R. Ford, and Mrs. W. H. Williams will give readings.

A benefit bridge breakfast is planned for Thursday by the Twelfth Ward members. It will take place in Mrs. Margaret Murray's home, Lincoln avenue.

The prohibition-discussion dinner of the Fourth Ward League is scheduled for Thursday in St. Peter's Parish House, Fifth and Craft avenue. As previously announced, the Rev. Albert Edward Day and Mrs. Carroll Miller are the speakers.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz will address the business women's group of the County League on Thursday evening in headquarters and will have "Taxes" as her subject.

* * *

At the forum supper tomorrow at Central Branch Y. W. C. A., the second in the Christmastide talks will be given by Mrs. Edna L. Ruse who will discuss "A Christmas Gift For Your Friend—a Book." Following Mrs. Ruse's talk, D. M. Angle, of the Literary Guild, will speak. Miss Margaret Milliken will again lead the group singing of Christmas carols, assisted by Miss Margaret Brockmeyer as accompanist.

Forum Supper

Plans are rapidly shaping up for the White Christmas program on December 18. All interested girls and women have been invited to join the Christmas chorus which is rehearsing every Tuesday and Thursday evening.

Tickets are on sale at all Y. W. C. A. branches for the lecture on unemployment to be given by Dr. Paul H. Douglas in the William Penn Hotel on Saturday.

The drama committee of the Twentieth Century Club will present two comedies, "For Summer For Winter," by Nancy Boyd, and "Jazz and Minuet," by Ruth Giorloff, on Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse.

Present Comedies

The committee is again conducting a play-writing contest among the club members and will produce the winning plays on Thursday, March 12. Manuscripts are to be submitted not later than January 15.

* * *

Mrs. Kenneth R. Cunningham is on the membership committee of the College Club, which is planning a tea for Thursday afternoon at the Craig street clubhouse. Mrs. Cunningham will be one of the hostesses for the affair, to which 1930 graduates of a number of colleges and universities have been invited.

Mrs. Kenneth R. Cunningham

The Ben Avon Woman's Club's Christmas party tomorrow will be in the home of Mrs. Roy Hardtmeyer with Mrs. James Webber in charge. There will be music by the club quartet, composed of Mrs. L. A. Hubach, Mrs. C. Fitzhugh Lee, Mrs. E. W. Flaccus and Mrs. Webber, and tea will be in charge of Mrs. J. W. Windsor, Mrs. Walter Ahlers, Mrs. F. C. Benner, Mrs. E. J. Carlisle and Mrs. J. H. Rudolf.

Deer Season Slowed By Absence of Snow

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 8.—Absence of snow the last three days has slowed deer hunting in Venango, Butler, Forest, Clarion and Warren counties, District Game Warden Herbert Beatty declared. In Venango County the kill for the first five days totaled 250, about 100 per cent increase over last year.

In other districts the kill, while heavy, is close to normal.

WOMEN OVER 40 FIND FEW JOBS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(United Press.)—The woman of over 40 during the present unemployment crisis is facing a difficult problem in finding a steady job and in keeping it, the annual report of the Women's Bureau revealed today.

The report, prepared by Miss Mary Anderson, director of the bureau, reviewed the many problems of women workers during the past year.

Miss Anderson emphasized the need of the bureau's further expansion to meet diversified demands, particularly in the matter of investigating hazards to women handling industrial poisons.

Another vital aspect of the unemployment situation investigated by the bureau in the past year is that connected with the substitution of machines for hand work, a study of this sort having been made among women employed at the cigar and cigaret industry in 11 states.

ARTIST, MOTHER DIE SAME DAY

Rolshoven had been seriously ill since he returned with his wife a month ago from Florence, Italy.

Rolshoven was best known in America and abroad as a portrait painter. He had made his home for many years in Florence, returning to this country at intervals.

Among his most famous works are "Chioggia Fishing Girl" and two etchings in the Cincinnati Museum.

Daughter Is Healthy Now

"My thirteen-year-old daughter Maxine was troubled with backache and pain when she came into womanhood. I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired. We are recommending the Vegetable Compound to other school girls who need it. IRISH TEAM WINS PLACE IN HISTORY

SEEMINGLY, THE ONLY mistake that some football followers made prior to last Saturday in rating Notre Dame the greatest team of the year was that they didn't go far enough. In spite of any feeble objections that may be heard from Alabama and Washington State, Knute Rockne's wonder team from South Bend must not only be ranked as the best of the present season, but it would be hard to convince many an old-timer that it wasn't also the greatest of any other year. Certainly there has been none to surpass it in the last decade, at least.

Knute Rockne

On their form of three weeks ago, there was no question in the mind of any person who had seen them in action that the Irish were superior to the Southern California foemen whom they were scheduled to meet in their final game. The only question was whether they had come through their tough battles with Northwestern and the Army without having more taken out of them than they could afford to lose, on top of the loss of Joe Savoldi and Larry Mullins. But what they did was to bob up stronger than ever, with the brilliance of Savoldi or Mullins more than matched by a belated sensation in the person of Paul (Bucky) O'Connor, playing fullback for the first time in his life, and to smash the Trojans in a manner of which even the most ardent supporters of the South Benders had never dreamed.

NOTRE DAME'S achievement of Saturday was of a kind that is generally found only in story books. It is a strain on the imagination to picture a team, with one perfect season behind it, going through the first nine games of a murderous schedule and winning them all in various places and different climates, losing an all-America fullback and his substitute as well, then traveling 2,500 miles into the toughest climate of all for non-resident athletes and crushing the most powerful scoring machine of the year by the astounding score of 27 to 0.

It is doubtful if such power, speed, versatility, deception, precision and defensive strength have ever been combined before in one team. Rarely, if ever, has an eleven coupled with such a whirlwind attack as Notre Dame's so much defensive class as to be able to hold Northwestern, Army and Southern California to a single touchdown in three hours of play, and that made only through a blocked kick. The Trojans, the greatest scoring machine of the year, never got to Notre Dame's 25-yard line until the final play of the game, and all told they gained only six yards more than did O'Connor alone for the Irish. It wasn't O'Connor, nor Schwartz, nor Caridco, nor Brill, nor anyone else that made Notre Dame so great throughout the season. It was team strength and perfection, the ability to get eleven men into every play, working as one. Perhaps at some time there has been a team to equal this one, but it is extremely doubtful. The Notre Dame team of 1930 and its wizard coach deserve a place all their own in the history of football.

THOUGH CARNEGIE TECH made it a 26-to-0 walkaway in the final stages, when Howard Eyth and his mates began to click as their man-power had promised in late September they would click all season, Wash-Jeff made a splendid showing up to that time and treated the spectators to a real fight in Pittsburgh's closing game.

It was unfortunate that the weather kept the attendance below the mark that had been hoped for, but that doesn't alter the fact that there is great deal of credit coming to both schools for the fine gesture they made for the sake of charity.

Howard Eyth

WALTER JOHNSON, manager of the Washington club, who was a Pittsburgh visitor a few days ago, is strongly opposed to night baseball. "It would be an absurdity in the major leagues," he says. "In the first place, the fans couldn't see the home-run wallops of Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson and other sluggers sail over the fences and land on the roofs of neighboring houses. Secondly, the speed-ball pitchers would strike out so many hitters that there would be a howl of protest. Games played at night will ruin young prospects who hope to come up to the majors. There is a vast difference between natural and artificial light in playing baseball, and I hope that playing under electric lamps will be discouraged. The major leagues, in my opinion, will not experiment with this new plan, which is harmful to the game."

ONE PHASE OF the lively ball controversy has been overlooked. The scores of college games appear to have been affected little or none by the advent of the rabbit pill. College baseball is a dead issue hereabouts, Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Duquesne, W. & J. and others having abandoned it, but the scores of some of Penn State's games, taken at random for a number of seasons do not appear to differ materially, regardless of the ball.

In the Lions' 1930 season, when they were coached for the last time by Hugo Bezdek, former Pirate manager, who will be succeeded next year by Joe Bedenk, they scored 8.76 runs per game against 5.3 by their opponents in a schedule of 15 contests. This total of 14 runs per game for both teams is slightly higher than the average for the seasons of 1921 and 1917, which were used for comparison, but lower than the average of 35 years ago, the seasons of 1894 and 1896, for instance.

IN 1894 PENN STATE scored seven runs per game and opponents made 9.43, for a total of 16.43. In 1896 State's total was 9 per game and opponets made 8.62 for a total of 17.62. The season of 1905, practically a decade later, shows 10.57 runs per game for State and only 2.85 for her opponents, a total of 13.42.

Hugo Bezdek

Another jump of 11 years, the season of 1916, and the lowest average of the years picked for comparison is found—5.91 per game for State and 3.35 for opponents, a total of 9.26.

IN 1917 THE figures were 7.33 for State and 4.55 for opponents. In 1921, one of the years in the Lions' long string of victories which extended over parts of three seasons, the average was 7.37 for State and 3.62 for opponents. The slightly higher figures for 1930, 14 runs per game, may be attributed in part to two games in which the scores were 23 to 10 and 20 to 7. Whether the relative difference in college hitting and college fielding has much to do with it is another question. Probably college hitting is a bit better relatively than college fielding. However, there appears to be a narrower range in the difference between college scores of the dead ball era and the persent than in comparative scores of major league games. Undoubtedly, one factor is the open spaces of the college playing fields. There are no bandbox parks on college campus baseball fields.

KINDNESS AND RESPECT for his players is the only "system" used by Orin (Babe) Hollingberry, coach of the Washington State football team which won the Pacific Coast Conference championship and will meet Alabama in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's Day. "I don't follow any system of strategy," he says. "Football is the same the country over—you either run with the ball or you pass it. I have my own ideas that I follow out. I'm still using plays in which I worked when I was a high school kid.

"I teach my players the fundamentals of offense and defense. I

TECH TACKLE HONORED ON FINE TEAM

By JESS CARVER.

Paced by the powerful Len Macaluso, the smart Barry Wood and battering Viviano in the backfields and by stalwarts such as Cary Carlmark, Tank Highberger, Clay Bromberg and Ben Ticknor on the line, many crack-a-jack footballers have paraded up and down the gridirons of the East this fall.

Tank Highberger

Selecting the best of 'em is like separating the wheat from the chaff with boxing gloves on your mitts.

Aside from Dartmouth, Colgate, Fordham and possibly the Army, there have been few outstanding elevens along the seaboard, and for that reason, it has been necessary to go far and wide in search of all-star stock. The trouble with that systeem is that the farther you go and the wider you search, the more material you dig up until the entire situation becomes so very muddled that you are tempted to get out the old hat, toss in the names and draw 'em out.

OPPOSITION COUNTS

One of the first things that should enter into the selection of an all-star player is the brand of opposition he has faced. The men on the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's All-Eastern eleven for this year have been through the fire, with one possible exception. Carlmark, Army's crack end, was on the shelf for a game or two with injuries, but his play in other contests, including the Notre Dame struggle, was of a high order and entitles him to the position he held on many selections a year ago.

The line would possess both weight and speed. It would be possibly stronger defensively than offensively, but, with Bromberg and Tracey in there to help with the interference, and Price and Highberger to protect and aid the ends, it would take a pretty good defense to smear up many plays.

Jerry Nemecek, Chick Meehan's N. Y. U. terminal ace, and Carl Carlmark are selected for the wing positions. Both are good offensive men, fine pass receivers and capable interferers. Nemecek played his best football against Carnegie Tech and Fordham. Carlmark starred against Notre Dame and Yale.

HIGHBERGER GOOD

Tank Highberger, Carnegie Tech's giant left tackle, has been underrated all season, but he has yet to turn in a bad ball game. He was one of the Skibo stars against Notre Dame, Temple and Georgia Tech. He assays slightly higher on the defense than on the attack.

Big John Price, of Army; Crehan, Dartmouth's hefty; Foley, of Fordham, and Bowstrom, of Navy, are other fine tackles. Price gets the edge, his playing been the most consistent and his experience, strength and speed the equal of any. He played a whale of a game against Notre Dame and Illinois.

Gay Bromberg is one of the best guards the East has developed in years. He is a hard, deadly tackler and fast enough to get into the interference. Tracey, of Fordham, was one of the mainstays of the Rams' fine line. He excels in offensive work.

BACKFIELD POWERFUL

It always is toughest to pick the backfields, for after you have one all set, along pops another player that looks just as sweet.

Barry Wood, Harvard's cool and calculating field general, an accurate passer, consistent kicker and no slouch as a ball-toter, did as good a job of quarterbacking as was done in the East. His sterling performances against Army and Yale stamped him as one of the elite.

IRISH ELEVEN TOPS NATION'S UNDEFEATED

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The most famous of football's spectacles, the Army-Navy game, resumed for charity after a four-year break, comes Saturday to give a final touch of color to the waning football season.

It will be played at the Yankee Stadium, New York, for the benefit of the Salvation Army's unemployment relief fund.

Navy's triumph over Pennsylvania Saturday has increased interest in the game. The midshipmen showed unsuspected strength as they gave the Quakers a 26-to-0 beating.

A victory over Penn still is not enough to place Navy on a par with its rival in the pre-game calculations. Although the Middies showed plenty of power and new reserve force, they have had only a mediocre season and beat a team which had had little more success while Army still can boast of having been beaten only by Notre Dame and tied by Yale.

The Cadets hold a place near the top of the Eastern ranking list, rivaling Colgate and Fordham for the highest honors.

COLGATE LEADS EAST

Colgate still holds the topmost position among the big colleges through Saturday's 7-6 victory over New York University. But it was only Len Macaluso's successful try for a point and Johnny Orsi's dash that blocked Jim Tanguay's placement in the closing minutes of the game that gave victory.

Western Maryland alone holds the lead in the Eastern standing as the only undefeated team. It defeated Maryland 7 to 0, Saturday, for its ninth victory of the season. It has been tied once, but has not lost a game since 1928.

NOTRE DAME BEST

The Rough Riders of Notre Dame head the nation's little band of undefeated and untied football teams. Only nine elevens have been able to tour through the campaign without encountering either defeat or tie.

Among these teams, Utah had the best offensive record with 340 points scored. Alabama permitted only 13 opposition points to lead defensively. The undefeated and untied list follows:

College	Won.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Notre Dame	10	265	74
Mount Morris (Ills.)	9	249	25
Alabama	9	247	13
Washington State	9	218	39
Carbondale (Ills.)	8	214	14
Utah	8	340	59
St. Olaf (Minn.)	8	202	32
Heidelberg (O.)	8	204	39
Fresno State (Cal.)	8	154	66

MAJORS READY FOR CONFABS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Baseball's leaders gathered in New York today for the annual mid-winter meetings of the National and American leagues. The selective draft, chain-store baseball and the lively ball threatened to cause the most discussion.

Although formal sessions of the two leagues begin tomorrow, two important conferences were on today's program. One of them was to bring together representatives of major league clubs and a committee from the minors for a discussion of the draft dispute. The other was a meeting of American League managers called by the league president, Ernest Barnard, to hear suggestions that might be of benefit to the league as a whole.

The lively ball has split the major league owners and managers into three distinct camps and all three probably will have lots to say before the meetings come to an end. In one group are those who favor the ball as it is; another includes those who would deaden the ball to end the home-run epidemic; still another would keep the ball as it is but end "pop-fly home runs" by limiting hits into certain sectors to two or three bases where they now go for home runs.

The National League will hold its annual meeting tomorrow and the American on Wednesday. A joint session of the two leagues will be held Thursday.

Dukes to Elect Football Captain

The Duquesne University football captain for next fall will be elected at the annual banquet to be held in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow night. Four stars are said to be in the running. They are Bud Devinney, quarterback; Paul Abele, end; Jack Ferrare, guard, and Jim O'Donnell, tackle.

Lou Little, Columbia coach, will be the principal speaker.

M'ALEER ILL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 8.—James R. McAleer, former big leaguer, yesterday found his wife dead in their apartment. She was a victim of heart trouble. The death was such a shock to McAlee he suffered a recurrence of an old ailment and is confined in a local hospital.

Chicago Plans To Welcome Rocknemen

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The University of Notre Dame has granted its Chicago alumni permission to extend the first official welcome to its all-conquering football team upon arrival here Wednesday from the subjugation of Southern California.

A short parade through the loop, headed by a band and police escort, will take up most of the hour allotted for the stop-over. The campus welcome may be extended at South Bend, Ind., at noon.

ROSENZWEIG ACCEPTS

Ted Rosenzweig, Carnegie Tech end, has accepted the bid to join the All-Eastern eleven which meets a team of picked Westerners in San Francisco New Year's Day in the annual Shriners' benefit game. Rosenzweig received his bid Saturday, after completing his varsity career at Carnegie. One and possibly two other Tech players may get bids.

MORGAN WHIPS BRIDGEVILLE

A number of shutouts marked yesterday's big-time soccer battles. Curry blanked Dunlevy, 1-0; Morgan whitewashed Bridgeville, 7-0, and Fintex Shannon bumped Cecil,, 5-0, in the outstanding contest.

In other games, Bower Hill beat Beadling, 1-0; Mollenauers tripped Horning, 3-2; Bridgmont nosed out Gladden, 6-5; National Tube walloped German Eagles, 4-0, and Fitz Henry won from Gratztown, 6-0.

Chicago Bowler Rolls Perfect 300 Score

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—J. Ward, of the Robert M. Sweitzer five of Chicago, rolled a perfect 300 game in the doubles event of the twelfth annual tournament of the Central States Bowlers' Association here yesterday. His three-game score was 654, and with the score of his partner, Strachen, boosted their total to 1,228 to land them sixth place.

BIG GAIN IN SANDLOT TIE

AUCHTER, WEST VIEW, ON DASH AGAINST OLYMPICS

EX-PITT STARS WIN, 7-0

HARRISBURG, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—A team of University of Pittsburgh football stars of the last two seasons, led by Ernie Lewis, former Steelton High School athlete, who held down a guard position on the Pitt eleven during the season recently closed, today had scored a 7 to 0 victory over a picked team of former college stars of Central Pennsylvania.

Hood, playing fullback for the Pittmen, held the interest of the spectators by hurling passes averaging 40 to 55 yards.

Basketball Rules Quiz

[This is the start of the second week of a daily feature which will take the basketball fans and players through a series of 24 problems such as may come up in any of the big games this winter. A better understanding and more enjoyment in what is going on during a contest will be gained by following this series closely.]

PLAY NO. 7.

In a game between Chicago and Ohio State, Stephenson, of Chicago, is dribbling down the floor. Fesler, of Ohio State, crowds over into such a position as to impede the progress of another Chicago player and the umpire blows his whistle and calls a foul on Fesler for blocking, although there has been no personal contact.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules that Fesler be charged with a personal foul in spite of the fact that there has been no personal contact. Blocking is impeding the progress of an opponent who does not have the ball and is the only one of its kind classified as "personal" where contact is not necessary. In all other cases it is a technical foul.

ROCKNE PRAISES SPIRIT OF IRISH CHAMPS

GRIM FIGHTING DEFEATS TROJANS

By KNUTE ROCKNE,
Notre Dame Coach,
Member All-American Board of Football.
(This U. S. Reg. Pat. Office)

This is an old saying, made famous by that fighting trainer of long ago, Mike Murphy. When the Notre Dame team last Wednesday morning rolled into Tucson and realized that Larry Mullins could not play against Southern California on Saturday, instead of becoming discouraged, it challenged its mettle and, when I moved Bucky O'Connor, a sub right halfback, to fullback, it sat down to work with a grimness and determination that would have done any coach's heart good.

O'Connor certainly came through, but his 10 teammates came along with him, and to pick out any outstanding players in the game is rather difficult.

CARIDEO THE MASTER

Carideo proved his thinking qualities early, immediately after Schwartz's forward pass to Conley. While blocking the previous play, he had noticed that the short flat zone was wide open, so, on first down, he had Schwartz throw him a short pass into that zone and scampered unmolested for the first touchdown.

A little later, on a simple reverse play, O'Connor, with Carideo, O'Brien, Metzger, Conley and Culver doing some excellent interfering, ran 80 yards for our second touchdown. This was all the scoring that happened in the first half, although, on a fake kick, Schwartz passed to Hanley for a touchdown, but one of the Notre Dame backs was offside and the play was called back.

The next score came early in the third quarter after a long run by Schwartz had brought the ball down to the 20-yard line. When it looked as if Southern California was to hold Notre Dame for downs, Schwartz shot a lateral pass off a fake spinner to O'Connor for a third touchdown. The last score came in the waning minutes of the game, when Lukats, a young sophomore, who had replaced Schwartz, catapulted himself off tackle for 20 yards.

IRISH AT BEST

The Notre Dame team played its best game of the year. It rose to dizzy heights and every lad has a right to feel proud of his performance. The outstanding players for Southern California were Arbelbide at end and Pinckert at halfback. These men gave as fine an exhibition of individual playing as I have seen this year.

Southern California somehow never got its offense to clicking. Whether this was due to the sturdy Notre Dame line and an alert Notre Dame backfield, or whether the team itself was a little off color, I cannot say.

The Notre Dame offense went along in great shape. First, because of Carideo's uncanny ability in sensing the Southern California weaknesses, secondly, because of some fine blocking, and, thirdly, because of the poise and determination of the Notre Dame ball-carriers.

Southern California played fine, steady ball, but it failed to rise to the heights. This lad Mohler is going to be a great football player in another year. All he needs is a little experience. He certainly is a dangerous back and had to be watched every second.

RAMBLERS USE HUDDLE

Notre Dame used the huddle for the first time this year. This was for two reasons, first, on account of the heat. It allowed the team to play somewhat more deliberately. The second reason was to carry along Bucky O'Connor, who wasn't absolutely sure of all his new assignments.

One of the features so far as I was concerned as a spectator was the remarkably quick thinking on the part of Duffield with the ball on Notre Dame's 30-yard line. Something miscued and the ball passed between Duffield and Musick and went rolling back about 20 yards. Duffield went back like a flash, and picking it up, without hesitation, he punted the ball for about 50 yards and tough-back. It was a classy bit of work.

PRAISES TROJANS

Of the 11 men who started the game for Notre Dame, seven were seniors who finished up their careers in a manner that was a delight to see. I am inclined to believe that Southern California had an off-day. But I take my hat off to them for their fine spirit, their fine sportsmanship and their fine, clean playing. They certainly have nothing to be ashamed of.

SCHWARTZ, NOTRE DAME, GETS AWAY BEHIND PERFECT BLOCKING

MACALUSO TOPS GRID SCORERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Although he scored only one point against New York University on Saturday, Len Macaluso, Colgate fullback, easily won the national individual football scoring championship, with a total of 145 points.

He scored 19 touchdowns, 28 points after touchdown and one field goal in 10 games. Mohler, of Southern California, was runner-up with 108 points.

PITT QUINTET SURPRISED

Dr. H. C. Carlson's slogan, with which he hoped to inspire his Pitt basketballers to the heights this year, of "Win 'em All" is just another slogan today. Western Reserve fixed things up swell for Doc and Pitt Saturday night, when the Clevelanders knocked off Dr. Carlson's Hyattless Panthers in very decisive fashion in the Stadium Pavilion before a crowd of visiting high school an college coaches and players.

The defeat of Pitt, coming as it did in the very first game of the season, at least will give Doc a fine working point. Now he can chirp about a "comeback" all season. No matter how the Panthers go for the rest of the season, Doc can point to the initial game, the defeat, and explain away anything that happens by blaming it on the poor start.

WHAT A LAUGH

Several of the boys throughout the country, including Fritz (Snark) Forscheimer, of this city, and Jimmy Corcoran, of Chicago, had hunches that Southern California would take Notre Dame.

The old master, Knute himself, fooled 'em all when he shifted young Bucky O'Connor to fullback, O'Connor never played fullback in his life previous to Saturday. The way he came through is not only a tribute to the sagacity of Rockne, but to the ability of Bucky himself to adapt himself to a new position.

The Tipoff

Jimmy McNeil played a whale of a game at end against Carnegie Tech Saturday afternoon as Wash-Jeff went topping down to a 26-0 defeat. Jimmy's play was above the general run of end play at all times. He was one of the bright spots in the Wash-Jeff defeat.

The crowd at the game in the Stadium was very disappointing. Just minutes before game time, there were so few people in the stands that it looked like a secret practice.

Those of us who had to sit through two of Southern California's triumphs over local teams in California last year, and hear that great U. S. C. band of 169 pieces play "Hail to U. S. C." after every touchdown, were quite gratified Saturday as we listened in over the radio to the Notre Dame victory to note that the great band was comparatively quiet. It's tough to get lost with a saxophone when your ball club is being kicked around as U. S. C. was.

Andy Kerr's great (?) Colgate eleven cannot be as hot as Andy would have us believe, in its two toughest tests, the best it has done is get a tie (with Michigan State) and win a single point verdict over Chick Meehan's none too hot New York University Violet eleven. The Violets gave the Colgaters a very, very stiff argument Saturday, tougher than Mr. Kerr was lookin for.

Navy's decisive triumph over Penn didn't do the big charity game with the Army in the Yankee Stadium, New York, this week any harm. The way in which the Middies hammered Penn Saturday, especially in the second half, indicates that the Sailors will have something on the ball this week besides a naval prayer. And if Army's attack is no more potent than it looked against Notre Dame a week back, I think Maj. Sasse will have a very, very busy afternoon.

It was a fine gesture on the part of the Carnegie Tech letter winners to select the popular Dutch Eyth honorary captain for the past season. Johnny Dreshar was the appointed captain, but the boys, realizing the tough time the speedy Dutch had, were generous enough to hand him a well-deserved honor.

After all, it's fellowship and the regard of our friends and co-workers that makes life worth living. That and a square meal a day.—JESS CARVER.

back, who goes equally well as a fullback or a half, is paired on with the versatile Clarke Hinkle, of Bucknell. What a sweet set of halfbacks this pair would make, especially when bolstered by such a rip-tearing, snorting, hammering, crushing (oh, the big brute!) fullbacker as Macaluso, Colgate's great whew!

PLENTY OF ENDS

Such a combination would come about as close to equaling the Notre Dame backfield when Savoldi was still unknown as a Benedict.

Say what you will about this quartet, but you can't deny it packs both speed and power. The boys haven't been overly successful at stopping any of the four this fall.

There are many other extremely creditable preformers at the wings. For ends, I offer Barres, of Yale; Harding, of Harvard; Riblett, of Penn, and young McNeil, of Wash-Jeff.

At the tackles, there are Crehan, of Dartmouth; Foley, of Fordham; Tully, of Pitt; Kemp, of Duquesne; Bowstrom, of Navy, and Klinger, of Temple.

RESERVES GOOD

Bromberg and Tracey would be well reserved with such chaps as Lineham, of Yale; Humber, of Army; Clark, of Duquesne; Stauffer, of Geneva, and Sofish, of Grove City; Crites, of West Virginia Wesleyan, and Dreshar, of Carnegie, to help out.

And what backs! Booth, of Yale; Hart, of Colgate; Pitt's fullback, Hood; Dutch Eyth, of Carnegie; Garbark, of Allegheny; Johnny Knapik, Geneva's jackrabbit; Hewitt, of Columbia; the alert Scalzi, of Georgetown; Trix Bennett, of Princeton; Jim Tanguay, of N. Y. U.; Battles, of West Virginia Wesleyan; Doggo Burns, of Duquesne; Hansen, of Temple, and Fields, of Army. There isn't a slouch in the list.

Because he is outstanding and has proved himself the inspiring leader of just an ordinary team, Ticknor, of Harvard, is awarded the captaincy of this team.

The captaincy and a dime, but why spoil it all?

Although battered and bruised as a result of their fierce fight in Cleveland Saturday night, in which they lost to the Indians, 5-4, in an overtime period, the Yellow Jacket puckmen all were able to participate in a light drill today in preparation for their clash with the Syracuse Stars at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

Syracuse is the only International League club which has not appeared here. Like the Jackets, the Stars got away to a poor start in the loop race only to come on with a rush after making several lineup replacements. In their last two starts the New York Staters have taken the measure of Detroit and Windsor, indicating that they will be able to give the locals plenty of opposition.

The game tomorrow will be the last league fray to be staged here until Friday, December 19, and another capacity crowd is expected to attend.

SYRACUSE, DETROIT WIN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The Syracuse Stars defeated the second-place Windsor Bulldogs, 3 to 1, in an International Hockey League game here last night. The locals rallied in the third period to triumph. The Cleveland Indians, badly battered in their game with Pittsburgh Saturday, were defeated by the Detroit Olympics, 2 to 1.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Tony Herrera

Eddie Anderson

Anderson, who has been working out here for several days, has impressed the fans with the dash and fire of his fighting style and plenty of pyrotechnics are looked for when he squares off against the youngster who only a few weeks ago knocked out Joe Glick, New York veteran, in the same ring. Anderson is a veteran who for the last half dozen years has been boxing the leading featherweights and lightweights from coast to coast.

Johnny Dunn, popular, clever New Kensington featherweight, of boxes Homer Ronan, of Newark, O., in the eight-round semi-final. Joey Speigel, of Uniontown, national junior amateur lightweight champion, makes his professional debut against Eddie Nelson, local Negro, who went to New York and made good in bouts at the armories, in the second bout, and Walter Ketchel, Detroit middleweight, who did some boxing around here last season, and Sunny Jim McVey, Negro, of Braddock, are in the opener.

Another boxing show also is on the cards for Western Pennsylvania fans tonight. It is billed for the Coliseum at Little Washington and consists of three eight-round bouts and a six-rounder. Young Rudy, of Charleroi, meets Jimmy McGraw, of Wheeling, in the windup. Larry (Kid) Kaufman, of Louisville, and Joe Canal, of Youngstown, are in the semi-final and Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., meets Jackie Powers of Canonsburg and Youngstown, in the first feature number. Jimmy Riley, of McKeesport, and Young Chapman, of Washington, are in the opener.

Between Rounds

The stage is set now for the big boxing show to be held in Motor Square Garden next Monday night for the benefit of the city's unemployed, with George Panka, of Homestead, and K. O. Christner, of Akron, heavyweights, appearing in the main bout. All of the boxers on the card will be paid and some of them will remit part of their purses for the worthy cause, while the Garden, which has arranged the show, will turn over the net receipts.

Ray Alvis, of Chicago, who manages Tony Herrera, also has under his wing Battling Bozo, the colorful light-heavyweight, of Birmingham, Ala., who recently has been doing things to the heavies. Bozo has a most unorthodox style, which has been termed "hash," because it combines a little of everything. He has had 160 bouts and claims he has had many styles, never having fought any two battles exactly the same way. His real name is James Curtis Hambright and he started out as a baseball player and then became a boxer when he scaled 126 pounds. He has boxed a draw with Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, and met a number of other notables, including Emmett Rocco, Yale Okun, Jimmy Byrne, Roy Wallace and Harry Dillon. He brands his delivery C. O. D.—meaning Crushing Others Down.

Ray Windbush has been matched to box William Jarick and Young Pace to meet Sam Esbirn in bouts on the amateur card at Columbus Hall, North Side, tomorrow night.

The amateur program at the Keystone A. C., Friday night of next week will see boxers of the Willow Club pitted against a team from the Sands A. C., of Uniontown.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, is rounding out his card for his Jackie Rodgers-Soldier Dombrowski show Friday night, while Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has signed Joey Dragon, of Cincinnati, to box Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the 10-round bout to go as a companion piece to his Frank Novak-Nick Perlick heavyweight battle for a double windup offering Thursday night. Meanwhile Ray Eberle has his card complete for his Nick-Polis-Charley Tarzan show in the Rialto Theater, Allquippa, Wednesday night.

Gridder Scores Winning Goal, Drops Dead

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(A.P.)—The football game was near an end with the score tied.

Ernst Hasloff intercepted the ball and scored a winning goal for his team yesterday.

He died almost immediately from a ruptured heart muscle.

A. P. SELECTS W. PA. TEAMS

Associated Press.

In the eyes of the coaches of Western Pennsylvania colleges, Garbark, of Allegheny, and Aultman and Knapik, of Geneva, are the most valuable football players to play on Class B elevens of the district in 1930. Carnegie Tech, Pitt and W. & J. were most included in the teams from which the selections were made.

They were selected for their positions on the All-Western Pennsylvania team by practically every coach to vote in the Associated Press poll of coaches. Two other very popular players with coaches were Cantoni and Scfish, Grove City's great guards.

Good quarterbacks were plentiful, but Wardle, of Thiel, the great aerial artist, and lauded by sports writers as one of the best field generals in the tri-state district, was first choice. McCarthy, of Duquesne, was given the signal-calling berth on the second team, and Grahame, of Geneva, was switched to a halfback beerth on the second squad.

The two teams as selected are:

Center—Lally, Duquesne.
Right Guard—Scfish, Grove City.
Right Tackle—Kinsch, Westminster.
Right End—Sullivan, St. Francis.
Quarterback—Wardle, Thiel.
Right Halfback—Garbark, Grove City.
Fullback—Garbark, Allegheny.

Center—Ramsey, Geneva.
Right Guard—Pusby, Waynesburg.
Right Tackle—Bengel, Geneva.
Right End—Pratt, Toronto.
Quarterback—McCarthy, Duquesne.
Right Halfback—Aultman, Duquesne.
Fullback—Myers, Thiel.

South Hills Caddie Fete, Bouts Tonight

By TOM BIRKS.

On a heavy field and under a drizzling rain, the McKeesport Olympics and West View played to a scoreless tie in the Independent Gridiron Conference yesterday afternoon at Rainbow Gardens.

The result of the game finds the Iverson aggregation with a 100-point lead over the Majestics, but the latter team has Ambridge yet to play, their game having been postponed yesterday at the Salt Works, the grounds being in bad shape.

MAY PLAY OFF

It is hardly possible that Manager Fred Iverson is tickled with the result of the West View game. Had the Olympics come out on top, they would have only had to tie the Majestics to win the gridiron title. Now if the Majestics beat Ambridge, and then the Majestic-Olympic game finishes in a tie, a playoff will face the teams.

It was announced between halves that the Majestics and Olympics will meet Sunday afternoon at Rainbow Gardens.

A fair-sized crowd lined the field when the game started, and it was a battle between two powerful lines. Both teams were within scoring distance. West View attempting two forward passes which fell in the end zone, and Dummer missed a field goal.

M'CURDY SHOWS WELL

Tom McCurdy played a great game for the Olympics, giving one of the greatest exhibitions of defensive end play seen in the district this season. Auchter was the outstanding star of West View and, had the Sharon boy played all season, he would surely have made the all-conference all-star team. Boots Klinzing and Zoltac were good in the Olympic backfield, Sapp on the line, while Dummer starred with Berkman for West View. The lineup:

Olympics—6.		West View—0.
McCurdy	L. E.	Burt
Costrella	L. G.	Scott
Sapp	C.	Fox
Minnick	C.	Mannix
Kaiets	R. G.	Keller

Substitutes — Olympics, Rice, Weston, Hovanack, McManus and Dunnenfield; West View, Graeber, Kenny and Hiatt. Referee—Rebele. Umpire—Robb. Head linesman—O'Connell.

Sport Vignettes

A lot of newsprint could have been saved this fall if everybody only had waited until after last Saturday and picked the Notre Dame eleven as the unanimous all-America team . . . . Whether it's Savoldi or Mullins or Hanley or O'Connor or Kosky or someone else, it's all the same . . . . What the Athletics and Babe Ruth are to baseball, what Bobby Jones was to golf, what Jack Dempsey was to boxing, that's what the Notre Dame eleven of 1930 was to football . . . . It goes down in history as the clickingest aggregation of football talent that ever clicked through the toughest schedule ever tossed together . . . . In this connection, can you imagine the embarrassment of the University of California enthusiasts who broadcast the info, that Southern California was the best "professional" team in the game, and then discovered, after Saturday's headache, that it wasn't? . . . . Maybe those 90,000 who saw the Trojans take it on the chin from the Irish now will admit that, after all, they do have earthquakes in California, the various chambers of commerce to the contrary notwithstanding.

Why is Mooney Wiseman like Will Rogers? . . . The answer, foolish, is that that he has a rope . . . Buck McTiernan, Swissvale ring star, and Joe Nied and Charley Greco are just back from a three days' hunting trip at Goshen camp in Clearfield County with two eighth-point and one six-point bucks . . . Seems that Buck's shooting eye is just as straight as his left jab and right cross . . . Our own George Seibel, president of the American Turnerbund, on Saturday night presented the Golden Wreath to the Philadelphia Turngeminde at a festive occasion in its hall in Philadelphia . . . The Golden Wreath is emblematic of the national gymnastic team championship and was put in competition in 1900 to be given into the permanent keeping of the first organization that won it three times . . . It has taken three decades for a team to snare it for its trophy room, and no wonder the Philadelphia Turners made such a big fuss over the achievement . . . Jack Johnson, 52-year-old ex-heavyweight champion, is schooling Tuffy Griffiths in boxing for the latter's bout with Young Stribling at the Chicago Stadium next Friday night.

Walter Levine, the doughty captain and star tackle of the Wash-Jeff team, which played such a fine game throughout the season; is on the lookout for a coaching job for next fall and would make a fine pickup for someone. . . . He has football sense. . . . Levine prepped at Lock Haven (Pa.) High School and played at Syracuse University during the freshman year. . . . Then he starred for three seasons on the W. & J. varsity. . . . What happens to a team when it loses four such stars as Charley Hyatt, Paul Zehfuss, Les Cohen and Eddie Baker was aptly demonstrated by the Pitt basketball team's crushing opening game defeat by Western Reserve University Saturday night.

The height of something or other is the Westminster College basketball squad. . . . Eleven of the 20 men are more than six feet tall. Here's a list of the big 'uns: . . . . Bill Williams, center, 6 feet 6 inches; Harry Brownlee, center, 6 feet 5 inches; Danny Considine, forward, 6 feet 5 inches; Marshall Fisher, guard, 6 feet 4½ inches; Charles Arthurs, center, 6 feet 4 inches; Mauno Siljander, forward, 6 feet 2 inches; William Douglass, forward, 6 feet 2 inches; William Armour, center, 6 feet 3 inches; Gerald Newton, forward, 6 feet 1 inch; Ted Blaner, guard, 6 feet 2 inches; Capt. Phil Rice, guard, 6 feet 3 inches. . . . And they call them Titans, too!—HARRY KECK.

Long's Sport Comment

give a lot of attention to the line. It's the line that wins football games. But the only real system I have is kindness and respect for my players. And for my model I have taken the coach of my high school team in San Francisco. His name is Billy Middleton, and he's still living out there.

"MIDDLETON NEVER UPBRAIDED any of us. I remember how he used to talk to us; how kindly he'd chat about the game. I used to go out wishing I had four lines to play against. I made up my mind that if I ever coached a football team I'd treat the players the way Middleton did. And I have."

Hollingberry is only the second coach to bring to Washington State the distinction of being chosen for a Tournament of Roses game. The first was W. H. (Lone Star) Dietz, former Carlisle Indian School star and now coach of the Haskell Indians. That was in the first Rose game in 1916, when the Cougars defeated Brown, 14 to 0.

IT ISN'T ONLY in baseball where Babe Ruth draws down an $80,000 salary annually, that extraordinary sport skill puts a particular star far ahead of his contemporaries in the matter of pay. Exceptional performers who stand out in other fields as Ruth does in baseball are relatively well rewarded in comparison with the rank and file of their profession. The horse racing game is no exception. The latest evidence of this is contained in the fact that Raymond (Sonny) Workman, who has supplanted Lavern Fator as the country's leading jockey on a percentage basis, has been given a riding contract by C. V. Whitney which calls for a salary of $22,500 in 1931 and 5 per cent of all purses won. This means an income of not less than $40,000 for Workman next season, the highest price ever paid to a jockey for first call on his services. In 1930 Sonny finished in the money with almost one-third of his mounts, a percentage record that is considered a truer measure of leadership than number of winners ridden. It won for him first ranking among the country's riders, and in the matter of salary made him the Babe Ruth of the turf.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Do You Laugh at 'Old Fogy Ideas' of Morality?

Do you think Being Good is for dim bulbs only?

And are you longing to bust loose and show the world how "smart" and daring you can be?

Then listen to Nita.

She, too, had those ideas . . . And she lived them—to the hilt.

And now . . . ? Read it for yourself.

"Dear Sally—

"I'm just another girl who has made a terrible mistake—and who would give 10 years of her life to be able to go back and live differently.

"I am 20 years old. My home life was always very unhappy, and entirely lacking in understanding and affection. I guess that's why I got started off wrong. I was starved for affection. But, of course, that isn't really any excuse. But being lonely and miserable, and not being taught much, did make me an 'easy mark.' That, and some of the ideas that I ran into . . . and accepted as the truth.

Wanted Companionship

"About a year ago, I met a wealthy man of 35. I knew he was married, but I thought that I loved him. And I laughed at the 'old fogy' ideas that people had about that making any difference. I was going to be 'free' and make my big grab for happiness. So I went out with him anyway.

"I blame myself entirely for what happened. I could have turned him down. But I was too smart to do that. I am not blaming anyone but myself. I was just a silly fool. Well, he put up the old line about his home life being just one long discord. Our friendship, he said, would be purely platonic, and I wouldn't be doing anybody any harm. Like a yap, I fell for that. I was starved for companionship and affection, so I started seeing him three or four times a week. I was just being a good Samaritan to a lonely man—then.

Realizes Mistake

But you know, of course, that couldn't last forever. It wasn't long before he told me that he loved me and that we should go away together and be happy. And I imagined myself madly in love with him. I know now I wasn't. It was only a desire for love that I felt, and was too dumb to know the difference. In short, I was flattered and infatuated. Well, this mad affair lasted for eight months, and by some miracle, no one ever found out about it. I left my position to work in his office so that we could be together more.

"It went on until a few weeks ago, when he went out of town on business, and I went home with a girl friend for a week end. And there I realized what an abandoned fool I had been. Because after introducing me to a boy of 24. And he was the finest, cleanest boy I had ever met. I had no idea that anyone like him existed.

"He was so clean-minded and sweet that I realized what an utter imbecile I had been. It was then that it came upon me suddenly that I didn't love this married man, and that I would almost given my soul if I had never seen him. I kept on seeing this boy, and in a little while I knew that I had fallen genuinely in love with him, and he with me.

"He has asked me to marry him, and I would give anything—anything!—if I could say yes. I almost did, and then I thought of what an awful break I would be giving him . . . a creature like me! And he believed in me! I feel lower than the gutter, when I think of it. I, a girl who brazenly broke up a home!

"I cried all night. And the next day I decided that he'd forget me and get over it, if I said no. So I laughed at him, and told him that I didn't care anything for him, but that when I married, I would marry for money. So he went away.

Right to Happiness

"But now I find that I am not strong enough to make this sacrifice. It is killing me. I keep thinking 'I could have given up the old life.' 'I could have really become the sort of girl he thinks I am.' Do you think I could? Is there any help for me? Would I be doing him a terrible wrong if I married him? Or do I have a right to happiness in spite of my past? I am desperate. Please help me. NITA.

Can a girl who has been a reckless fool be a good wife?

Why not?

Life, if it is anything at all, is growth. The very cells of our bodies are not the cells we had yesterday, or last year. And our hearts and our souls can grow into new fineness and health and beauty, just as our bodies can . . . if we want them to, and are willing to work and hustle to bring that new growth about.

We've all of us made mistakes, Nita. Perhaps not your mistake. But ones just as serious in their way. And most of us have left them behind us, and gone on to bigger and better things.

So stop clinging to your past and allowing it to stunt you. Break with it, and look ahead. Break with it, and be the new woman you want to be.

And then you'll have a right to love and happiness.

So crash into it, honey! How fine a woman you are depends on what you do today and tomorrow . . . not on what you did yesterday!

In Antiques Fay King Favors Mirrors That Have Reflected Other Lives

WHAT BELLES AND BEAUX YOU KNEW SO WELL!
FAY-KING
THE OLD MIRROR KNEW HER INTIMATELY
I MUST INVITE THEM BUT HOPE THEY SEND REGRETS!

By FAY KING

If I were going to pay a fabulous price for an antique, as many persons do, it seems to me I would prefer to own a mirror.

No doubt half the charm of a fine old antique is to sit and ponder on those to whom it many once have belonged. To reconstruct their lives.

Now I grant that a fine solid table is very nice with all its marks and scars of merry-making at its bounteous board. Still there is a great deal of pretense at dinners.

A fine old desk is reminiscent of romantic letters. But still so much is written that is not meant.

Dicky Reveals Why He "Butted In" on Party

We traversed several city blocks before Dicky spoke, and I found myself clutching the door handle at my side of the car with the suspense of waiting to know what he was going to do. I told myself that I was prepared for an outburst of temper, for lofty irony or for calmly ignoring of the contretemps of the evening, when he and Edith Fairfax had happened to come to the same restaurant where Philip Veritzen was giving an impromptu dinner party with me as the guest of honor. But when with a sardonic little chuckle he at last broke the silence, I could not restrain a little gasp of astonishment at his words.

"Well! I fancy I scored one on your revered employer this trip."

"Dicky," I could hardly get the words out. "What do you mean?"

"What I say. I rather spoiled his pretty little party, first by putting in an appearance at it, and second by taking away his leading lady just as he figured things might begin to get interesting."

"Do you mean that you knew we were at the Sign of the Scimitar, and came over there on purpose?"

"I mean just that, light of my life, and I am reveling in your present amazement. I flatter myself that I must have played my cards pretty well."

"But how did you—" I stopped short in confusion.

"Find out where you were? That was easy, called for no Sherlockian powers at all. When I arrived at the hotel, all hot and bothered because I had been rude to my frau, and I thought she was mad at me, I found her gone. 'Where?' said I to the room clerk, who professed ignorance of your destination, but volunteered that five people had accompanied you, the Underwoods, Mary, the gifted Mr. Veritzen and a strange young man, not known unto Joseph, otherwise the aforesaid room clerk. Whereupon, I said to myself, 'Aha! little wife is jealous, and she is getting even!' Then I began to figure where old Phil would sling a party. I know his penchant for foreign restaurants, and I was prepared to crash all the nifty ones in the downtown district, when I happened to spy Shields—you know—the motheaten former cabby who keeps his taxi near the hotel. He coughed up the fact that he had heard Mr. Veritzen direct his chauffeur to drive to The Sign of the Scimitar; and I proceeded to telephone Ede and plan an apparently accidental descent upon the place."

"And wasn't old P. V. sore behind that hospitable mask of his!" Dicky went on, as pleased with his prank as a small boy might be at a successful April Fool joke. "I could weep for him! All that orchid centerpiece, that nifty dinner wasted because the leading lady's husband butted in and coyly consented to share in the festivities. And when I took you away at the last—oh! boy I'm glad the old lad hasn't the power of the high justice, the middle and the low around here. I'd be safely hanged, drawn and quartered by now."

I had my cue now. I would have to use no particular finesse in talking to my husband. He was too pleased with himself to let anything trivial annoy him.

"It was a good trick," I acknowledged, "and honors are even. But I have got something far more important to discuss with you. I want your advice about the gifted Mr. Veritzen's latest activity concerning Mary."

Purposely I made my voice derogatory as I spoke my employer's name, and Dicky's tone changed at once to seriousness.

"Why! What has he been doing?" he asked.

"Of course, I don't know that Mary is the object of his espionage," I answered, "but I can't imagine what other idea he could have in mind."

"By the three toes of the crossword puzzler's pet sloth," Dicky exploded, "will you tell me what's on your mind? If that isn't you all over, start to tell something and then wander all over the map and back again. You're enough to drive me out of the few senses I have left after having lived with you all these years. Now begin again and tell me the story without any trimmings."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Confusion of Names

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please let me know which would be the correct way to address a letter to my son's wife? I am a widower, and, my name being John S. Smith, my son's name is John S. Smith, Jr.

I say that her letters should be addressed to "Mrs. John S. Smith, Jr., and not to "Mrs. John S. Smith," as people may not know that I am a widower, or may think I have married again. J. S.

You are correct. Your letters to your son's wife should be addressed to "Mrs. John S. Smith, Jr." Your son is Mr. John S. Smith, Jr. (or junior, if you spell the word with a small letter), and, therefore, his wife is Mrs. John S. Smith, Jr.

Housewarming Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been married three months and I would like to have a housewarming for my new home. Is it proper for me to send out invitations, or should I have one of my friends do so? F.

By all means send your own invitations to your own housewarming. Since you are giving the party you should send the invitations. And there is something about a housewarming invitation that is especially personal, and demands invitations from the hostess and host.

You may send the invitations in the form of notes if you wish, or you may send them on the Mr. and Mrs. cards of you and your husband. This invitation looks similar to a tea invitation. That is, below the name, for instance, you write the day, the date and the hours:

Sunday, December the third.
Four to seven.

HOUSEWARMING.

Or, as I say, if you have not these convenient "double" cards, you may write a note of invitation.

The Debutante's Corsage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a "Prom" and probably my escort will bring me a corsage. Please inform me as to what I shall say in regard to the acceptance of it? On which side shall I wear it? When dancing, is not inconvenient and if it is, what shall I do with it when I dance?

AN ADMIRER.

Thank your "beau" as you would for any other delightful courtesy that he shows you: "Thank you so much for these lovely flowers. How kind you were to think of bringing them to me," or "You were most kind to bring me these beautiful orchids. Thank you so much."

Wear them wherever they are becoming. It depends on the style of frock. While you are dancing you may, if you wish, leave them on the table or on your chair, if there is no table.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

A wife was worrying herself sick and contemplating divorce because her husband "stepped out" just once in their entire married life. I said for her to forget it and try to be happy. I explained why I thought that best.

Today, I get a red-hot letter from a woman who indicates that I am a spinster who would be glad to get any man, and oh lots and lots of awful things. What she would do to a husband of her's who sidestepped, is the business of every single man who knows her, and especially of her husband if she has one. Hear her . . .

"My Dear Leola Allard: I just read your articles concerning wife who worries when husband steps out and must voice my protest at once.

"Evidently you are a spinster and would be so glad to have a man that you would cheerfully share him with other women, but not so with the independent wives of America."

(Dear lady, I am NOT a spinster, I was never in need of male company, I wouldn't share my husband and I'm a very independent woman "of America." Outside of that you were right.)

"Do you think friend husband would follow your advice and be so sweetly reconciled to his wife should she deliberately lie to him and spend an evening out with another man? A great big NO. We American wives are not slaves and doormats any more.

"I am a wife and if my husband did that and I learned of it, I would make it so hot for him he would be like a hen on a hot griddle. I would spoil the after thrill at least."

(Lady, I'll bet you would! I hope your husband keeps on the narrow path and doesn't turn his head. Heaven help him if he tried to explain to you some innocent happening that looked bad. I'll bet he wouldn't get to second base. Poor devil! Did you ever hear of circumstantial evidence? Could anybody lead you to believe that sometimes things look a lot worse than they are? A man might be vamped by a "smouldering-eyed girl" as one wife wrote me last week, and she might get him in a corner and plant a kiss on his hair. Well, suppose, just suppose, the wife walked in? If you were the wife I suppose the man would be a hen and quickly consigned to the hot griddle.)

Perhaps you are younger than I am, and maybe harder. I've learned in the many years that I have lived, that you have to compromise with life early and often. Whenever I haven't done so I am the only one who has suffered for it. It never pays to be hard with offenders if they love you and don't really mean to offend.

I'm not offering any brief for offending husbands, madame, (I like that word madame for you), But I am saying that true love learns to forgive. I don't mean that men should "side step" and I don't mean that women should share their mates. But many a happy home has been broken up by a slight misstep which, when the wrecking was over, would have been gladly forgiven could the home be restored. I only argued that if you could forgive it was better to do so before the wrecking crew arrived.

I hope your husband never makes any kind of a mistake, even to leaving the morning paper on the floor. If he does, he needs prayers said for him.

Household Hints

When boiling turnips, add a teaspoonful of white sugar to the water to improve the flavor and lessen the odor.

To peel apples easily—Pour boiling water over apples which are to be cooked; they will peel much easier and it will save much time.

To make sweet milk sour, for cooking purposes, add a teaspoon of strong vinegar to a cup of milk and set it in a warm place for a few minutes.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Even the sharpest nail file will not make a perfect job. It does not clear away the delicate inner skin of the finger nail. After the metal file has been frictioned along the nail edge, clean the eave with an orange wood stick, and use the beveling file of emery paper. Employ the emery to dig up hangnails, but soak them first in warm soap suds. Clip off cutaneous shreds with sharp, needle-point scissors.

Speedy reducers must pause and consider. Best to drop off not more than two pounds a week. When fats, starches and sweets—builders of adipose tissue—are dropped from the menu, the facial tissues are the first to suffer. After 40 they haven't resiliency and go saggy. It is fat under the cutaneous covering that gives contour to the face, fills the cheeks, rounds out the chin, keeps the throat firm and solid. While reducing to the skinnowy shape, the face needs a great deal of oil, gentle massage at least once a day, and frequent applications of cold water.

There is no reason why any woman should endure superfluous hair upon lip or chin. The blemish can be removed by means of the electric needle, which does not inspire a new growth, as so many beauty wailers imagine. Properly done, the skin is not scarred. The method, however, is too slow and expensive to be used on legs that have developed fuzz.

Fears are demons that chase away the spirit of beauty. Women with color fear to clothe themselves in ugly, drab shades. Girls who fear what people will say are self-conscious and miserable. Some mothers are afraid to be friends with their own children. There is fear of illness, fears that stir the imagination and make for quarrels and misunderstandings, fear of losing one's loved ones. All fears are weakening and physically depressing. They crush good looks under cruel heels. They can be fought by the development of courage, which is a quality of beauty and glorifies the human phiz. Yes! That's it! Courage, backed by the ability to laugh things away.

How to Keep Well

Slouching Posture a Cause of Indigestion

Not long ago I wrote about food poisoning. I did not mention that indigestion may be caused by poor posture. This will amaze you, but, nevertheless, it is true. It may be the only cause for abdominal distress.

DR. COPELAND

Can you picture a West Pointer complaining of a headache, or dizziness or eructations after a meal. It is not because he wears a pretty uniform, but because he is taught the proper posture for his body, that he does not suffer from the evil effects of crowded abdominal organs.

When we stand erect the muscles of the abdomen are in their proper place. In this position they give the necessary support, not only to the abdomen, but to what is known as the "splanchnic circulation." The splanchnic circulation gives off the main blood supply to the stomach, liver, intestines and spleen. These are the organs that are so important in the proper digestion of food, and of the elimination of poisons. When we slouch or stand improperly we hinder this circulation.

I was at West Point recently and talking with the wife of an Army officer on this very subject. She told me how her husband, 25 years ago, insisted that she stand up like a cadet. He taught her the importance of "drawing in the stomach" and standing erect. For six months, she said, it required constant thought, but, after a while, that correct posture came to be second nature. Now she stands up like a major-general.

Headaches, nausea, "biliousness," lack of appetite, nervousness and habitual constipation, may be caused by poor posture. As we grow older these complaints become more frequent, for the muscles tend to relax.

It is of great importance that the advantage of proper posture be impressed upon the young. Children should be emphatically corrected wherever there is any tendency to poor posture. This should be the rule from earliest childhood. Do not expect the school teacher to do all the work. Correct and instruct your children at home as to proper posture and methods of walking.

Persons who slouch when sitting, are likely to walk in a careless fashion. They slump forward with the stomach thrown out, shoulders rounded, and the arms dangling in front of them. These same people know the proper method of walking, but either disregard it or are simply careless. Any change in the posture of such individuals results in beneficial changes. If you are one of these, why not change? Try walking with the chest well arched forward, the stomach in, head upright, chin in and the backbone straight.

If you have been a chronic sloucher, and for many years have disregarded these facts, do not be discouraged. It will be difficult at first, but with practice the proper posture can be acquired.

Answers to Health Queries

T. E. D. Q.—What causes bunions?

A.—Bunions are caused by the pressure of the shoe on the joint of the great toe, and until this pressure is relieved the bunions cannot be cured.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 9

Under the high solar stimulus to the planet Mars, or of initiative, boldness, resourcefulness and aggressiveness, virile and turbulent, there should be lively conditions to manipulate, especially in the direction of new plans, projects and adventures. These should be met with decision and prudence, if they be of personal initiative or enterprise, as matters in connection with employers or subject to dictation, are under adverse astral influence.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to go ahead on their own initiative during the year, as things of employment are not encouraging. New personal projects and propositions are under stimulus and promise of success.

A child born on this day should be bold, enterprising and resourceful, and should make a good success of all that it espouses of its own initiative. In employment it might encounter friction and difficulties.

NOW little appetites are BIG... with this new cereal

Men off to business, children to school, not only start, but finish days better with this new delicious hot cereal because it furnishes all the usual wheat food values, plus a new type natural bulk and roughage, "Vegetable Effect".

Tasty, tender, nut-like granules of whole wheat include tiny particles of vegetable cellulose (the same as vegetables and fruits themselves contain). An entirely new benefit in a hot breakfast food.

Commodities Show Slightly More Stability.

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

GRAIN PRICES are showing more stability, changes in other commodities are fairly evenly divided between advances and declines, the stock market has been inclined to droop but liquidation has not been extensive.

THE RECENT marking up of copper having worked reasonably satisfactory, the announced advance of a dollar a ton in certain steel products has aroused keen interest. The indications thus far are that the move will have beneficial effects. The steel industry notoriously has been operating on inadequate profit margins. When orders fell off, attempts were made to stimulate buying by offering price concessions. When others met the cuts, further reductions were resorted to by certain independents. And so it has gone on for months.

Such price cutting profits nobody in the end. Indeed, it has the effect of causing buyers to hold off in the hope that by so doing they will be able to take advantage of still lower quotations. If the steel industry should prove successful in its new policy, other industries suffering from unduly low prices will be encouraged to follow steel's example. Anything which can be done to raise commodities to fair price levels should be done. Many who considered it smart to steal a march upon rivals by granting concessions must be convinced by now that there is no permanent advantage in adopting such a course.

CHRISTMAS trade is running along in about the moderate volume expected. Very contradictory statements are made concerning retail prices. Some shoppers claim that things are as high as ever. Others declare they have found bargains plentiful.

My information is that New York stores noted for the reasonableness of their prices are doing a large business, but that other establishments, with the exception of a few ultra-exclusive ones, are doing rather poorly.

It often happens, however, that Christmas buying picks up with a rush just before Christmas. Hopes are still entertained that it may do so this year.

SEVERAL business men have asked me to make this suggestion:

Now that plans for coping with unemployment suffering have been organized, as a rule, functioning effectively, the newspapers should cease featuring unemployment on their front pages.

For example, President Hoover's recommendation that $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 be appropriated by Congress to expand public work was singled out by many newspapers as the one most important part of the President's whole message. Similarly, meetings of unemployment committees and the like are given big headlines.

"If the newspapers flaunt before the eyes of their readers every day unemployment and what is being done to meet it, they will frighten those who have jobs and cause them to curtail expenditures still more. It may have been necessary for the newspapers to play up unemployment problems in order to stimulate relief action. But that object has now been attained. The influence upon the public mind will be better if unemployment subjects be relegated to back pages and not kept hereafter on front pages."

THE TAIL END of the year cannot be expected to bring many developments of a cheerful nature. The probability is, rather, that more or less wreckage will come to the surface, both in the financial world and elsewhere. December - January failures are sure to be numerous.

Hopes are rising that when very large amounts of money are distributed on January 1 in the form of dividends and interest, reinvesting will be of sufficient volume to create new strength in the stock market. Said one experienced financial man:

OKLAHOMA OIL LAW UPHELD

TULSA, Dec. 8.—The Oklahoma Corporation Commission has denied applications of Century Petroleum Company and C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties Company to vacate the state oil curtailment schedule and also issued a blanket order demanding that wells operate four hours consecutively instead of intermittently.

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission's oil curtailment order has been defied by three companies. Century Petroleum Company, Marco Oil Company and Royalty and Oils, Inc., which serve notice they will flow wells wide open pending appeal to federal court.

FISK COMPANY TO REORGANIZE

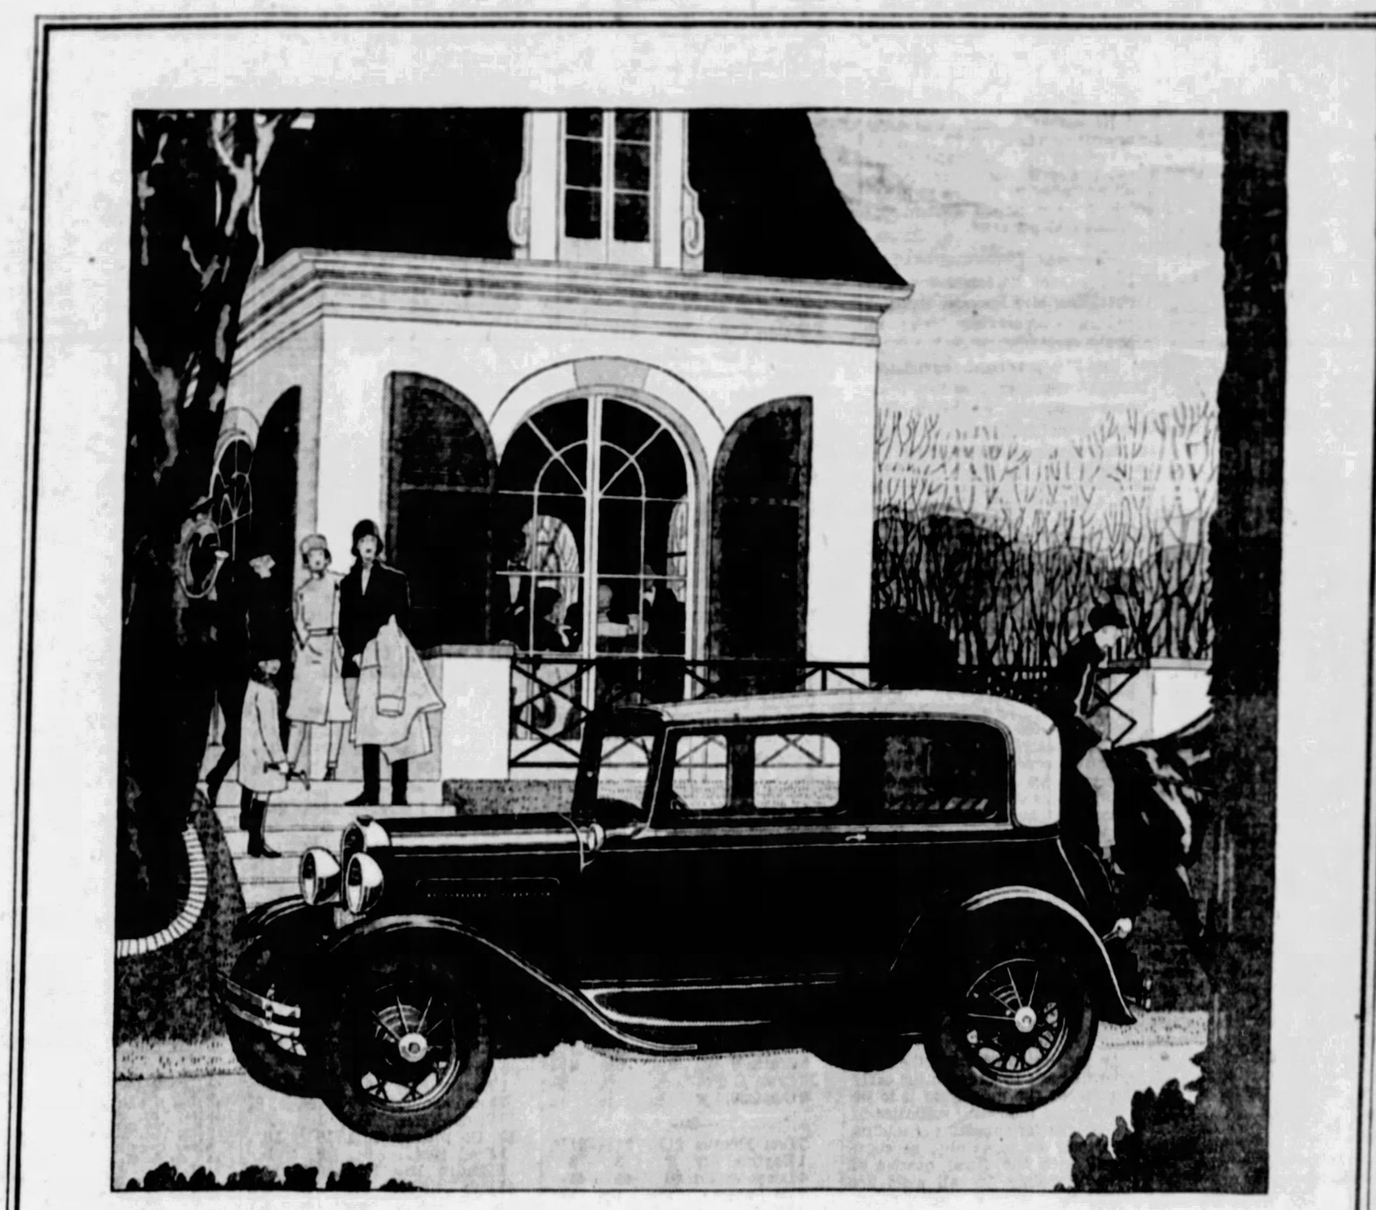
NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Steps toward a reorganization of the Fisk Rubber Company, whose working capital has been so depleted by the business depression that it finds impracticable a refunding of an $8,199,500 issue of 5½ per cent notes maturing January 1, were announced here today.

Three protective committees, representing holders of the company's stocks, bonds and notes, are being formed and with them the management said H. T. Dunn, president, will try to work out a reorganization which will maintain the company's position in the industry and restore its credit and earning power.

It is estimated that for the year ending December 31, operating loss, including write down of inventories, but before depreciation, interest and special reserves, will approximate $2,000,000, and after depreciation of $2,600,000, interest, etc., of $1,700,000, additional accounts receivable reserve of $500,000 and reserve for contingencies, will result in a total loss for the year of approximately $6,700,000.

ON DISPLAY TODAY

The Ford Victoria



A NEW FORD BODY TYPE OF DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY

TODAY, a new Ford body type of distinctive beauty is on display by Ford dealers in this city and throughout the United States. It is called the Victoria and is distinguished by many features of design, comfort and convenience. It marks a new degree of value in a low-price car.

The striking lines of the Ford Victoria are especially apparent in the graceful sweep of the straighter, lower top, the slanting windshield and the curving bustle back, with the spare wheel set at a conforming angle. There is a suggestion of continental design also in the shape and size of the side windows and the intimate four-passenger seating arrangement.

As you open the door and step within the car you will be impressed by the dignity and richness of its appointments. Many details of finish reflect the mode and manner of a custom-built automobile.

The ample, deeply cushioned seats are carefully tailored and upholstered in luxurious mohair or fashionable Bedford cord, optional with the purchaser. Both of the individual front seats have form-fitting backs and fold forward. The rear seat is low and comfortable, with side arm rests that contribute to easy riding. Satin-finish hardware gives a quiet touch of brightness.

Another appreciated feature of the new Ford Victoria is a choice of attractive body colors in rich pyroxylin lacquer. They complement its fresh new lines and contour and help to give it distinctive place on every highway.

See this beautiful new car today at the showrooms of the nearest Ford dealer and arrange for a road demonstration. You will find much to admire in its safety, comfort, and alert, capable performance.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD VICTORIA

Beautiful lines, colors and upholstery . . . ease of control . . . quick acceleration . . . 55 to 65 miles an hour . . . silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes . . . Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield . . . four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers . . . Rustless Steel . . . aluminum pistons . . . chrome silicon alloy valves . . . torque-tube drive . . . three-quarter floating rear axle . . . more than twenty ball and roller bearings . . . unusual accuracy in manufacturing . . . reliability and long life. . . . You will save many dollars because of the low first cost of the Ford and the low cost of operation.

STOCKS SLIDE AS SELLING INCREASES

Rail, Oil and Specialty Shares Retreat, Some Below Nov. 10 Minimum

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The stock market ran into sloppy weather at the beginning of the new week today.

The sprinkle of selling which appeared during the latter part of last week developed into a moderate downpour, and several of the rails, oil and specialty shares retreated to lower levels than those of November 10, when the market as a whole reached the year's minimums. Most of the pivotal shares, however, were well supported above their bottom prices.

Selling of the oil shares has been in response to Wall street rumors of further price reductions. Although pronounced progress has been made in curtailment of crude output, this is the lows consumption season, and the industry is still unsettled.

There were several items in the day's news, however, enhancing the prospects of stabilizing commodity prices. Javan and Cuban sugar producers have at last come to an agreement. The Department of Agriculture's efforts to induce farmers to feed wheat to livestock appear to be meeting with considerable success.

The department's estimate of the cotton crop as of December 1 was announced at 14,243,000 bales, a reduction of 197,000 bales from the estimate of a month previously, and 585,000 bales less than the crop of 1929.

The money market continued about stationary, with call loans officially at 2 per cent. The best commentary of the week-end on the short term credit situation was in the 1¾ per cent rate for the Treasury's offering of six-month bills, the best rate the Treasury has ever obtained.

Automobile Output Revised Downward

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has revised its original estimate on November automobile production in the United States and Canada to approximately 124,000 cars and trucks, compared with 154,585 in October and 226,997 in November, 1929, including the revised estimate. Production in the first 11 months of 1930 was 3,339,032 against 4,496,213 in the like 1929 period.

Chemical Company Calls More Bonds

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—American Agricultural Chemical Company has called an additional $1,000,000 first refunding 7½ per cent bonds for redemption on February 1, 1931, at 102½.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Wheat and corn averaged lower early today on dearth of buying orders, except from government-sponsored sources. Unfavorable harvest weather conditions both in Australia and Argentina failed to act as a counterbalance. Opening 1⅛@1¼c off to ⅛@¼c up. Chicago wheat later held steady. Corn started at 1¼c decline to ⅜c advance and subsequently showed a general setback.

Stock Exchange Topics

The Steel Corporation will make public its monthly report on unfilled orders as of the end of November at noon Wednesday.

While the usual unofficial forecasts have not yet begun to make their appearance, Wall Street is inclined to look for a further increase in the backlog of unfilled orders on the books of the corporation. This line of reasoning has its basis in the rate of output at the corporation's mills contracted perhaps a little more than the rate at which new business was received. At the end of October the company reported an increase of 57,425 tons, following two sharp declines in the months immediately preceding. In November, last year, an increase of 38,783 tons was reported in orders on the books but unfilled.

The stock exchange will probably make public its monthly statistics, showing the ratio of member borrowings to the total market value of listed securities, about the middle of this week. Undoubtedly a new level will be touched, judging from a comparison of the percentage of decline in open market values and in the total of loans in the course of the month. Taking total market values, exclusive of new listings during the month, it is indicated that these suffered a contraction of about 3½ per cent, which would bring total market values as of the end of November down to around $53,000,000,000 as compared with $55,025,710,617 at the end of October. Member borrowings in the same interval contracted by $295,875,085, or approximately 15½ per cent. The ratio of loans to values as of November 1, last, was 4.65 per cent as against 5.79 per cent on October 1. Indications are that the ratio on December 1 will probably be shown to have yielded to a figure somewhere around 4.10 per cent.

Directors of National Investors Corporation and Second National Investors Corporation voted to omit the semi-annual dividend due on the 5½ per cent cumulative preferred stock of the first mentioned unit, and quarterly dividend due on the $5 cumulative convertible preferred stock of the last mentioned corporation. Evidently the boards of these trusts are not in accord with the course of action taken by several investment trusts recently to insure payment of preferred dividends. Such action involved the writing down of the value of their stocks to create surplus necessary for the maintenance of such payments.

The value of new construction projects undertaken or contracted for in the 11 months to the end of November was $4,275,598,600, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. These figures cover projects awarded in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains, and show a decrease of about 21.4 per cent as compared with the total of $5,437,922,400 in new contracts placed in the corresponding period of 1929. For the month of November awards in the same territory, covering construction of all types, had a value of $253,573,700 as compared with $337,301,400 in October and with $391,012,500 in November, last year.

An indication of what the market will have to face in the early months of the new year is to be seen in the following estimates of fourth quarter earnings of leading industrial corporations, as compared with the final quarter of 1929. Earnings in all cases are adjusted to present capitalization. Air reduction, $1.50 in 1930, as compared with $2.02 in 1929; Bethlehem Steel, 25 cents against $2.59; General Electric, 50 cents against 58 cents; General Foods, 90 cents against 87 cents; General Motors, 30 cents against 53 cents; International Nickel, 11 cents; against 34 cents; Paramount, $1.60 against $1.81; Radio, 5 cents against 6 cents; Radio-Keith-Orpheum, 70 cents against 5 cents; Union Carbide, 90 cents against $1.23; U. S. Steel, $1.00 against $3.88; Westinghouse Electric, 75 cents against $2.82.

The financial community is still actively discussing the efforts which have been made thus far to bring about stability in products and commodities as well as in the stock market. Some of the plans which have been carried out have been practically ignored recently, but the point is being made that the important interests who have taken the lead in this program would not have decided upon action unless they were confident that the time had arrived and that the steps would prove successful.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Richfield Oil Company reports for quarter ended September 30, 1930, net loss of $302,532, after providing for taxes and all charges. Consolidated profit for nine months, after depreciation, depletion, interest charges, minority interest, etc., but before federal taxes, was $58,076, compared with net profit, exclusive of Richfield Oil Company of New York, of $6,472,340, after all charges and federal taxes, equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.05 a share on $1,947,000 common shares outstanding in the first nine months of 1929.

Future of Natural Gas Supply Assured

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WITHIN THE SHORT space of five years natural gas has been changed from a slowly dying business to the fastest growing type of public utility. Nearly all the engineering and financial aspects of the industry have been radically changed during this period.

Before the coming of this new era in the gas business, production was limited to a few localities. Reserves were large, but the general opinion was that they would gradually be exhausted and that the importance of natural gas would slowly decline. Most of the financing and the plans of the industry were made with this morbid attitude. Some of the gas companies actually used coal as a fuel to operate their pumps in an effort to make the supply of their product last as long as possible.

Natural gas was used only in communities close to producing fields. Engineers did not believe it possible to economically transport gas more than 200 miles.

New Gas Fields Found

ALMOST OVERNIGHT operating men, engineers, bankers and investors found it necessary to scrap nearly all their ideas about gas. They had to adjust their thoughts to an entirely new set of facts, diametrically opposed to their old ones.

New fields were discovered. Sources of natural gas were developed which assured the existence of the industry for generations to come. Gas was being produced in many districts in quantities far beyond the consumptive power of the immediate area.

The steel industry found new ways of making pipe. The cost of laying lines was materially reduced as lighter weight seamless tubing came on the market and cheap electric welded pipe was perfected. The limit of distance for the transportation of gas was raised from hundreds of miles to thousands of miles.

Production Increased

A FEW OF THE older companies in the industry began quietly expanding and increasing their profits in a highly satisfactory manner. Within a short time new capital and new interests flocked to the revived industry. The changes had come at an opportune time since new financing was exceptionally easy.

The results of this have been strikingly shown in the laying of a network of pipe lines throughout the country. In 1929 the natural gas industry sold 1,917,693 million cubic feet, an increase of 22 per cent over 1928. In spite of the business depression, another large increase is expected for the present year. The gains up to the present have been shown with many of the major pipe line projects still to be completed.

TWO SLAYINGS BAFFLE POLICE

admitted by the boys. They implicated Charles Sherman, 35, of 1014 Fifth avenue, who is serving a term in the workhouse for robbery, in the two holdups.

Search was being made by East End police and city detectives today for the thieves who robbed two stores in that section and made away with a Ford truck and merchandise valued at more than $400 between last night and early today.

Forcing a rear door, thieves entered the butter and egg store of B. M. Stein, at 940 North Lang avenue, early today and escaped with cheese, eggs and butter valued at $306.50.

WAREHOUSE ENTERED

Max Abramovitz, of 6323 Frankstown avenue, reported that intruders entered his warehouse on Flavel street, directly behind his store, and took furniture valued at nearly $100. At the same time the Roth Brothers, operating a meat market at 6335 Frankstown avenue, reported the loss of their truck. Police say the car was used to transport the loot.

Police today had no clue to the identity of the slayer of Martin Shaffer, 27, of Valley Heights, New Kensington, who died yesterday in Citizens General Hospital here. Shaffer, before he died, whispered to police that one of two holdup men had shot him.

Shaffer took his sister with whom he resided, Mrs. Paul Baugher, downtown Saturday night and agreed to meet her between Fourth and Fifth avenues, at 9:30 p. m. He told police he was waiting in his automobile for his sister's return when accosted by two holdup men, one of whom covered him with a revolver and fired a shot without warning.

An armed girl and two men accomplices who leaped from an automobile at Ward and Cato streets, Saturday night, and robbed Mrs. Pauline Cohen, of 3329 Ward street, after thrusting a revolver against her, were being sought.

Three unmasked armed men entered the Lincoln Restaurant, 3107 Penn avenue, shortly after 3 a. m. today, forced Gus Grandis, a waiter, and Mike James and James Compton, kitchen employes, into the kitchen and stole $50 from the cash register and two vending machines. They escaped in an automobile.

EIGHT LINED UP

Lining up eight persons in the clothing store of Samuel Krause, 1024 Braddock avenue, Braddock, two young men looted the cash register of $65 Saturday night. Krause was behind the counter and seven customers were in the place when the robbers, both armed, entered. They made no attempt to rob the customers.

Safecrackers visited the offices of Herbert Dimling, on the third floor of 801 Liberty avenue, forced open two safes and obtained $1,000, it was discovered yesterday, according to detectives.

Mrs. Margaret Edmundson, 40 of 2025 Rose street, was robbed of $3 by a Negro at Center avenue, near Calliope street, yesterday. A purse containing 50 cents was stolen from Mary Schaeffer, of 310 Paulson avenue, by a Negro purse snatcher while she was walking near her home Saturday night.

Clothing, jewelry and cash amounting to $1,000 were stolen from apartments of Mrs. Elvina Kennedy and Mrs. Henrietta Jacobs, at 728 James street. Other homes reported robbed were: William Blumentritt, 177 Knox avenue; Frank Feldman, 1714 Murray avenue; John Conley, 205 Fifty-fourth street; Kate Snyder, 1509 Beechview avenue; E. L. Weaver, 1406 Beechview avenue; Oliver Einstein, 5607 Darlington road; Mrs. Marie Bookhammer, 508 Arch street, and Selma Parker, 18 West Stockton avenue.

Shoes and rubbers valued at $110 were stolen from Mack's shoe store, 1232 Wylie avenue, by thieves who jimmied the cellar door.

STOCKINGS STOLEN

From the clothing store of Jacob Stein, at 4250 Second avenue, stockings valued at $12 and $1 in cash were stolen. The Independent Wallpaper Company store, at 108 East Ohio street, was ransacked.

Natrona police today were searching for thieves who broke the plate glass windows of Max Jubrin's clothing store, 55 River avenue; Charles Sweeney's drug store, Garfield avenue; Harry Diamond's drug store, Chestnut street, and A. Goldstein's five and 10 cent store, Center avenue, and, escaped with a quantity of loot. A cash register in the Goldstein store was broken and a small amount of change taken, police reported.

Stranger Talks to Connie About Unusual Note

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On the eve of her marriage to handsome Jim Tracey, vivacious Connie Calvert, rich society girl, receives a letter which causes her to leave her palatial home in Connecticut on a mysterious automobile drive to New York. Jim sees her. Connie stops at a cheap restaurant on the West Side and waits for someone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

Connie, as she waited at the table, surveyed the tawdry Tenth avenue restaurant with discerning, but now unafraid eyes. There were a few scattered couples at the tables; outwardly, they seemed respectable enough, but their spiritual emanations were hard. Tonight, though, Connie was hard herself.

For the first time in her life, she was called upon to face ugliness—the harsh, bitter test of personal disillusionment. At one stroke, the letter had wiped away the proud, almost smug, security of her social existence. With hellish cunning it had been timed to reach her on the eve of her wedding day.

While she was waiting she took the letter out and read it again. Written on plain paper, the handwriting was somewhat childlike, yet obscurely, antagonistically informative. Undoubtedly a woman had written it.

Threatening Letter

"I know all about you," it read. "I know more about you than you know about yourself—and if I ever spill what I know, it's going to raise hell with your happiness. You're going to marry a society fellow, I see by the newspapers. Your picture looked pretty swell. Little you know that I hold a terrible secret about you in the hollow of my hand. You've been living on the fat of the land when I've been taking the hard knocks all my life. It think it's time for a showdown and an even break between us. Don't get the idea that this is any fake stuff. Everything I got to say is on the level, and I can prove every bit of it. I've kept still long enough, and I'm going to break loose unless you see fit to do the right thing. It's all up to you, Miss Connie Calvert. You can ignore this and take the consequences or you can meet me tonight around 12 o'clock at Joe's place, 1536 Tenth avenue. All you have to do is come there alone and I'll make myself known to you. You can do as you damn please about it, whether you stay away or come, but rest assured that I'm not kidding you. Not for a minute. You can either meet me here or meet me in the courts.

K. C."

Connie folded up the letter and returned it to her handbag. The thing angered her. Anger, with a blind, helpless kind of distress. Back of the actual meaning of the words was some inherent reality that forbade her dismissing the threat as a mere scurrilous insult. Whoever had written it had meant business—Connie could sense it, feel it.

All of the combative essence of her nature rose to meet the challenge. Better by far to face it through now than to leave any lingering menace to rise up later to haunt her chance of happiness. Yet she was not thinking of herself exclusively, nor of Jim Tracy. Her mother, gentle and unsophisticated, was not going to be hurt by any dirty viciousness.

Connie's eyes, as she waited, grew sullen with contemptuous aversion for this place, for these people. Not fully, however, did she realize the desperate character of her surroundings. Her situation, she felt, was disagreeable—but not dangerous. Had she known more of the underworld, she probably would not have been here at all. . .

Discuss Plans

"I tell you, Kitty," the man said, levelly, "you're not going to get anywhere with this business handling it yourself. Blackmail's not your line. Let me talk to that girl."

He had white teeth, a dark, handsome face and brown, penetrating eyes. In build he was athletic, trim of waist and broad of shoulders. Under other circumstances and in different surroundings he might have passed for a gentleman, but here in a Tenth avenue joint he seemed stamped with the indefinite print of crime. His speech was hard, incisive; he was young, yet he radiated toughened maturity.

"What's the big idea, Duke? Do you think I'm brainless?"

"No, you've got plenty sense. It was a wise thing for you to tell me all about this, Kitty. You trust me, don't you?"

"Be yourself, Duke!"

"Well, then, let me handle this dame. You're a woman and your trouble is that you got your personal emotion mixed up with your cold purpose. You must remember that the other party has a side, too."

Sullen antagonism glinted in the girl's eyes—eyes that were strangely like Connie's. The young face might have been pretty had it not been drawn and hardened.

"Yeah—and how do I know that you might get soft on that hotsy totsy baby yourself? Maybe her class appeals to you. Suppose she puts it over on you—you'd be a fine egg to represent me, wouldn't you?"

"I'm not likely to fall for the dame," Duke smiled. "You ought to know me better than that, Kid. As a matter of fact, I think you've had an awful break, and I want to see you get every desire you can. Nine chances out of ten, if I let you handle this you'll muff everything. Oak?"

Connie Meets Stranger

Kitty's lips twisted. Then, impulsively—

"Oak!"

"You stick right here. I'll bring you two together after a while."

As he moved toward Connie's table his tread was gracefully light. A waiter, accidentally in his path, hastily slunk out of the way. A fragile blonde girl, sitting at a side table alone, looked at him with longing eyes. In another minute he was standing before Connie.

"Miss Calvert?"

Her eyes sought, instantly, to fathom him, but it was as though her gaze glanced off some highly polished surface. Immediately she knew that he was a new kind of man.

"Yes, I'm Miss Calvert," she said, her instinctive self-possession unruffled.

"May I sit down? I'm the person who expected you."

"About the letter?" she inquired.

"About the letter," he responded, smoothly.

"Yes, please sit down—I'm so interested," she said, with a trace of sarcasm.

"You'll be much more interested, I imagine, when you know the whole story." Duke Garson seated himself. "It's all very unusual."

"I thought blackmail was quite common, Mr. ——?"

"Garson—Duke Garson. This doesn't happen to be blackmail, though, Miss Calvert. It's much more serious."

"Is it?"

"It is. Sometimes there's nothing so unpleasant as facing the truth. And that's what you're up against, Miss Calvert—the very unpleasant truth."

DAILY TRUE STORY — Politics

"Politics, Tim?"

"What's the matter with the law business?" Grogan asked the young man who had nodded a response to his surprised inquiry.

"It's a good business, but I notice that the lawyers who have been successful in politics get the cream of the big concerns and big retainers."

"So it's a successful politician you want to be? Take my advice, Tim, it's not such a desirable way of getting along as you'd think."

"Tut, tut, my boy—politics is a sort of hobby with me. I like to sit back and see the wheels go 'round."

"And if they don't go 'round to suit you, you give a few orders and make them revolve to your liking. Well sir, I want to take up politics as a hobby, I would like a hobby that included an estate like yours and a bungalow on the Florida west coast and a log cabin up in Canada and such trifles."

"It can't be done in a few weeks or in one session of th' Legislature, Tim."

"You didn't start out in politics by being adviser to the governor, and the congressmen from your state, did you, sir?"

Dan shook his head.

Tim grinned at this.

"Grogan isn't a French name, is it? A man doesn't get far dancing this way and that to every breeze, like a weathervane. There's no one who can give me such good advice as you can, Mr. Grogan."

"What's the use to give you advice, Tim Carroll? You come here already determined to try and horn into politics and my advice to you to stay out means nothing to you."

Seeks Advice

"Sure I've decided to go into politics. I didn't come for advice about whether I should or shouldn't do that. I want your advice as to the best way to break into politics—and I want your help, your support."

Dan Grogan looked gravely at Tim Carroll.

"I've known you since you were a freckled kid wearin' your good old dad's cut-down pants, God rest his soul, and I'll do anything within reason for you, Tim. As it is, you put me in a rather embarrassing position. Joe Small has been to me for my support. Joe has always been a good henchman of ours. We owe him something. If I give you my open support Joe will be sore, and with reason. If I supported you secretly and as secretly knifed Joe, I'd be ashamed of myself."

'That's true,' Tim agreed.

"And what's more embarrassing is the fact that you and Joe are good friends. More embarrassing than that, if I'm not blind as a bat, both you and Joe are sweet on Nora."

'Most any young man is sweet on Nora if she smiles at him—she'd w[illegible] the heart of a granite statue, [illegible] Grogan."

"Well, you and Joe seem to have the inside track. I can't step in and decide for Nora, that's up to her. The only thing I can do is to sit back and let you two boys run your own campaign. Both of you can't be nominated for state attorney, but here's what I'll do—I'll say to our crowd, 'Hands off, give 'em both an even break,' and whichever one of you lads gets the nomination will be elected or Dan Grogan hasn't a grain of influence. By the way, what does Nora say about it?"

"I haven't asked her, Mr. Grogan."

Invited to Dinner

"Don't be coming to me for advice, Tim Carroll. Didn't I say I was on the fence in this?"

"I don't want advice, Mr. Grogan. I want some information about how much I ought to kick in to the organization fund and things like that."

That night when Grogan got home he found Tim there. He scowled at him. Nora saw this.

"Tim's paying me a social visit; no politics in this, Dad," she said. "I invited him to dinner."

"That's different, Tim," said Grogan.

"That reminds me, Joe Small is sending a turkey to all the men with big families in his district," Nora said.

"I forgot, Dad."

"A turkey is it Joe's sending? Well, I can do the same."

"And be a copy cat? What good will it do you now, Tim? Sure everyone will take your turkey and say, 'No thanks to him; he's doing it because Joe Small is doing it'."

"It's poor politics, letting your rival lead with a good idea—and we'll quit the subject," Grogan growled, because he realized that he had inadvertently given Tim some advice.

"Meaning that your verdict is I haven't a chance?"

"Exactly."

"You have a grand daughter, Mr. Grogan," Tim remarked, smiling at Nora.

Dan Grogan chuckled.

"See that, Nora," he said, "the lad is a diplomat. See the clever way he lets me know that he doesn't agree with me."

"Dad knows politics, Tim," Nora said, half pleadingly.

"I know a few myself, Nora."

"Tell me that after the primaries," Nora said, rather crossly.

Just before the primaries were held Grogan said to Nora: "Tim has given out his turkeys. I'll say he was wise to wait until the last minute, so the turkeys won't be forgotten."

"I know he has—plenty of people have spoken of Tim's turkeys in my hearing, but I didn't hear any shouting over Joe's turkeys."

On the day of the primaries Grogan asked Nora which one he should vote for.

"I'm not telling you—you'll think I'm in love with the one I ask you to vote for. How about you?"

"I'll not vote for either, I'm on the fence."

Grogan came home early. He shook hands with Tim.

Clever Trick

"Turkeys me foot—didn't Joe think of it first and send them out?"

"Yes, but he forgot to send out political turkeys, Mr. Grogan."

"Political turkeys? What's this nonsense?"

"My turkeys had politics in 'em," Tim said, earnestly.

"What do you mean, Tim?"

"Liquor?" Dan demanded.

"Good liquor, sir."

Big Dan Grogan got up and shook hands. He turned to Nora. "I was all wrong about Tim—he sure knows his politics, he's a smar-r-rt lad."

"Hush up, Tim!" Nora cried.

"—the truth is, 'twas Nora who tipped me to slip the pints into each turkey!"

And it wasn't until after Nora and Tim were married that she confessed to Tim that her father told her to tell him to slip a pint of "politics" inside each turkey!

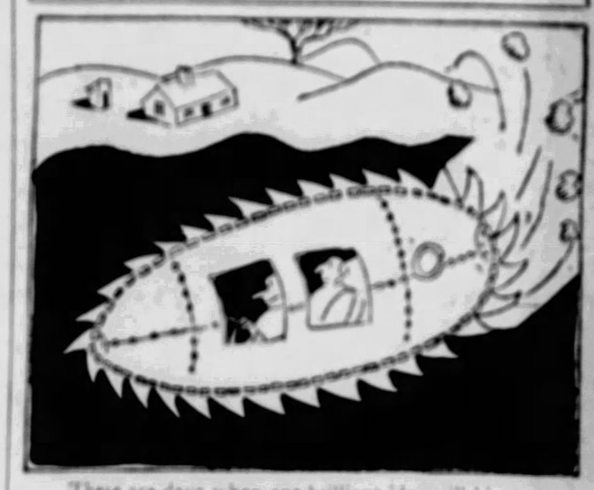
Traffic and Transportation Problem Solved!



These are days when one brilliant idea will blast a man from obscurity and suddenly hoist him to the dizzy heights of fame and fortune. Take the above invention, for example. It is the Sub-Buggy, which will go anywhere underground, making its own hole and covering same. Quick, comfortable travel without congesting traffic! No troublesome parachute to untangle in case of accident! The idea came to us from Mr. Milt Basham, of Long Beach. We immediately gallop to press with the announcement in hope that it will attract capital to manufacture and distribute these convenient vehicles. Our readers, of course, will be given preference in the matter of investing stock in the Sub-Buggy.

The Crime Emergency

Prudent Persons Will Prepare to be Held Up, and Carry Little Money, Especially at Night.

The cruel murder of the cashier of a Verona bank by a bandit on Saturday marks a new crest in the steadily rising tide of robbery in the Pittsburgh district. We suspect that no parallel can be found in the city's annals either for the frequency with which these crimes are being committed at the present time or for the desperate daring of the criminals. It is not too much to say that the community is confronted with a grave emergency.

To burn with anger and call on the police to shoot down the bandits as if they were dangerous wild beasts will accomplish nothing. It is better to study the problem coolly and dispassionately.

One way to discourage the robbers is to take every possible precaution that will make the robberies profit them little or nothing. Carry on your person and have in your place of business and home no more money than is necessary. Pay by check.

The advice to pay by check is especially applicable to large employers. Those who pay in cash are tempting prey to bandits on pay day.

Many persons are being held up nightly in the residential districts. Prudent persons will prepare to be held up and carry as little money as they can get along with. They will avoid strangers on lonely or deserted streets.

Prepared

There are few communities less militaristic in their outlook than Pittsburgh. Moreover, our interior location, hundreds of miles from the seaboard and the nation's other boundary lines, tends to give us a feeling of security.

It is gratifying to learn that notwithstanding these factors which turn our thoughts away from war we are not blind to the possibility of such a disaster, not neglectful of the national defense.

Maj. Gen. Harry L. Gilchrist, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, reported after a visit to some of Pittsburgh's industrial plants Saturday that they are ready to produce military material almost immediately if the call should come.

Grant that the call may never come.

But let us be glad that we are prepared.

A Gratifying Omission

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a bulletin on industrial conditions, based on reports from trade unions in 24 cities.

Mr. Green mentioned the cities in which conditions are worst. He said unemployment is highest in New York, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Birmingham, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago and Denver. In the building trades, he said, unemployment is particularly severe in Birmingham, Detroit, Paterson, Chicago, Atlanta, Cleveland, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

This confirms reports obtained by the Chamber of Commerce, through investigations made by the University of Pittsburgh, which show that business conditions in Pittsburgh are better than in most other communities.

With this flying start Pittsburgh is in position to take the lead in the recovery from the depression.

Without Justification

The American Petroleum Institute reports that an increase in the Pennsylvania gasoline tax probably will be sought at the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

It is to be hoped the institute has been misinformed. If not, it might be well for the people, through automobile associations, trade and civic bodies, to let it be known that they will not approve of any raise.

An increase in the impost is not needed to carry on the road program, and if there are legislators who hope through adding a cent or two to the gasoline tax to raise funds for other purposes they should be given to understand that such a move would be unpopular.

What suggests that such a move may be contemplated is the fact that similar agitation is being carried on elsewhere. New Jersey is already using part of its gasoline tax to meet amortization and interest payments on a bond issue for state buildings, and another part on the state department of commerce and navigation.

Louisiana has arranged to use part of its gasoline tax for public schools and part for port expenses. Mobile is considering a city tax of one cent a gallon to finance a civic auditorium.

Pennsylvanians should resist any such tendency.

Laundry Research

The Companies Which Wash Our Clothes Set an Example for Other Industries.

It was particularly appropriate that such a meeting should be held here, because the work that is to be carried on at the new plant was initiated in Pittsburgh in 1914 at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research.

The Mellon Institute will continue to study long-time laundry problems through a fellowship maintained by the national association. The researchers are seeking the answer to the question, "What are the factors that enter into the cleaning process?" They seek better soaps and other cleaning agents, soaps that can be used in hard water without loss of detergency, soaps that will not injure textile fabrics.

The launderers, profiting by this research, have steadily improved their methods, and plan to continue improving them as rapidly as the scientists tell them how it can be done.

Other industries might well follow the example of the progressive laundrymen.

GALILEO: CHAMPION OF SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

Galileo was a great scientist, who trembled upon the verge of anticipating some of the greater enunciations of Newton. Rejecting the formal methods of the Greeks in the study of nature, Galileo went direct to the fountain source. He had a scorn, not unmixed with amazement, for the mentalities which refused to be convinced by demonstration and experiment, preferring to rely upon the judgment of printed "authorities."

Writing to that other great astronomer, Kepler, Galileo trenchantly observed, "What would you say of the leading philosophers here to whom I have offered a thousand times of my own accord to show my studies, but who with the lazy obstinacy of a serpent who has eaten his full, have never consented to look at the planets, or moon, or telescope?

"Verily, just as serpents close their ears, so do men close their eyes to the light of truth. To such people philosophy is a kind of book, like the Aeneid or the Odyssey, where the truth is to be sought, not in the universe or in nature, but (I use their own words) by comparing texts!"

The germ of all modern science seems to be found in Galileo. He was richly human in his nature, broad in his culture. Unlike the earlier scientists, who were secretive and preferred to keep their discoveries to themselves, Galileo was argumentative, demonstrative by nature.

His principal desire was to make the truths of science prevail in the world. This he early showed in the philosophy classes he attended at the University of Pisa, where, because of his skill and obstinacy in argumentation, he acquired the name of the "wrangler."

The great battle which Galileo fought with the church and the authority which it represented, has rather obscured the actual contribution he made as a scientist. His early passion for science, against his parents' wishes, is illustrated by the story of his introduction to Euclid.

One day he stopped to listen outside the door of a room where Ostillo Ricci was lecturing on Euclid to his pupils. He remained there fascinated by the geometrical demonstrations, and continued these clandestine lessons, listening outside the door. At last he joined the class, and continued these geometrical studies until forbidden by his father. In the end, the father's objection was overcome, and Galileo embarked upon the twin studies of nature and mathematical analysis.

Familiar to all students of the history of science are Galileo's most spectacular discoveries: the law of falling bodies, the pendulum, the manufacture of telescopes, the discovery of four satellites of Mercury. Not so well known, however, is his discovery of the wonderful principle usually attributed to Newton.

It was a superb generalization, suggested by experiment, it is true, but actually a creation of the mind in the form of a universal principle. In his study of the action of bodies falling down an inclined plane, Galileo had shown that a ball rolling down one plane from a certain height would rebound up another to the same height.

Carrying this discovery to its ultimate consequence, Galileo surmised what would happen if the two planes were flattened out into one. He concluded that a ball once started on its motion and not losing speed by having to ascend vertically would roll on forever—unless stopped by retarding force, such as friction or some other external element.

Thus, it was Galileo who discovered the great and epochal principal of the law of inertia, for the formulation of which Newton has usually been credited.

Galileo will forever stand out in the annals of science as a great champion of the fundamental principles upon which science rests. He was so downright and outspoken that his admirable statement of the superiority of scientific truth over scriptural authority sounds almost naive.

If an apparent conflict arises between the two, Galileo frankly says: "Inasmuch as two truths cannot be contrary to each other, it becomes the office of wise expounders to labor till they find how to make the passages of Holy Writ concordant with those conclusions, of which either necessary demonstration or the evidence of our senses have made us sure and certain."

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

You say you can't understand women. You never know how to take them—never know what they'll be up to next.

Stop trying to understand women—as women. Think of them as you'd think of men. Judge them by the standards which you'd use with a man.

Time was when there was a tremendous chasm between man life and woman life. Nature had started the sexes out evenly enough—making them all of a piece—but society had molded the woman into something that was neither fish, flesh nor fowl. A perverted, parasitic creature, without legal rights, denied education or social experience, depending on man for her very right to live. Society had made woman live like a gopher and she thought like a gopher—circuitously, groping and conniving in the dark.

But that time has passed—much to the regret of many ladies who found it extremely convenient. Women are back where they started—sharing man life, getting whatever breaks he gets—with as good a chance to make themselves healthy, wealthy and wise.

There is no longer any reason for treating woman differently from a man . . . or for granting her special consideration or exemption.

There are no "sex distinctions" in man and woman nature. Her brain and emotions function exactly as his function. She loves as hard, hates as hard, thinks as straight—or as crooked. And, with sensible allowance for the temporary handicaps which motherhood imposes, she's as husky an animal as he, and as able to bear her share of work and responsibility.

As for woman's boasted "intuition"—it's the bunk. Intuition is merely a woman's catch-as-catch-can way of reasoning—a technique which she developed in her long generations of gophering. Sometimes that technique is amazingly successful, and we conclude that the lady is Boojum because we cannot follow her processes, step by step. There is nothing occult about it, however.

She has merely jumped to the point faster and more recklessly than the male dares do with his more cautious and conservative training. Which fact any man would instantly recognize if he were dealing with another man instead of a "mysterious" woman.

Most of the misery between men and women is due to this tradition of "mystery." A man will stand dishonesty, cowardice, laziness, disloyalty and stupidity from a woman which he wouldn't tolerate from a man for 10 seconds, because she's "different." He cannot yet realize that there isn't a particle of difference between male and female cussedness—that they both have the same source and can be cured by the same methods.

And usually, he doesn't want to realize it! Nothing tickles male egotism more than to think that the Dear Little Woman is less than the dust beneath his chariot wheels. And he'll stand any amount of abuse, in order to maintain this pleasing delusion. Which—never fear! the Dear Little Woman understands perfectly and banks on accordingly!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

To Gain a Friend

To gain a friend means something more
Than just another open door,
Another pleasant place to go;
All these are good, but in the end
He gains much else who gains a friend.

He gains an eager, outstretched hand,
A heart and mind which understand
With friendship goes a cheering smile

He gains with every friendship true
A source of inspiration new;
More joy creeps into every hour,
More faith lifts up its perfect flower.

Imported Lovers

Most of our lovers, like most of our fashions and perfumes, are being imported these days.

* * *

America can boast the best shoes, the best plumbing, the best green corn and the best heated houses in the world. Yes, and the best husbands! In all things useful and practical, she is unexcelled. But when it comes to the FRILLS—like perfumes and styles and lovers, she has to IMPORT them!

* * *

"Why do you ask 'Where is America's Lover'?" writes a screen fan. "Have you never seen Maurice Chevalier—that pluperfect lover?"

* * *

Yes, dear Heart! I've seen the enchanting Maurice. But he is a FRENCHMAN.

* * *

* * *

And Nils Asther, the Swedish screen lover! And the late Leo Dietrichstein, great stage lover—from Germany.

* * *

And Clive Brook and Lewis Stone and Philip Merrivale—lovers ALL! And all imported from ENGLAND.

* * *

* * *

* * *

Come, all you screen fans and matinee girls, TELL me. If you are keeping the Great American Lover hidden somewhere, bring him out into the light.

The truth is that we are a nation of comedians and hard-boiled business men. We do not specialize in the art of love. Our men regard love-making as a weakness, and blush and grow self-conscious when they catch themselves being sentimental or romantic.

* * *

Our young men are all too busy "being FUNNY" and making wisecracks to make love convincingly. And, our Tired Business Men are all too busy making money!

* * *

As a husband and father, the American businessman is the best in the world; and we will cheerfully enter him in any "International Contest" for the Blue Ribbon. But, as a LOVER, he is about as thrilling as a plate of cold soup! As subtle as a fire siren! As graceful as a blimp!

* * *

Yet, the American woman MUST have her romance—even if she has to take it vicariously! Hence, all these IMPORTED lovers of the screen and stage.

* * *

Think It Over

Drawn by Hal Coffman.

Fashion has adopted the question mark. In Paris, where styles begin, hats, shawls, purses, handkerchiefs are all being adorned with "?"

For once fashion, usually stupid, has an IDEA.

The tired, neurasthenic clerk asks, with the droop of his shoulders, "Will I hold my job?"

The breadliner, "Will I eat?"

The man of affairs, "Will I succeed?"

The capitalist, "Will I make more, or lose what I have?"

The young girl, or the married woman, "Does he love me?"

All ask some question, mutely, but fervently. For life itself is a question, and perhaps death also.

No question is ever completely answered. Yet to seek the answer fearlessly and faithfully is man's lot, and his greatest privilege as well, if he but knew it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early up, it being six years come eventide since I have been dizzy from alcohol. So wandering through the town, passing John Golden, Lou Holz and the dancing lady Adele Astair along the way and browsing through the early American wing of the Metropolitan.

In the afternoon to the St. Moritz to see the Ted Cooks who have found an ancient manor down Washington Square way to their liking and may remain East all winter. Home in the late afternoon and the Sealyham had chewed another hole in the carpet but contrite withal.

Reading my mail and came two hilarious stories from the jongleur Gene Markey which I wish I might print. And so in the thickening dusk with my wife to dine and suddenly struck by a notion to visit Gansemayer's for roast goose. And did.

* * *

Gansemayer's is, I believe, New York's oldest restaurant. It was opened long before the Civil War on the lower East Side and is mellow with tradition. Among early patrons were Millard Fillmore, Zachary Taylor and Winfield Scott, who in the smitching glow of oil lamps, sipped old ale.

It has moved about considerable since those days but has never gone beyond Union Square. In a section deserted after nightfall it continues to remain open until nine in the evening and while not crowded, save at luncheon, usually is comfortably filled with those who enjoy dining quietly.

The original owner was a man named Simon Mayer. His reputation for roasting geese became so established he was called "Goose" Mayer and out of this was coined the restaurant's name Gansemayer—a combination of the Yiddish for goose and the owner's name.

* * *

To Gansemayer's come bewhiskered gentlemen with walks remindful of push cart days whose language is pure Yiddish. Also fat men with diamond rings who eat heavily and sit about afterward tapping paunches with their fist as though stuffed as tight as the geese they devoured.

* * *

* * *

One of the Broadway luncheon clubs is called the Wednesday Culture Club, so named according to its sponsors because it has no culture and meets on Friday.

* * *

In a club the other evening they were discussing the growing number of lily-like ladies who neither toil nor spin. "There is not a building in New York," declared one, "that does not contain its quota of kept women."

"Did you look in at the Old Soldier's Home?" suggested that old cynic C. B. Driscoll, from a gloomy corner.

* * *

One of the perplexities of dining out these days is the sudden sissiness of salads. It is almost impossible to find any not smothered with whip cream or some other gooey atrocity with a center suggesting a set of discarded dress shields. Salads should be strongly pungent of onions, vinegar and garlic and something better be done pretty quick.

* * *

* * *

A New York newspaper speaks of "a poor little boy with only two suits of clothes." In our town we did not judge poverty by clothes. A boy was only considered poor when he had the itch or was sent home from school with sore eyes.

* * *

The poorest boy back home lived on a river coal float and was the meanest of all the harumscarems. He had a particular aversion for me. It was my fortunate privelege one day to carry the purple gilt lettered banner in the Al G. Field minstrel parade. A high breeze sprung up during the progress of the march. In turning a crowded corner the banner puffed out like a bellying sail and I was carried skimming along on tip-toe. From the top of an ice wagon the meanest boy yelled: "Sic him, wind!"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Now you are self-centered and whom you hurt concerns you little.

But have you not indulged your selfish spirit so long that you now possess very little sympathy for other people and your only thought is to crush everything that impedes your progress?

The way you drive your automobile is a fair sample of your feeling when you edge in and drive other cars to the side.

Most of the time you are fighting mad at somebody or something.

You become angry if opposed in any way.

Much of the best in you has disappeared, due as you think, to city life.

But there are persons born and bred in the city who are kind, polite and considerate. If you lack that spirit now you never had the real thing and living in the city only shows your true colors.
